Barkhamsted, Light-House-Lust Survivor of the Nurragalisetts.

The New Haven Courier says the world has long wondered why the Barkhamsted Light House was built so far from salt water, Mr. John E. Mason, of New Haven, has recently visited the place and learned the following facts from several citizens of Barkhamsted:-

"A Narragansett Indian left his hunting grounds in Rhode Island, because a young Indian maiden of his tribe had refused to marry him, and finding his way to Wethersheld, upon the Connecticut river, tarried there, "muny moons," and won the affections of a young while lady, who had declared, to spite her friends, that she would marry the first man, black or white, who would give hec a chance. The Indian had become known among the whites as James Changam; he privately married the rash maiden-friends got wind of it-flight was necessary.

"The happy couple fled to Barkliamsted, and bought a tract of land on the banks of the Tunxis. This region was then a wilderness, and no cabins were erected in this part of the town. They built a rude hut, and lived in it from 1778 to 1790, when James Changam died. He lest two sons and six daughters, whose dusky features and straight black hair showed Narragansett blood. One of the daughters of Changam married a white man, named William Wilson, and settled upon a plantation near the paternal wigwam, and was the mother of twelve children. Wilson persuaded his Narragansett bride to adopt a more civilized costume, and he would build a house after the fashion of his paleface brothren, who now began to settle around him .-Polly consented, and so a huge domicil was constructed out of logs and lumber, that soon became a laughing-stock for all the people in that vicinity, because it was badly construcled. There were holes in the walls through which a man could have thrown his beaver and never haver damaged its surface.

"In the year 1800, a turnpike road was built from Hartford to Albany, and it was Inid out directly by the door of his airy mansion. It was soon used as a great thoroughfure to Berkshire county, Massachusetts, and people in passing the house of Wilson, and observing the large fires he always kent burning until a late hour at night, soon became accuslomed to the fiery appearance of this Indian wigwam mansion. As wood cost nothing, and was plenty in this region, immense quantities were consumed in the old fashioned hireplace of this wayside wonde:.

The light of the blazing fire was always seen at night through the crevices of the badly-constructed walls, and as travellers soon became familiar with the house on account of its luminous appearance, they gave it the name of Barkhamsted Light House,

"Under this name the rickety old mansion of Wilson became celebrated. The name is now not only familiar to the citizens of Connecticut, but widely known in other

"The demise of the 'last of the Mohegans' has been chronicled in history and song, but the last survivor of the Narragansett warriors is still living, in a wild secluded spot, among the rugged and picturesque mountains of Barkhamsies

MR. EDITOR: - The following recipe for a compost to be used upon potatoes I took, several years ago, from a lecture delivered before the Tioga County Agricultural Society, by Dr. Lee, of Buffato, I have frequently benficial results. The philosophy of the matter is simply this, the potato contains the chemical elements found that chemical elements found in the ingredients Blacking for stoves, used, and if the soil is wanting in any or all of them, the deficiency is supplied by the compost. As the articles are cheap, and easily procured, it might be well for farmers to try the experiment on a small scale at Bug Poison,

Take one-bull bushel unleached ashes; one peck of plaster; four quarts of lime; and two quarts of common salt, and mix Cinnamon, them well. After the potatoes are dropped, Cloves, and before covering, throw in to the hill among the potatoes a quantity of the compost

Composition Powder, Red Chalk,
Cephalic Snuff for head-Red Precipitate, -about as much as a person would naturally take from a vessel with the hand. Af- Cream Tartar, ter the potatoes have been covered throw about the same amount on the top of the hill. C. R. COBURN.

NUTRITIVE QUALITIES OF THE ONION .-It is worthy of notice as an extensive article of consumption in this country. It is largely cultivated at home (in England,) and is imported to the extent of 700 or 800 tons a year from Portugal and Spain. But it rises in importance when we consider that in these latter countries it forms one of the common Brant's Balsam, and universal supports of life. It is interesting, therefore, to know that in addition to the Cough Mixture, peculiar flavor which first recommends it, the Cod Liver Oil, onion is remarkably nutritious. According to my analysis, the dried onion root contains from 25 to 30 per cent, of gluten. It ranks in this respect with the nutritious pea, and the gram of the East. It is not merely as a relish, therefore, that the Spaniard eats his onion with his humble crust of bread, as he sits by the refreshing spring; it is because experience has long proved that, like the cheese of the English laborer, it helps to sustain his strength also, and adds-beyond what its bulk welld suggest-to the amount of nourishment which his simple meal suggests. -Johnson's Chem. of Com. Treated as in the latt and winter, they come upon the table watery, solid and every , way disagreeshie. A Vermont woman, who has surprised us by making old potatoes as good as new, dry, mealy fresh, has disclosed to us the process she puts them through to effect so desirable a result. The potatoes are pared and put to soak in cold water from four to six hours; then dropped into water which is already boiling -an essential point; and a little salt added o the water improves them. Take tmhe from the water the moment they are done; pour off all the water and let them stand uncovered in the kettle till the water evaporates from the surface, and they are ready for the table. The result will astonish those who try it for the first time, and they will never return to the old method of boiling them with the skins on. - Springfield Republican.

