

FOR THE FARMER. Raising Potatoes.

As a time of planting this excellent root the potato, is near at hand, it may not be out of place to make a few remarks on its culture. From my experience in raising potatoes, I am convinced that the middle planting, as it is called, is the best of making a good crop. I know that much depends upon the weather; if it should happen to be dry at the time the potato vines are in blossom and the potato about forming, we cannot expect much of a crop; but if planting at a certain season, the rains are more apt to suit the potato it should be our duty to endeavor to plant our potatoes at that time. I have, however, generally divided my time of planting into three periods; the first as early in spring as it will do sometimes by the first of April, and sometimes later, according as the spring is forward or backward. At this planting, I put in about one-fourth of the patch. The next or middle planting, is done about the 25th of April, at which time I put in one half of the whole patch; and the last planting is done from the 15th to the 10th of May when I put in the remaining one-fourth. It sometimes happens that the first or the last planting turns out the best; in case this happens, I am sure of a part of my crop being good. But as the middle planting is generally better than the others I plant double the quantity at that time. My reason for making three divisions in the crop are obvious, and I think the best that can be adopted.

As I have now stated my time of planting, with my reasons for so doing, I will proceed to give you the best manner of planting, &c.

A clover sod is superior to any other kind I have tried; and to obtain this, it is best to sow clover with the oats, and leave it lay over until the next spring, instead of plowing up the oats stubble and sowing with wheat. The portion of this stubble intended for potatoes, should be enclosed with a temporary fence and the remaining part may be pastured. Give the clover sod a good coat of manure, or apply four hundred pounds of guano per acre, (the manure is preferable.) If manure is used, it should be raked in on the potatoes after they are dropped; if guano it may be sprinkled in the furrow, and in both instances plowed under to the depth of four inches. The potatoes should be planted in every second furrow. After the potatoes are planted, a good rolling will be of advantage, as it will level the ground, and fill up the small hollows.

When the potatoes are just coming through, the ground should be thoroughly loosened up by using the square harrow on. As soon as the potatoes are large enough, not to be covered up, the cultivator should be used, by taking out the two back teeth, and running twice on a row. Continue this every few days, until the vines begin to fall. The plow is of no advantage, as it throws the dirt to the potatoes, and leaves a furrow between the rows, so that when it rains, the water runs in the furrows, and is thus kept from the roots of the potato.

If this plan is followed, it is hardly possible to fail having a crop. Some plant pumpkins with their potatoes, and raise a considerable quantity of them; but probably it tends to draw the virtue of the soil from the potato.

Another very essential point in the raising of potatoes, successfully, is that of changing the seed every five or six years. They, like almost everything else follow the course of nature, and degenerate when planted in the same soil for any considerable length of time. In proof of this, I will give one instance, only. A neighbor about ten years ago, was fortunate enough to secure a smooth kind of mercers, which when first planted yielded very well, so much so, that all the neighbors bought of him and planted. Where they have bought within two or three years, they still raise fine crops, fully equal to when first introduced; while for the last two or three years, he has not had more than half a crop; therefore, they want changing.

I have already lengthened out this, much beyond my intentions when commencing, and will therefore close.—Germantown Telegraph.

"FARMERS SOW LIBERALLY"—is the injunction of several of our exchanges, based upon the supposition that the prices of bread-stuffs, &c., will continue to rule high during the year. The advice probably is sound, as there are good reasons for believing the hypothesis correct, and that, consequently, farmers will receive ample remuneration for care, labor and expenditure in cultivation and production. We think it unsafe, however, to proceed on the supposition that present prices will be maintained; still the probabilities are that Genesee wheat will be worth $2 per bushel in July and August, and other cereals in proportion. With such a prospect our farmers can only afford to plant and sow liberally this spring, but also bestow extra expense and labor in manuring and cultivation. Those who doubt on the subject, should figure for themselves. If good culture, and the liberal use of manures and fertilizers, ever pay, we think no judicious farmer will hesitate in regard to such investments.—Rural New Yorker.

GUANO FOR MELONS.—We had a very fine melon patch which was well nigh destroyed by the striped bug. The vines had just commenced running, and in two or three days the bugs had stripped nearly every leaf. As a desperate remedy, we applied a handful of guano on top of the hill as far as the vines had run, taking care that it did not fall on the leaf. In twenty-four hours not a bug was to be seen; the vines assumed a healthy and vigorous appearance, and were loaded with fruit. This experiment was not on one vine only, but hundreds.—American Agriculturist.

