Emergency of Purpose.

Energy of purpose, decision of character, and an ardent desire of becoming useful, should characterize every lover of justice and of right. Among the millions of created intelligences that inhabit this globe, how few are there possessing the powers of reasoning, judging and comparing, who are willing to throw off the shackles of ignorance and prejudice to enlist under the banner of perseverance and march manfully against the foes of improvement?

One fireman, while ascending a ladder, fell from the third story of a building and was dreadfully injured about the head. He was conveyed to the Hospital.

The sparks were blown in every direction, and the roofs of buildings, for two or three squares, were set on fire in many places, but were extinguished before the flames obtained much headway.

In the Chinese Museum, one noble fireman was playing a side stream, when an adjoining wall fell and knocked him down, considerably injuring him.

A horse belonging to the Circus Company was so much frightened that he would not leave the enclosure, and the man had to put a rope around his neck to pull him out.

The whole conflagration presented a scene of unsurpassed grandeur as the flames lit up the heavens in lurid flames, and shot athwart the sky in all the brilliancy of their frightful heavings.

We learn from an authentic source that the fire was caused by an incendiary having set fire to the carpenter shop of the National Theatre.

Our noble and daring firemen stood up manfully, notwithstanding the intense heat, and battled heroically with the flames.

The magnificent pictures of Mr. Earle's Gallery, No. 216 Chestnut street, were entirely consumed, or so much damaged as to render them of no avail to the community.

The magnificent stock of Mrs. Evan's No. 214, was damaged to such an extent as to be entirely useless.

Houses Nos. 49, 47, 51, on George street; Oston's Waverly Hotel, N. W. corner of Eighth and George streets; the Bell tavern, adjoining; the Hotel of Samuel Schoor, under which the Jewelry store of George R. Fisher; adjoining which the store of R. E. Murphy, were all in flames.

A very respectable looking man ascended the ladder of the Empire Hook and Ladder Company, lost his hold and fell to the ground.

Actual Conflagration.

Philadelphia, July 6.—At 10 o'clock last night, the National Theatre was accidentally set on fire, and in a few minutes the whole building was enveloped in flames.

The firemen were immediately on the spot, but before they could bring their apparatus to bear upon the burning building, the flames had spread with great velocity to the adjoining property, and had defied to every exertion put forth by the noble firemen.

The Girard House also caught under the cornice, and was soon enveloped in flames.

The Chinese Museum also caught on fire, and was totally consumed with all its contents.

There were also a number of buildings adjoining soon wrapped in flames, and despite the utmost efforts of the firemen and citizens, they were also destroyed.

The sparks were blown in every direction, and the roofs of buildings, for two or three squares, were set on fire in many places, but were extinguished before the flames obtained much headway.

A Probable Kidnapper.

When a man is accused of being somebody's chattel, according to the laws, not of the United States, for they know no human chattels; much less those of Nature, or of Nature's God, but of Virginia, Alabama, or some other barbarian State wherewith we are unhappily connected, there is a prompt mustering and hurrying of all the forces of the Union to throttle the man guilty of having been robbed of his liberty from birth, and force him back into everlasting bondage.

But when a man-stealing kidnapper is detected and denounced—one who has stolen a freeman and sold him into everlasting bondage for paltry gain—we see no such alacrity, no such zeal, no such array of force, summoned to consign him to the punishment which the laws even of slaveholding States provide for him. Is this fair?

We learn that Morrill, the alleged kidnapper of Solomon Northrup, a free colored citizen of this State, who was formerly subjected to twelve years of inhuman bondage and suffering as a slave in Louisiana, was yesterday morning arrested near Gloversville in Fulton county, and fully identified by Northrup as the villain who stole and sold him into Slavery. We presume there can be little or no doubt of his guilt.

SANTA ANNA'S SEVEN MILLION CHECK. The seven millions, for which Gen. Almonte received a check, will it be sent not go back to Mexico, but be forwarded to England. Two and a half millions are for British creditors. Bankers in Mexico have advanced, from time to time, money necessary for Santa Anna's purposes, and taken bills for the same.

WORTH KNOWING.—The Wheeling papers state that a few days ago, a man named John Coyle, while mowing grass, was bitten by a large copperhead snake—its fangs penetrated the foot and remained in it. He immediately applied tobacco to the wound and no bad consequences followed the bite.

Enforcing the Law.

The Bigger papers are loud in their praise of the Message of His Excellency, vetoing the bill for commuting the penalty incurred by the Railroad Companies, for violating the law against small notes.

The argument of the veto is, that it would be wrong to intercept the flow of justice, or to stay the penalty of the law. The rule is, in the law correct; but, like all others, liable to an exception.

But while inflicting an odious and onerous penalty in one case, with inflexible rigor, how has His Excellency acted in others? For the crime of kidnapping, he has pardoned an Alberti. For the crime of violating the peace, he has pardoned the Phoenixville rioters.

For the crime of stealing away Rachel and Elizabeth Parker, and selling them to slavery he has permitted a McCree to go free and the sovereignty of our State to be trampled under foot.