LANCONGE:-Language is the amber in which a thousand precious thoughts have been safely embedded and preserved. It has arrested ten thousand lightning-flushes of genius, which, unless thus fixed and arrested, might have been as quickly passing and perishing as the lightning. Testimony of the Professor of Obstetrics in the Penn Medical College, Philadelphia DR, HUNTER'S MEDICAL MANUAL"—The author of his work, unlike the majority of those who advertise to cure the diseases of which it treats is a grad-uate of one of the best Colleges in the United States It affords me pleasure to recommend, him to the un fortunate, or to the victim of malpractice, as a winc cessful and experienced practitioner, in whose hone and integrity they may place the greatest confidence Jos. S., Longshork, M. D.

From A. Woodward, M. D., of Penn University From A. Woodward, M. D., of Penn University Philadelphia.—It gives me pleasure to add my testi mony to the professional ability of the author of the Medical Manual, Numerous cases of Disease to the Genital Organs, some of them of long standing have come under my notice, in which his skill has been manifest in restoring to perfect health in some cases where the patient has been considered beyond medical aid. In the treatment of Seminal weakness or discrementant of the functions produced ness, or disarrangement of the functions produced by self-abuse or excessive venery, I do not know his superior in the profession. I have been acquainted with the author some thirty years, and deem it no more than justice to him so well as kindness to the unfortunate victim of early indiscretion, to recom mend him as one in whose professional skill and in tegrity they may safely confide themselves, ALFRED WOODWARD, M. D. "This is, without exception, the most comprehensive and intelligible work published on the classes of discases of which it treats. Avoiding all technica terms, it addresses itself to the reason of its readers. It is free from all objectionable matter, and no parent, however fastidious, can object to placing it in the hands of his sons. The author has devoted many years to the treatment of the various complaints treated of, and with too little breath io puff and too little presumption to impose, he has offered to the world at the merely nominal price of 25 cents, the fruit of some twenty years' most successful practice.

"No teacher or parent should be knowlede imparted in this valuable work. It would save years of pain and mortification and sorrow to the youth under their cliarge."-Pcoples' Advocate.

A Presbyterian clergyman in Ohlo, writing of "Hunter's Medical Manual" says - "Thousands upon thousands of our youth, by evil example and influence of the passions, have been led into the habit of self-pollution without realizing the sin and fearful consequences upon themselves and posterity The constitutions of thousands who are raising fam ilies have been enfeebled, if not broken down, and they do not know the cause or cure. Anything that can be done so to enlighten and influence the public mind as to check, and ultimately to remove his wide spread source of human wretchedeess would confer the greatest blessing next to the religion of Jesus Christ, on the present and coming gen-cration. Intemperance (or the use of intoxicating drinks) though it has slain thousands upon thousands, is not a greater scourge to the human race. Accept my thanks on behalf of the afflicted, and believe me your co-worker in the good work you are so actively engaged in."

For the Care of COUGHS, COLDS, HOARSENESS, BRON-CHITIS, CROUP, ASTHMA, WHOOP-ING COUGH AND CONSUMPTION.

THIS remedy is offered to the community with the confidence we feel in an article which seldom fails to realize the happiest effects that can be desired. So wide is the field of its assfulness and o numerous the cases of its cures, that almost every section of the country abounds in persons, publicly known, who have been restored from alarming and even desperate diseases of the lungs, by its use. When once tried its superiority over every other medicine of its kind, is too apparent to escape observation, and where its virtues are known, the public no longer hesitate what antidote to employ for the distressing and dangerous affections of the pulmohary organs, which are incident to our climate.

Nothing has called louder for the earnest enquiry f medical men, than the alarming prevalence and fatality of consumptive complaints, nor has any one lass of diseases had more of their investigations and care. But us yet no adequate remedy has been provided, on which the public could depend for pro tection from attacks upon the respiratory organs, untill the introduction of the CHERRY PECTORAL. This article is t shproduct of a long, laborious, and I believe successful endeavor, to furnish the community with such a remedy. Of this last statement the American people are now themselves prepared to judge, and I appeal with confidence to their decision If there is any dependance to be placed in what filen of every class and station certify it has done for them, if we can trust our own senses, when we see dan-gerous affections of the throat and lungs yield to it, if we can depend on the assurance of intelligent physicians, who make it theif business to know,—ir thort, if there is any reliance upon anything, then s it irrefutably proven that this medicine does reieve and does cure the class of diseases it is de signed for, beyond any and all others that are know-to mankind. If this be true, it cannot be too freely published, hor be to widely known. The afflicted should know it. A remedy that cures, is priceless to them. Parents should know it, their children are iceless to them. All should know it, for health can an be priced to no one. Not only should it be circulated nerc, but everywhere, not only in this country but in all countries. How faithfully we have acted on this conviction, is shown in the fact that already this article has made the circles of the globe. The sun never sets on its limits. No continent is without it, and but few peoples. Although not in so general use in other nations as in this, it is employed by the more intelligent in almost all civilized countries. It is extensively employed in both America, in Furgoe, Asia, Africa, Australia and the far off islands of the sea. Life is as dear to its possessors there as here, and they grasp at a valuable re medy with even more avidity. Unlike most preparations of its kind, it is an expensive composition of costly materials. Still it is afforded to the public at a reasonably low price, and what is of vastly more importance to them, its quality is never suffered to decline from its original standard of excellence. Every bottle of this medicine, now manufactured, is as good as ever has been made heretofore, or as we are capable of making. No toil or cost is spared, in maintaining it in the best perfection which it is possible to produce. Hence the patient who procures the genuine Cheary Pectoral, can rely on having as good an article as has ever been had by those who testify to its cures, of believing that much has been done already.