An inventive genius intends applying to patent a machine which he says, when wound up and set in motion, will chase a hog over a ten acre lot, catch, yoke and ring him, or by a slight change of gearing, it will chop him into sausages, work his bristles into shoe-brushes, and manufacture his tail into screw-drivers.

The following from the Cayuga Chief may be read rather thickly; nevertheless it contains many wholesome truths:— "We sometimes hear of men who will not sign petitions for the Maine Law, for fear they may lose a farthing or two on the price of grain. They thus render their opinion of the worth of souls. Such men would rather go to hell, than to pay ferrage across Jordan to Heaven. When dead, they ought to be buried without the expense of coffins. They will never be missed in the day of judgment, unless mighty-small affairs are down on the record. Had they lived in our Saviour's time, the world have betrayed him for much less than did Judas. A bushel of corn in the ear extra, or a cent and a half advance on a bushel of barley would buy them out of bliss.—They would consider themselves abused managers if they could make two-and sixpence by the total damnation of the rest of mankind. They would make a race ground of paradise, and let the spare ground for grog shanties, and ball alleys; if the devil would pay them rent."

THE CALIFORNIA CONDOR.—The high mountains of California are frequented by species of "condor," which, although somewhat inferior in size to the condor of the Andes is probably the largest bird to be found within the confines of the Golden State. A full grown California condor measures upward of thirteen feet from tip to tip of its wings, and when in its favorite element, the air, is a graceful and majestic as any bird in the world. They make their homes upon the edges of lofty rocks, or in the old deserted nests of hawks and eagles, upon the upper branches of lofty trees. Their eggs are each about twelve ounces in weight, and are said to be of excellent eating. The barrels of the wing feathers of the condor are about four inches long and three-eighths of an inch in diameter, and are used by the inhabitants of Northern Mexico to keep gold dust in.

If you happen to fall into company where the talk runs into party, obscenity, scandal, folly, or voice of any kind, you had better pass for morose or unsocial among people whose good opinion is not worth having, than shock your own conscience by joining in conversation which you must disapprove of.

MAN, KNOW THYSELF? An Invaluable Book for 25 cents.—Every Family should have a Copy! 100,000 COPIES SOLD IN LESS THAN A YEAR. A new edition, revised and improved, just issued. DR. HUNTER'S Medical Manual, and Hand Book for the Afflicted.—Containing an outline of the origin, progress, treatment and cure of every form of disease contracted by promiscuous sexual intercourse, by self-abuse or by sexual excess, with advice for their prevention, written in a familiar style, avoiding all medical technicalities and everything that would offend the ear of delicacy; with an outline of the complaints incident to females, from the result of twenty years' successful practice, exclusively devoted to the cure of diseases of a delicate or private nature. To which is added receipts for the cure of the above diseases, and a treatise on the causes, symptoms and cure of the FEVER and AGUE. Testimony of the Professor of Obstetrics in the Penn Medical College, Philadelphia.—DR. HUNTER'S MEDICAL MANUAL.—The author of his work, unlike the majority of those who advertise to cure the diseases of which it treats is a graduate of one of the best Colleges in the United States. It affords me pleasure to recommend him to the unfortunate, or to the victim of malpractice, as a successful and experienced practitioner, in whose honor and integrity they may place the greatest confidence.

From A. Woodward, M. D., of Penn University Philadelphia.—It gives me pleasure to testify to the professional ability of the author of the Medical Manual, Numerous cases of Disease of the Genital Organs, some of them of long standing have come under my notice, in which his skill has been manifest in restoring to perfect health in some cases where the patient has been considered beyond medical aid. In the treatment of Seminal weakness, or disarrangement of the functions produced by self-abuse or excessive venery, I do not know his superior in the profession. I have been acquainted with him for some thirty years, and deem it no more than justice to him as well as kindness to the unfortunate victim of early indiscretion, to recommend him as one in whose professional skill and integrity they may safely confide themselves. ALFRED WOODWARD, M. D. "This is, without exception, the most comprehensive and intelligible work published on the diseases of disease of which it treats. Avoiding all technical terms, it addresses itself to the reason of its readers. It is free from all objectionable matter, and no parent, however fastidious, can object to placing it in the hands of his sons. The author has devoted many years to the treatment of the various complaints treated of, and with too little breath to puff and too little presumption to impose, he has offered to the world at the merely nominal price of 25 cents, the fruit of some twenty years' most successful practice.—Herald.