These are the monuments of Governor Bigler's impartiality in the administration of the laws! What deed in the calendar of crime—felony, counterfeiting, arson or murder—has not been released of its penalty by this immaculate Governor, who now lifts his hands in holy horror at a bill for relieving a corporation from penalties for doing that which few members of the community have not been doing with impunity!

What honest motive could actuate the Governor in a lavish exercise of the pardoning power in favor of high State criminals, and notorious felons, and a refusal even to abate the penalty, where, in the opinion of all impartial men, no intentional wrong was perpetrated?—Village Record.

A Minister Tarr'd and Feather'd.

A few months since, a man who claims to be a Methodist preacher, and who lives near Lebanon, Illinois, married a respectable widow lady, who had a daughter some fourteen or fifteen years of age, who was subsequently prostituted by him. The St. Louis Republican says that as soon as this became known, the greatest indignation was felt among the citizens, who held a meeting and resolved to lynch him.

They proceeded to his house, but found it barricaded. After a while, however, he proposed to let them in, provided they inflicted no other punishment but tarring and feathering him. This was agreed to, and the Republican proceeds to describe the ceremony as follows: "The tar and feathers were at hand, and men willingly pitched in to give him his new suit. The brushes and mops were dipped into the tar bucket and speedily applied to his naked form, while the victim stood like a martyr. What was their surprise, however, to find that the substance would not stick, and slid off his person as fast as it was applied.

Upon questioning him sharply and examining him closely, they found that the reverend gentleman had actually crossed himself at an altar, in anticipation of the course that would be pursued towards him.

His ingenuity, however, would not save him, and vengeance finally triumphed. Some genius in the crowd suggested a method which was immediately adopted. It was nothing more or less than to sprinkle him with ashes, and a little dirt or sand. The plan succeeded—the priming stuck, and the tar and feathers were applied and adhered; after which they trotted him around on a rail.

The St. Louis Democrat states that a serious proposition was entertained at first to kill him outright, and it was only at the earnest pleadings of the more sober members of the party that his life was spared. He owns a farm somewhere in the vicinity of Lebanon, and heretofore had maintained a fair enough character. The citizens have given him until after harvest time to make his preparations for a removal.

RUMORED SLAVE INSURRECTION.—The last number of the Natchitoches (La.) Chronicle says: For the last few weeks there has been an increasing excitement among the planters and citizens in the neighborhood of Campio and Grapp's Bluff, arising from rumored reports of insubordination and intended outbreak among the slaves.

There appears to be a conviction in the minds of the citizens that there is some truth in the reports, but as yet we cannot see anything to cause alarm. They have taken precautionary measures, appointed committees of vigilance, and organized active patrols. White men are implicated as the leaders of the blacks; but so far, no overt act committed by them has been discovered.

Yesterday a large party of the citizens proceeded to the bank of the river, where the State hands were at work, and arrested sixteen of them; they were conducted to Natchitoches, and placed in jail; there is yet no charge made out against them; they are suspected of complicity in the contemplated outbreak. The negroes will probably be examined in the course of a few days.

ANTI-CATHOLIC RIOT.—CHURCH BURNED DOWN.—BATH, Me., July 7, 1854.—The "Angel Gabriel" lectured here on Wednesday and Thursday evenings against Popery. On the last occasion the crowd was large and a disturbance occurred. A mob of men and boys proceeded to the old South Church, used by the Catholics as a place of worship, broken open the doors, rang the bell and displayed the American ensign from the belfry. They afterward set the church on fire and it was burnt to the ground. No further destruction of property took place, but a mob of about one hundred paraded the streets, yelling and hooting until nearly morning. No arrests were made.

A WASHINGTON correspondent of the Daily News says that two Americans, who commanded companies in the Mexican war, were removed from office, a few days ago, and an Irishman and a German appointed in their places, at $1,500 a year, neither of whom was naturalized, and one of whom has not been in the country eighteen months. This we suppose, is a specimen of Pierce Democracy.

San Jose is to be the new capital of California.

PROSPERUS or THE AGITATOR.

THE subscribers propose publishing a paper bearing the above title, devoted to the "Extension of the Area of Freedom and the Spread of Healthy Reform." It will be independent in the fullest sense of the term, opposed to distinctions of party as dependent upon minor issues, but the advocate of every measure that tends to arrest Slavery from the soil; just Creator intended should be free. It will also advocate strenuously the enactment of a Prohibitory Law for the entire suppression of the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors in this Commonwealth.

Its columns will never be prostituted to the use of any individual for the promotion merely of private wrongs, nor for the purpose of bandying epithets with contemporary journals. It is intended that a spirit of gentlemanly candor will pervade over its editorial department.

But while it abstains from gross personalities, it will never hesitate to criticize the acts of public men. It will speak firmly and abide the consequence.

It will the friends to whom this prospectus is sent, use their influence to procure as many subscribers as possible. A little timely and determined action on their part, will secure the AGITATOR a greater circulation than any other Journal in Northern New York.

Terms.—Single subscribers, $1.50 per annum in advance—$2.00 if not paid until the end of the year. Ten copies for $12.00; Fifteen copies for $15.00. BAILLEY & COBB.
