

INDIAN WAR IN THE NORTH.
A Convention will be held at Saratoga Springs on the 15th and 16th of August next, to discuss Woman's Right of Suffrage.

THE AGITATOR.
M. HOOVER, Editor.
WELLBORO, N.H.
Thursday Morning, June 28, 1855.
REDUCTION IN TERMS!!!
The Publishers of the AGITATOR respectfully inform the Citizens of Tioga County that they will furnish the paper hereafter to those who pay ONE DOLLAR IN ADVANCE, for ONE YEAR.

REMARKS. Do you think I would touch the empty thing? No, indeed. Let the Lord show you your own heart, and the Lord show somebody else that she is not, the Doctor should be applied to her immediately. Such matters take care either as a matter of a juvenile delinquency or a matter of a juvenile delinquency.

REMARKS. In the extract from the Minutes of the Agricultural Society's meeting at the Court House, published last week, there occurred a report of the materials of the same. In the last paragraph but one, DeLamar should have been reported as having 40 members and Wellboro 123. The error was in transcribing, before the manuscript came into the office.

REMARKS. We take this occasion to assure a correspondent that our strictures upon the tortuous course of the Eagle's correspondence were only just and deserved. In view of the evidence furnished us of the facts stated, and further, that we do not pretend to hold the whole village of Tioga responsible for the actions of individuals—Still further, if any responsible person will establish the fact that our remarks were unjust to any individual, or body of individuals concerned in the matter, we will apologize in an honor-able manner. But if the facts are as stated, we by no means regret our course, and we do not regret our communications referred to were grossly libelous, and the authors deserving of the severest censure.

COMMUNICATIONS.
Mr. Editor:—One great and important difficulty respecting the Common Schools of some portions of our County, may be attributed to a certain extent, to a disinterestedness on the part of parents, relative to their children's interest after they are under the control of the teacher. It is a fact, and one too of a startling character, that not one parent in fifty ever enters the school room during the term, or even inquires after the welfare and prosperity of his children.

From the St. Louis Intelligencer.
Covered Rivers, Friday, June 8, 1855.
On Saturday, a Mr. Gallineau, a Frenchman, arrived here from Sergeant's Bluffs, and states that "Four Bears," the chief of the Little Band of Sioux, had just come in, bringing with him thirty lodges; that they left the main body of the Sioux at Bear Creek, 300 miles west of Fort Laramie, twenty-five days since, coming, and that at that time the Sioux had 100 wagons, plenty of flour and meat, twenty women and children, and among them fifty negro women. From that we think they must have taken a Mormon train, bound from Salt Lake to Bear Creek, where we know they intended making a settlement this Spring.

Mr. B. C. Wickett authorizes us to state that the rumor published in the columns some weeks since, to the effect that he had gone off in company with a highland, after mortgaging his farm, &c., is false from beginning to end—a base fabrication. We are extremely glad to be able to publish the denial.

True, the clergy have been put without the pale of "law, politics and the polls" but they are self-excited. First, they put on the cloak of formality, until men came to consider them as "demagogues." They were never to meddle with worldly matters, by no means. We remember well what a distaste was raised on a long-ago occasion; in a quiet country parish among the Hibernian hills, because, forthwith, the parson hinted incidentally in his sermon that Slavery was a great national sin. What right had he to preach abolitionism?—asked the indignant parishioners. So it passed from lip to lip, from the pulpit to the parson; it was discussed by gossip with tongues oiled by overmuch toasting; finally, Father H. was invited to preach his farewell sermon, which we have not forgotten, and if some clergymen have ceased to tingle it is a wonder.

AN ACT
For the preservation of Insectivorous Birds, and for the protection of Fruit and Fruit Trees in certain counties.
SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That no person shall willfully kill or destroy any insectivorous bird in the counties of Chester, Butler, Montgomery, Bedford, Blair, Lancaster, Westmoreland, Northumberland, Tioga, Bucks and Delaware, except game, crows, blackbirds or birds of prey; nor enter upon any enclosed lands for the purpose of hunting, with dogs, guns or otherwise, without consent of the owner or occupier thereof, under a penalty of five dollars, with costs of suit, for each and every offence, to be sued for and recovered before any magistrate, one-half for the use of the commonwealth and one-half for the use of the common schools of the district.

THE PRUDENT HUMANITY OF SLAVERY.
Thomas Boynton, of Georgia, hired a negro to Francis Lennard for one year for $100. Soon afterward, the negro died, and Lennard insisted that the time lost should be deducted from the sum stipulated to be paid for the entire year's service. Boynton refused to make any such deduction, and sued the delinquent. The case was tried, and ultimately carried to the Supreme Court.—Judge Lumpkin (recently appointed one of the Judges of the new Board of Claims) heard the case and rendered a decision in favor of the owner.

LETTERS FROM BERLIN OF THE 11th inst. state that the successes of the Allies in the Sea of Azoff have made a deep impression there.—It is observed that the large proportion of cavalry in the Russian Army will cause the stoppage of supplies from the countries of the Don to be felt with peculiar pressure by the enemy. On the 23d ult. there were 190 cases of cholera at St. Petersburg.