No teacher or parent should be knowledgeable imparted in this valuable work. It would save years of pain and mortification and sorrow to the youth under their charge.—Peoples' Advocate. A Presbyterian clergyman in Ohio, writing of "Hunter's Medical Manual" says—"Thousands upon thousands of our youth, by evil example and influence of the passions, have been led into the habit of self-abuse, upon themselves and posterity. The constitution of thousands who are breaking families have been embroiled, if not broken down, and that can be done so to enlighten and influence the public mind as to check, and ultimately to remove this wide spread source of human wretchedness, would confer the greatest blessing next to the religion of Jesus Christ, on the present and coming generation. Intemperance (or the use of intoxicating drinks) though it has slain thousands upon thousands, is not a greater scourge to the human race. Accept my thanks on behalf of the afflicted, and believe me your co-worker in the good work you are so actively engaged in." One copy (securely enveloped) will be forwarded, free of postage, to any part of the United States for 25 cents, or six copies for one dollar. Address, (post paid) COSDEN & CO., Publishers, or Box 196, Philadelphia. Booksellers, Canvasers and Book Agents supplied on the most liberal terms. October 12, 1854-ly.

WELLS' CHERRY PECTORAL.

FOR THE CURE OF COUGHS, COLDS, HOARSENESS, BRONCHITIS, CROUP, ASTHMA, WHOOPING COUGH AND CONSUMPTION. THIS remedy is offered to the community with the confidence we feel in an article which seldom fails to realize the highest effects that can be expected. So wide is the field of its usefulness and so numerous the cases of its cures, that almost every section of the country abounds in persons, publicly known, who have been restored from alarming and even desperate diseases of the lungs, by its use. When once tried its superiority over every other medicine of its kind, is too apparent to escape observation, and where its virtues are known, the public no longer hesitate what antidote to employ for the distressing and dangerous affections of the pulmonary organs, which are incident to our climate. Nothing has called louder for the earnest enquiry of medical men, than the alarming prevalence and facility of this consumptive complaint, and the great distresses of the throat and lungs yield to it, if we can depend on the assurance of intelligent physicians, who make it their business to know,—in short, if there is any reliance upon anything, that is irrefragably proven that this medicine does relieve and does cure the class of diseases it is designed for, beyond any and all others that are known to mankind. If this be true, it cannot be too freely published, nor be too widely known. The afflicted should know it. A remedy that cures, is priceless to them. Parents should know it, their children are careless to them. All should know it, for health can be priced to no one. Not only should it be circulated here, but everywhere, not only in this country, but in all countries. How faithfully we have acted on this conviction, is shown in the fact that already this article has made the circles of the globe. The sun never sets on its limits. No continent is without it, and but few people. Although not in so general use in other nations as in this, it is employed by the more intelligent in almost all civilized countries. It is extensively employed in both America, in Europe, Asia, Africa, Australia and the far off islands of the sea. Life is as dear to its possessors here as here, and they grasp at a valuable remedy with even more avidity. Unlike most preparations of its kind, it is an expensive one, it can be obtained at a reasonably low price, and what is of vastly more importance to them, its quality is never suffered to decline from its original standard of excellence. Every bottle of this medicine, now manufactured, is as good as ever has been made heretofore, or as we are capable of making. No toil or cost is spared, in maintaining it in the best perfection which it is possible to produce. Hence the patient who procures the genuine CHERRY PECTORAL, can rely on having as good an article as has ever been had by those who testify to its cure.

By pursuing this course, I have the hope of doing some good in the world, as well as the satisfaction of believing that much has been done already. Prepared by J. C. Perpetual Motion Discovered at Last. THE subscriber having been appointed Agent by S. W. Paine for the sale of the Rose & Peck Improved Direct Action Water Wheels, would say to the owners of Saw Mills in Tioga county, that he is ready to furnish the above mentioned Water Wheel at Wellsboro, at any time after this date, on the most reasonable terms. These Wheels are warranted to do the best business with the least quantity of water of any Wheel in use, (except an Overshot.) The great advantages of these wheels over all others is the manner in which the water is applied to the wheel, is such that there cannot be any waste of water, the gates or sheets regulating the quantity. The gate is so constructed that it shuts almost perfectly tight. Quantity of water required under eight feet head, 130 square inches, under 20 feet head, 50 inches; all heads between these in proportion. All wheels warranted to perform according to recommendation, if they do not we take them out and replace the old wheels. No Wheels put over less than eight feet head. D. B. WILCOX. Wellsborough, July 13, 1854.
