FOR THE FARMER.

Another Mode of Planting Pots-

For two years we have been trying to induce some of our readers to try an experiment in the cultivation of potatoes, but wheth er we have been successful or not we have no means of knowing, as no person has reported progress. There is no crop that has paid so well the past season as potatoes, and there is no crop so certain or so easily raised. Potatoes have been a legal tender in this market ever since free bank money began to depreciate, at one dollar and fifty cents per bashel. There is no crop that may be so easily raised as potatoes, nor one that can be raised so profitably. With the hope that some of our readers may be induced to try the experiment the present season, we public lish the plan for raising this indispensable vegetable.

Let the farmer or the gardener select some refuse lot, or part of a lot, of sod ground. Do not plow it, but when planting time comes say between the 10th of May and lat of June, place potato cuttings on the grass of the said ground from 12 to 18 inches apart, using about the same quantity, or perhaps a little more seed than in the ordinary way of planting. Cover the ground thus sown with coarse straw, corn stalks, leaves, or any refuse matter of the kind, to a depth of 6 or 10 inches-just enough to kill the grass and prevent it from growing. The potatoe vines will find their way through this covering without difficulty, and form a mat, which will prevent the straw or other covering from being blown off by the wind. Potatoes planted in this way will need no plowing or hoeing. In the fall when the vines are killed with frost, take a strong rake and uncover the potatoes, which will be found covering the ground, large, dry and clean enough for the dinner kettle without washing. The ground will be found to have lost none of its virtue. but will, in fact, be enriched by the process. The labor prescribed, it will be seen, is much less than will be required by the old method of plowing, planting, hoeing and digging. The result will be in nine cases out of ten, a much larger crop of much nicer potatoesand what is better still, they will not be subjected to the rot. Almost every farmer has stacks of straw

Farmers, how many of you will give the experiment a fair trial-measure your ground and report the result for the common benefit of all? Select two spots of ground, if you choose -one wet, the other dry - so as to meet the season. If the season should be dry, your wat ground will be more likely to succeed; if the season is wet your dry ground will produce the best. Several farmers and gardeners promised to try this experiment last year, but we have heard of none that d'd so. For your encouragement, we will state that we have ourselves raised at the rate of over nine hundred bushels of potatoes to the acre by this simple method. A big story, but true notwithstanding. If this table vegetable should command the price of the past winter, we presume our farmer readers would be satisfied with one-third of that amount, and make more money at that than in raising corn.-Lafayette Courier.

this purpose. Why not at least try this simple experiment? Its cost is friffing, except Ashes in Agriculture.

Wood ashes is one of the most important fertilizers. It is easily obtained in any quantity and at little or no expense. Take them carefully from your hearths, and save them until your corn and potatues have risen two inches from the ground; then take a basket on your arm and from it take a small handful of ashes, and cast it at the root of your plants, and hoe them soon so as to cover the ashes, By this means you will increase your crop one-half. Ashes contain all the inorganic substances of the wood or plants which are consumed. part of these are soluble and part insoluble; but the soluble substances mixed with water. will dissolve the insoluble. Thus, dissolved potash will dissolve silica and prepare it for glazing the stock of the cane corn, wheat, &c. Not a particle of ashes should go to waste. Leached ashes have parted with most of their potash, but still retain their phosphoric admit. acid, and most of their lime.

Ashes neutralize acids in the soil: they warm cold, mossy, wet places; they are destructive to insects; they assist to break down and dissolve the coarse fibers and stocks in the compost heaps, render hard, clayey soil open, loamy and fertile.

The potash, so material to most crops, can be obtained here only from ashes. In granite regions, potash is obtained from a dissolution of feldspar, but we have none in this country.

Wheat contains a large portion of potash, generally to his large and commodious stock of Fifty-nine per cent, of the ashes of corn is carbonate of potash, and one-halt of the earthy part of Irish potatoes, is pure potash.

Save your ashes therefore, as carefully as you do your five and ten cent pieces, and apply them to your crops with care, and you will find them of a rich, deep color while in fact everything else kept in a country store, arti growing, and heavy with nutriment at har-

CABBAGE WITH CORN.-Mr. Brooks, of Princeton, at the last legislative Agricultural meeting in Boston, alluded to the practice of planting cabbage among Indian corn. He knew an instance where cabbage was planted in alternate rows with corn, and the cabbage sold for $150 per acre.

COAL ASHER.—One of the best purposes to which coal ashes can be applied, in town or Jan 20 1855 country, is in making garden walks. If well laid down, no weeds or grass will grow, and ADIES, just drop in at J. R. Bowen's by use they become as sold and more durable than brick. We have used this for many years, and find it to be excellent.

TER'S MEDICAL MANUAL."—The author of his work, unlike the majority of those who advertise to cure the diseases of which it treats is a graduate of one of the best Colleges in the United States It affords me pleasure to recommend him to the un fortunate, or to the victim of malpractice, as a successful and experienced practitioner, in whose hono and integrity they may place the greatest confidence

Jos. S. Longshorz, M. D.

