

SELECT MISCELLANY.

Capt. Samuel Brady and Com- planter.

Many of the wild legends of border strife and Indian barbarity that have been enacted along the shores of the Allegheny and Ohio, have never been rescued from the dim and fading remembrance of past ages.

The story I am about to relate, I received from an old Indian pilot of the Allegheny. It was many years ago when that stern old chief Complanter, (whose remains now repose in silence and loneliness on the banks of that beautiful river he loved so well.)

His people were hostile to the whites, and never lost any opportunity to lie in ambush and seize the lonely voyager as he descended the river, and confine him to the stake and the torture.

Like Daniel Boone, Lewis Wetzel, Simon Kenton and others, who made Indian hunting a pastime, his deadly hate of the Indian, and his burning passion for hunting them down, amounted to a monomania.

The scene of the present story is at a place known to boatmen and raftsmen as "Brady's Bend," and where now the noise and bustle of a new manufacturing town called the "Great Western" resounds along the shores that then echoed only to the war whoop of the savage or the paathier's scream.

It is a bend in the river of nine miles in length called the "Nine-mile Bend," and is scarcely half a mile across the neck. Here in this bend, Complanter returned from some successful inroad upon the whites, and secured several prisoners, by tying them to some many trees, while his swarthy and hideously painted followers were busy in making preparations for the faggots and the torture.

The stake was erected and the faggots prepared with all the coolness and refinement of Indian barbarity. It was a beautiful evening; the sun was just sinking behind the lofty hill upon the opposite shore. Calmness had thrown its own wand upon the Allegheny's crystal tide and it stent.

The melancholy note of the whippor-will from the adjoining thicket fell sweetly upon the ear. The victims were unbound and led to the place of torture. At this moment a voice high up among the frowning rocks that loomed out from the thick hemlock that crowned the hill opposite, hailed Complanter in the Indian tongue, informing him that he was an Indian warrior, just returned from the war-path with a goodly number of prisoners.

He desired that the ceremonies of the torture might be suspended until he could ford the river and join them, when they would celebrate the occasion with usual demonstrations of savage rejoicings. To this Complanter consented. The flames were extinguished that had been kindled and the prisoners again bound to the trees.

In the meantime, Brady, for it was he who had deceived the wily Indian, with a body of men, moved silently up the river to a place known as "Truby's Ripple," and there fording the river, drew his men up across the neck of the bend, and moved noiselessly down upon the savages. So cautious was his approach that the Indians were completely cut off from retreat before they became alarmed.

Brady's men hemmed them in from behind, while the Allegheny rolled in front. The first intimation to the savages of his approach was communicated by a deadly discharge from his unerring rifles. The Indians fought with desperation, but were overpowered; all killed or taken prisoners save the chief, Complanter, who finding himself alone, plunged into the river, and swam for the other shore.

Being a good swimmer, he remained several minutes under water, but as he rose for breath, he was greeted with a shower of bullets. In this way, alternately swimming under water as long as he could hold his breath, and then rising to the surface, he escaped unhurt, and reached the other shore in safety, secreted himself behind a large standing rock.

The prisoners were of course unbound, and all joined in the justification and joy at the timely and unlooked for release. The rock that shielded Complanter from Brady's bullets was pointed out to me by the old Indian in a recent trip down this river. It is known as the "Complanter's Rock." The old Indian gave me the story with a sad and dejected countenance, in broken English.

"Alas! what a change where then the shooey tide of the beautiful Allegheny parted only to the swift-skimming canoe echoed to the wild voices that came out of the dense, dark forest, now is heard the shrill whistle of the steam pipe and rushing of the mighty steamer. Where the tawny savage then reclined upon the shady banks from his pursuit of the deer, the panther and the bear, or rested from the war-path, is now the scene of life and activity.

The tall forest has receded before the advance of civilization, and given place to farms, beautiful villas and bustling towns.—The Indian, too, has passed away; but a few, and they but miserable, decaying relics of what they once were, are now occasionally seen, the descendants of the proud race that once could call these hills, and groves, and rivers all their own. Alas! in the language of the poet:

"Chieftains and their tribes have perished. Like the thickets where they grew."

Every heart has a secret drawer. The spring of which is only known to the owner.

NEW SPRING GOODS.

THE subscribers are now opening their stock of GOODS for the Spring Trade, comprising a full and complete assortment, and of the usual variety, which will, as heretofore, be sold at a very small profit for READY PAY.

Also, for men's wear may be found Broad Cloths, Cassimeres, Tweeds, Kentucky Jeans, silk, satin and summer Vestings.

Also, Sheetings, Shirtings, bleached and brown, Tickings, Summer Goods for boys' wear, Cotton Yarn, Carpet Warp, Cotton Batten, with a variety of other articles too numerous to mention.

