American Diplomacy.

We see in the papers a little anecdote which well illustrates the beautiful character of the gentleman who represent this favored nation, abroad. A citizen of the United States came to London to take out a patent for some invention. In order to elude the discovery of its secret, during its completion, the different parts were entrusted to different hands, and an unfortunate machinist of Belgium got one of them. He knew not what he was working on, but just as he had completed his task, he was pounced upon by the police, the supposition being that he was making an infernal machine for the special benefit of Leopold. However, he told his story, and his American employer in London came forward and confirmed it. The American minister in London communicated the facts to the legation of our beloved country in Brussels. Our consul, Mr. Siebel, was not at home, and the poor mechanic remained in his cell. His wife upon this went to the American legation to urge haste, whereupon the secretary who then and there represented the proud bird of Columbia, replied in the following terms:

"You may be glad, Madam, that his Excellency is not in Brussels, for he would not have moved a pen in the whole affair, while I ventured to take some steps in his absence. You may say what you like, but the matter is one of political conspiracy, and the Government of the United States is not inclined, and will not further any revolutionary scheme. We are, Madam, tired of that RUDE QUALITY: even in America, and hope to have in some years, a good, orderly monarchy."

The poor woman, who had heard some floating rumors of a different character respecting our government, went away slightly astonished and considerably dispirited. We commend this lively secretary to Marcy. As the war against bug wigs, small swords, and knee breeches seems to be nearly ended, our premier may perhaps bestow a little attention upon this beauty of Brussels.

"A Man among the Women."

A remarkable trial came off lately in Orange county, New York, wherein a man named Ringland was plantiff, and certain brethren of the Methodist persuasion were defendants. The suit was instituted by the Plaintiff to recover damages from Defendants for pitching said Plaintiff out of meeting.—The facts were these in brief: Ringland, in company with his wife and another female friend, went to an evening prayer meeting at the Methodist Church at Gardentown, and took his seat in the rear of the room, by the side of his wife and friend. An ancient custom in that particular Church forbids males and females from sitting together during service, and soon it was circulated through the congregation that "a man was among the women." The Plaintiff was requested to go on the "man's side," but he remained seated. One of the Trustees—after the Plaintiff had explained that it was his wont to sit by his wife,—consented that he might keep his seat, provided he would behave himself and keep quiet. Other members, however, protested against such infraction of their time-honored rule, and five of them insisted that the Plaintiff must "go to the other side." or go out of Church. The Plaintiff would not leave the woman, and thereupon commenced a free fight. Two defendants each grasped a leg, another two each seized an arm, and another carried the head. The Plaintiff squirmed and kicked, the Defendants tugged and pulled, the men and woman got thoroughly mixed up, the lights were extinguished, the stove and pipe tumbled down, the plaintiff was carried out "feet foremost," and the defendants were decreed to pay $51 for an assault and battery. But the man stuck to the women.

A PENNSYLVANIA COMPANY of emigrants for Kansas territory arrived at New Brighton on Monday last, by way of the Pittsburg and Erie Canal. The Pittsburg Dispatch says that with the additions they received at New Brighton, and the number sent forward on Friday last, the whole number is fully four hundred men, women and children, mostly, however, persons in the prime of life. They are all friends of temperance and opponents of slavery. In passing New Castle, Pa., the party found the people there assembled in a mass to salute them with pleasant greetings and good wishes.

THE New Hampshire Free Democratic Convention nominated Asa Fowler, of Concord, as the candidate for Governor. He was formerly the law partner of President Pierce. Mr. Hale addressed the Convention.

DEATHS.

In this place, on the 24 inst., HENRY, son of W. B. and Mary Clymer, aged 1 year, 4 months and 22 days.

Obituary.

Died, Oct. 29, of consumption, after a lingering illness, EMELINE, wife of Joel Parkhurst, at his residence in Elkland.

She died as she lived, a christian, and with the full hope and assurance of a life beyond the grave, where death and sorrow enter not.

The following Resolutions were unanimously adopted by Elkland Lodge, No. 434, I. O. of O. F., Oct. 30, 1854.

Resolved, That while we bow in humble submission to the will of Divine Providence, in removing by death from our midst, the beloved and amiable wife of our Brother Joel Parkhurst, we do deeply sympathise with him in his sad bereavement.

Resolved, That we do also deeply sympathise with her numerous friends and dear relatives in their great loss of a loving and dutiful daughter, a kind and worthy sister, and a friend of whom none can say aught; and most especially would we extend our sympathies to those now motherless children.

Resolved, That we will ever cherish the memory of her many virtues as worthy of remembrance and imitation by our sisters, wives and daughters.

Resolved, That these resolutions be entered upon the Records of our Lodge, and a copy of the same be sent to our Brother Joel Parkhurst, as a testimonial of our kind feelings toward him in this his hour of trouble. And furthermore,

Resolved, That copies of the above be sent to both the county papers for publication.
