

THE TIOGA COUNTY AGITATOR.

Saturday, came with a troubled sky, opinion of approaching events and there can be no doubt but that some of the wiser leaders saw in that sky, and in other things not so clear, the fate of the Party, as plainly as a meteor.

A motion was made, and second, to adjourn to the grounds of F. W. Knox, Esq., and probably more plainly, "About 12 o'clock a procession was formed under the immediate supervision of Col. Kilbourn—one of the legion of aids to his Excellency—which consisted of the Band, three four horse waggon (one of which carried a banner badly faded) and three or four bugles. It was sight worth beholding. Just imagine Col. K. mounted on his fiery steed riding around those bugles and in tones resembling young thunder, bawling "halt!" and you will be led to exclaim with an aged citizen who stood at my side as we witnessed the procession.

At 2 o'clock P. M. the mass meeting was organized and a Mr. Frank Smith from Bradford County was introduced to the audience, although F. W. Knox had stated to the meeting the fact that Mr. Bigler was sick and could not come. Mr. Smith made a "recapitulation of the items" and by so doing came very nearly convincing the audience that Mr. B. was not sick at all. Mr. Smith tried Lord Chatham's method of building up the arguments of his opponents even higher than they had dared, and then hurl the structure to the ground at a blow. Thus Mr. Smith paid many justly merited compliments to Judge Wilnot, stated that the Judge had raised himself from the humbler walks of life to station, eminence, and influence—that he was one of the great men of the North—that as a speaker, all who ever heard him knew his power and eloquence—was a logician he had few equals. These facts Mr. Smith stated in a most patronizing style indeed, and they were nothing new to his audience.

Thus he built up his laudations of Wilnot into a strong tower only to hurl it to the ground (!) by the following sentence: "But disappointed in his political ambition he turned apostate—and fallen!" What a terrible sentence for one man to speak at once, and that man so small too! Three fourths of Mr. Smith's audience translated the sentence into English thus: "But disgusted with the subserviency of Pierce and Bigler to slavery, he has spoken the sentiments of the masses—and triumphs." Mr. Smith failed to show that Mr. Bigler was Anti-Nebraska, he failed to show that he was in favor of a Prohibitory Liquor Law; he failed to show why his friend pardoned Albert the Knutapper; he failed to show that Bigler was in favor of selling the Public Works—in short he failed to show anything but this, that Bigler is a political knave and he (Smith) is a politician.—Mr. Hamlin of McKean was present and told all he knew of the Lager Beer Bill for which he voted last winter, and for which he will be remembered next term. He was followed by Mr. Ellis of this place in a speech which made Free Soilers laugh, Whigs smile and Hunkers bite their lips,—disgusting alike to all.

At the close of Ellis's speech, Mr. Ives got up and called for "three cheers for Gov. Bigler and our country ticket" when six men arose with him and cheered. It's an "historical fact" that only seven out of an audience of Four Hundred, men, ladies, and boys, could muster patriotism to cheer for Bigler and the county ticket. Alas for the leaders of Potter County when the People do their own thinking.
