

FOR THE FARMER.

Renovating Old Grass Land. Messrs. Editors.—Within the circle of a few miles from the residence of one of your readers there might be counted quite a number of fields which have been so long in grass, as to be sod bound and to yield only a scanty supply of June grass, weeds and moss.

1. It is an injury to the reputation of the farmer in the estimate of those best qualified to judge, when any field of his is found yielding only a scanty supply of poor pasture.

2. It is an injury to his purse, as his cow cannot make milk that will yield good butter or cheese, or even any average quantity of these, if kept on poor grasses and a bare pasture.

3. It is an injury to his cows and all the stock fed on such a pasture, as they cannot thrive, be as comfortable, or as serviceable in any way, as if kept on good clover or other cultivated grasses.

The best thing to be done with such old pastures as are in the condition described is to plow them up, cultivate for a year or two and then re-seed. But this cannot always be done. And wherever it is inconvenient to do this, the thing that is next best should be done.

As the cultivated grasses are run out, a new supply of the seeds of these grasses—clover, timothy, red-top &c., must be put upon the field. Then in order that the young growth of grass should find sufficient nourishment, the field should be dressed with any convenient fertilizer—with anything calculated to restore the fertility of worn out land.

Chemists inform us that cows carry off in their milk a large quantity of lime and phosphoric acid. It follows from this that in addition to a dressing with barn yard manure or compost, old grazing lands should receive one also of plaster and of bones in the form of bone dust or bones dissolved in dilute sulphuric acid, or of some superphosphate of lime.

A mixture of plaster, ground bones and powdered charcoal would form an excellent fertilizing dressing. After sowing this mixture over the field, let a harrow with small and sharp teeth be used so as to break up the sod and stir up the soil somewhat to the depth of two or three inches. Then the seed should be sown and the field dragged or harrowed over once or twice more.

Whether this work of renovation be done in the fall or in the spring, the field so treated should not be pastured until the young grasses have got quite a good start.

A field which has been long used for mowing and grazing, and on which the cultivated grasses have become extinct, will repay for the dressing and the labor expended on it, both by the quantity and the quality of the succeeding crops. The quality or richness of the milk will be much increased, and the same amount of stock, which may, perhaps have been formerly nearly starved, will have an abundance to keep them in a comfortable and thriving condition.

The sight of the green and well covered field, and of its well fed and contented occupants, will of itself be a compensation almost enough to repay one who loves to see things as they should be, and the creature around him comfortable and in good condition, for all the expense and labor bestowed in thus renovating his old and sterile pasture lands.—Country Gen.

Field Beans a Profitable Crop. In our own experience we have found no crop more profitable than the common white bean. It requires little more care than corn; on the right kind of soil it is quite productive, and almost always finds a ready market at high prices.

There is no product of the soil which contains as much nourishment, pound for pound as this. The straw makes excellent winter food for sheep. We have found the smaller kinds to be much superior to those of a larger kind.

Beans require a dry, warm soil. We have raised them where it was so dry and sandy that scarcely anything else would grow. Our best bean crops have been upon a thin sandy soil, so filled with stones that it was exceedingly difficult to plow it at all; and where the earth over the limestone rock was nowhere more than four inches deep.

One acre of such ground we planted with common white beans for ten years successively, and never failed of getting a remunerative crop and often had a very profitable one. This plot was plowed, planted and hoed, at odd spells, when it was so wet that no other ground could be worked.—American Agriculturist.

Prach Trees and Tansy.—A writer in the New York Times recommends the sowing of Tansy about the roots of Peach trees as a means of preserving them. He says that he once knew a large peach tree which was more than forty years old, while several generations of similar trees in the same soil, had passed away. This led to examination and a bed of tansy was discovered about the trunk. It was naturally inferred that the preservation of this tree to such a green old age, was attributed to the presence of this plant.

It was decided to try experiments on others, and accordingly a few of the roots were placed about each of the other trees on the premises, some of which gave signs of decay. Not only has it preserved for several years the sound trees, but renovated those that were unsound. The odor of the plant, he says, doubtless keeps off the insect enemies of this kind of tree, and it might have the same effect on others, as the plum, apple and pear, as well as the elm, sycamore, and other ornamental trees.

White Maple Sugar.—A Vermont farmer says the following is a sure method of clarifying sugar.—Filter all your sap before boiling, through a hopper or box of sand, which, he is anti-fived, will take out, not only all the stains derived from leaves, twigs, crumbs of bark, but all other coloring matter that can prevent the sugar from being pure, white.

AN ENGLISH QUARTER of wheat means 8 bushels of 70 lbs., or 560 pounds, being the "quarter" of a ton or 2240 lbs.

The standard weight of a bushel of wheat in England is 70 lbs. When wheat in England is worth 80 shillings a quarter, it is equivalent to 10 shillings a bushel—or 130 pence, and a penny is equivalent to 2 cents, or thereabouts.

DAYS WITHOUT NIGHTS.—There is nothing that strikes a stranger more forcibly, if he visits Sweden at the season of the year when the days are longest, than the absence of the night. He arrived at Stockholm from Gottenburg, 400 miles distant, in the morning and in the afternoon went to see some friends—had not taken note of time, and returned about midnight; it was as light as it is here half an hour before sundown. You could see distinctly. But all was quiet in the street; it seemed as if the inhabitants were gone away, or were dead. No signs of life, stores closed.

The sun goes down at Stockholm a little before 10 o'clock. There is great illumination all night; as the sun passes round the earth toward the north pole, the refraction of its rays is such that you see to read at midnight. Dr. Baird read a letter in the forest near Stockholm at midnight, without artificial light.—There is a mountain at the Bothnia, where, on the 21st of June, the sun does not go down at all. Travellers go there to see it.—A steambost goes up from Stockholm for the purpose of carrying those who are curious to witness the phenomenon. It occurs one night. The sun goes down to the horizon, you can see the whole face of it, and in five minutes it begins to rise.