A full stock will be kept on hand. Those in want of Singars, Teas, Coffee, Molasses, Stewart's best Syrup, Spices, Pepper, Ginger, Saleratus, Flour, Fish, Salt Tobacco, or any other article in this line, will do well to call on us before purchasing elsewhere.

As large and complete assortment as can be found in the county. Among which is Shovel of all kinds, Carpenters' Tools, Chains, Hoes, Spades, Forks, Butts and Screws, Door Hangers, Bits, &c., &c.

Like Daniel Boone, Lewis Wetzel, Simon Kenton and others, who made Indian hunting a pastime, his deadly hate of the Indian, and his burning passion for hunting them down, amounted to a monomania.

THE subscriber would respectfully inform his customers and friends that he still continues the mercantile business, at the old place, at the well known store of L. J. Nichols, where he will be happy to wait on those that will favor him with a call, and would invite the attention of the public generally to his large and commodious stock of DRY GOODS, Groceries, Ready-Made Clothing and Hardware, CROCKERY, WOODENWARE, STONE-WARE, BOOTS & SHOES, HATS AND CAPS, &c., &c.

In fact everything else kept in a country store, articles too numerous to mention, and will sell cheaper than can be bought this side of New York City.

All kinds of produce taken in exchange for goods at the highest market price. J. R. BOWEN.

An Invaluable Book for 25 cents. Every Family should have a copy.

10,000 COPIES SOLD IN LESS THAN A YEAR. A new edition, revised and improved, just issued.

DR. HUNTER'S Medical Manual, and Handy Book for the Afflicted—Containing an outline of the origin, progress, treatment and cure of every form of disease contracted by promiscuous sexual intercourse, by self-abuse or by sexual excess, with advice for their prevention, written in a familiar style, avoiding all medical technicalities and everything that would offend the ear of decency; with an outline of complaints incidental to females, from the result of twenty years' successful practice, exclusively devoted to the cure of diseases of a delicate or private nature.

To which is added receipts for the cure of the above diseases, and a treatise on the causes, symptoms and cure of the FEVER and AGUE.

Testimony of the Professor of Obstetrics in the Penn Medical College, Philadelphia.—"DR. HUNTER'S MEDICAL MANUAL."—The author of his work, unlike the majority of those who advertise to cure the diseases of which it treats is a graduate of one of the best Colleges in the United States.

From A. Woodward, M. D., of Penn University, Philadelphia.—"It gives me pleasure to add my testimony to the professional ability of the author of the Medical Manual. Numerous cases of Disease of the Genital Organs, some of them of long standing have come under my notice, in which his skill has been manifest in restoring to perfect health in some cases where the patient has been considered beyond medical aid. In the treatment of Seminal weakness, or derangement of the functions produced by self-abuse or excessive venery, I do not know his superior in the profession. I have been acquainted with the author some thirty years, and deem it no more than justice to him as well as kindness to the unfortunate victim of early indiscretion, to recommend him as one in whose professional skill and integrity they may safely confide themselves.

ALFRED WOODWARD, M. D. "This is, without exception, the most comprehensive and intelligible work published on the classes of diseases of which it treats. Avoiding all technical terms, it addresses itself to the reason of its readers. It is free from all objectionable matter, and no parent or teacher need hesitate in placing it in the hands of his son. The author has devoted many years to the treatment of the various complaints treated of, and with too little breath to puff and too little presumption to impose, he has offered to the world at the merely nominal price of 25 cents, the fruit of some twenty years' most successful practice.

No teacher or parent should be knowledgeable imparted in this valuable work. It would save years of pain and mortification and sorrow to the youth under their charge.—Peoples' Advocate.

A Presbyterian clergyman in Ohio, writing of "Hunter's Medical Manual" says—"Thousands upon thousands of our youth, by evil example and influence of the passions, have been led into the habit of self-pollution without realizing the sin and fearful consequences upon themselves and posterity. The constitutions of thousands who are raising families have been enfeebled, if not broken down, and they do not know the cause or cure. Anything that can do so as to enlighten and influence the public mind as to check, and ultimately to remove his wide spread source of human wretchedness, would confer the greatest blessing next to the religion of Jesus Christ, on the present and coming generations. Intemperance (or the use of intoxicating drinks) though it has slain thousands upon thousands, is not a greater scourge to the human race. Accept my thanks on behalf of the afflicted, and be assured your co-worker in the good work you are so actively engaged in."

One copy (securely enveloped) will be forwarded, free of postage, to any part of the United States for 25 cents, or six copies for one dollar. Address, (post paid) GOSDEN & CO., Publishers, or Box 198, Philadelphia.