From A. Woodward, M. D., of Penn University Philadelphia.—It gives me pleasure to add my testi mony to the professional ability of the author of the Medical Manual. Numerous cases of Disease to the Genital Organs, some of them of long standing have come under my notice, in which his skill has been manifest in restoring to perfect health in some cases where the patient has been considered beyon medical aid. In the treatment of Seminal weakness, or disarrangement of the functions produced by self-abuse or excessive venery, I do not know his superior in the profession. I have been acquainted with the author some thirty years, and deem it no more than justice to him as well as kindness to the unfortunate victim of early indiscretion, to recom mend him as one in whose professional skill and in tegrity they may safely confide themselves, ALFRED WOODWARD, M. D. "This is, without exception, the most comprehen sive and intelligible work published on the classes of diseases of which it treats. Avoiding all technical terms, it addresses itself to the reason of its readers. It to free from all objectionable matter, and no parent, however fastidious, can object to placing it in the hands of his sons. The anthor has devoted many years to the treatment of the various complaints reated of, and with too little breath io puff and too little presumption to impose, he has offered to the world at the merely nominal price of 25 cents, the fruit of some twenty years' most successful practice. -Herald.

No teacher or parent should be knowlede imparted in this valuable work. It would save years of pain and mortification and sorrow to the youth un der their charge."-Peoples' Advocate.

A Presbyterian clergyman in Ohio, writing of "Hunter's Medical Manual". says.—"Thousands upon thousands of our youth, by evil example and influence of the passions, have been led into the habit of self-pollution without realizing the sin and fearful consequences upon themselves and posterity The constitutions of thousands who are raising fautilies have been enfeebled, if not broken down, and they do not know the cause or cure. Anything that can be done so to enlighten and influence the public mind as to check, and ultimately to remove this wide spread source of human wretchedeess would confer the greatest blessing next to the religion of Jesus Christ, on the present and coming generation. Intemperance (or the use of intoxicating drinks) though it has slain thousands upon thousands, is not a greater scourge to the human race.

Accept my thanks on behalf of the afflicted, and believe me your co-worker in the good work you are so actively engaged in."

Touthe Care of Couche, Colds, Hoarseness, Bron-CHITIS, CROUP, ASTHMA, WHOOP-INC COUCH AND CONSUMPTION.

THIS remedy is offered to the community with the confidence we feel in an article which edthe confidence we feel in an article which ed-m fails to realize the happiest effects that can be desired. So wide is the field of its usefulness and so numerous the cases of its cures, that almost every section of the country, abounds in persons, publicly known, who have been restored from alarming and even desperate diseases of the lungs, by its use When once tried its superiority over every other nedicine of its kind, is too apparent to escape obset vation, and where its virtues are known, the publi no longer hesitate what antidote to employ for the distressing and dangerous affections of the pulme mary organs, which are incident to our climate.

Nothing has called loader for the carnest enquiry of medical men, than the alarming prevalence and Leaf, Putty, Spts. Turpentine, Camphene, Burning fatality of consumptive complaints, nor has any one class of diseases had more of their investigations and care. But as yet no adequate remedy has been provided, on which the public could depend for protection from attacks upon the respiratory organs, un till the introduction of the CHERRY PECTORAL. should have a Copy."

This article is the product of a long, laborious, and I believe successful endeavor, to furnish the community with such a remedy. Of this last statement the American people are now themselves prepared to indge, and I appeal with confidence to their decision If there is any dependance to be placed in what men of every class and station certify it has done for them, if we can trust our own senses when we are the continuous continuous. This article is the product of a long, laborious, and I believe successful endeavor, to furnish the commuif we can trust our own senses, when we see dan-gerous affections of the throat and lungs yield to it. if we can depend on the assurance of intelligent physicians, who make it their business to know,—in short, if there is any reliance upon anything, then is it irrefutably proven that this modicine does re-lieve and does cure the class of diseases it is designed for, beyond any and all others that are know-to mankind. If this be true, it cannot be too freely published, nor be to widely known. The afflicted should know it. A remedy that cures, is priceless to them. Parents should know it, their children are riceless to them. All should know it, for health can can be priced to no one. Not only should it be circulated nere, but everywhere, not only in this country but in all countries. How faithfully we have acted on this conviction, is shown in the fact that already this article has made the circles of the globe. The sun never sets on its limits. No continent is without it, and but few peoples. Although not in so general use in other nations as in this, it is employed by the more intelligent in almost all civilized countries. It is extensively employed in both Amer ica, in Europe, Asia, Africa, Australia and the far off islands of the sea. Life is as dear to its possessors there as here, and they grasp at a valuable re medy with even more avidity. Unlike most preparations of its kind, it is an expensive composition of costly materials. Still it is afforded to the public at a reasonably low price, and what is of vastly more importance to them, its quality is never suffered to decline from its original standard of excellence.

Every bottle of this medicine, now manufactured, is as good as ever has been made heretofore, or as we so fas. Div as good as ever has been made necessary, of as ware capable of making. No toil or cost is spared, in maintaining it in the best perfection which it is possible to produce. Hence the patient who procures the genuine CHERRY PECTORAL, can rely on having as good an article as has ever been had by those who testify to its cures. By pursuing this course, I have the hope of doing some good in the world, as well as the satisfaction of believing that much has been done already. Prepared by J. C. AYER, Practical and