Birds and animals take their accustomed rest at the usual hours. The hens take to the trees about seven o'clock, and stay there until the sun is well up in the morning, and the people get into the habit of rising late too.—From a recent Lecture by Dr. Baird at Cincinnati.

HORRIBLE REVENGE.—Dr. Radcliffe, who was fond of the pleasures of the table, was one afternoon comfortably disposing of a bottle of wine, when a countryman entered the room, and begged him to come immediately, to his wife who was dying.

"I can't help it my fine fellow—I can't move till I have finished my bottle." Now, it happened that the countryman was a large strong man, and the doctor a very small one; so it occurred to the former that his best plan was to seize the doctor and carry him off on his shoulders. He did so; and while he was bearing him along, the doctor, bursting with rage, exclaimed: "You villain, I'll cure your wife!" and he was as good as his word.

Mrs. SMILES says, the reason children are so bad this generation, is owing to the wearing of gaiter shoes, instead of the old fashioned slippers. Mothers find it too much trouble to untie gaiters to whip children, so they go unpunished; but when she was a child, the way the old slipper used to do its duty was a caution.

A Western editor thus delivers himself: We would say to the individual who stole our shirt off the pole, while we were lying in bed waiting for it to dry, that we sincerely hope the collar may cut his throat.

DR. HUNTER'S Medical Manual, and Hand Book for the Afflicted.—Containing an outline of the origin, progress, treatment and cure of every form of disease contracted by promiscuous sexual intercourse, by self-abuse or by sexual excess, with advice for their prevention, written in a familiar style, avoiding all medical technicalities and everything that would offend the ear of decency; with an outline of complaints incident to females, from the result of twenty years' successful practice, exclusively devoted to the cure of diseases of a delicate or private nature.

To which is added receipts for the cure of the above diseases, and a treatise on the causes, symptoms and cure of the FEVER and AGUE. Testimony of the Professor of Obstetrics in the Penn Medical College, Philadelphia.—"DR. HUNTER'S MEDICAL MANUAL."—The author of this work, unlike the majority of those who advertise to cure the diseases of which it treats in a variety of one of the best Colleges in the United States. It affords me pleasure to recommend him to the unfortunate, or to the victim of malpractice, as a successful and experienced practitioner, in whose honor and integrity they may place the greatest confidence. J. S. LOMAX, M. D. From A. Woodward, M. D., of Penn University, Philadelphia.—It gives me pleasure to add my testimony to the professional ability of the author of the Medical Manual. Numerous cases of Disease of the Genital Organs, some of them of long standing have come under my notice, in which his skill has been manifest in restoring to perfect health in some cases where the patient has been considered beyond medical aid. In the treatment of Seminal weakness, or disarrangement of the functions produced by self-abuse or excessive venery, I do not know his superior in the profession. I have been acquainted with the author some thirty years, and seen it no more than justice to him as well as kindness to the unfortunate victim of early indiscretion, to recommend him as one in whose professional skill and integrity they may safely confide themselves. ALFRED WOODWARD, M. D.

"This is, without exception, the most comprehensive and intelligible work published on the diseases of which it treats. Avoiding all technical terms, it addresses itself to the reason of its readers. It is free from all objectionable matter, and no particular has been overlooked in its preparation. It is the hands of his sons. The author has devoted many years to the treatment of the various complaints treated of, and with too little breath to puff and too little presumption to impose, he has offered to the world at the merely nominal price of 25 cents, the fruit of some twenty years' most successful practice.—Merald.

"No teacher or parent should be knowledgeable imparting in this work. It will save years of pain and mortification and sorrow to the youth under their charge."—People's Advocate. A Presbyterian clergyman in Ohio, writing of "Hunter's Medical Manual" says—"Thousands upon thousands of our youth, by evil example and influence of the passions, have been led into the habit of self-pollution without realizing the sin and fearful consequences upon themselves and posterity. The constitution of thousands who are raising families have been enfeebled, not broken down, and they do not know the cause or cure. Anything that can be done so to enlighten and influence the public mind as to check, and ultimately to remove this wide spread source of human wretchedness, would confer the greatest blessing next to the religion of Jesus Christ, on the present and coming generation. Intemperance (or the use of intoxicating drinks) though it has slain thousands upon thousands, has done a greater scourge to the human race. Accept my thanks on behalf of the afflicted, and believe me your co-worker in the good work you are so actively engaged in." One copy (securely enveloped) will be forwarded, free of postage, to any part of the United States for 25 cents, or six copies for one dollar. Perpetual Motion Discovered at Last. THE subscriber having been appointed agent by S. W. Paine for the sale of the Res & Peck Improved Direct Action Water Wheel, would say to the owners of Saw Mills in Tioga county, that he is ready to furnish the above mentioned Water Wheel at Wellsboro', at any time prior to this date, on the most reasonable terms.

These Wheels are warranted to do the best business with the least quantity of water of any Wheel in use, (except an Overshot). The great advantages of these wheels over others is the manner in which the water is applied to the wheel; is such that there cannot be any waste of water, the gates or sheets regulating the quantity. The gate is so constructed that it shuts almost perfectly tight. Quantity of water required under eight feet head, 130 square inches, under 20 feet head 50 inches; all wheels between these in proportion. All wheels warranted to perform according to recommendation, if they do not we take them out and replace the old wheels. No Wheels put under less than eight feet head. D. B. WILCOX. Wellsborough, July 13, 1854.
