 All persons owning shares in the Great North-Western Land Agency, Leland Barnes & Co., Ag'ts., will hear something to their advantage by calling at this office.

 Wild pigeons have begun to make their appearance in our woods. In consequence of the snow upon the ground they have become tamed by hunger so as to be an easy prey to sportsmen. Every destructive weapou from a double-barrel to a shooting-stick, is in great demand.

 The weather for the past few days has been what every one has so ardently wished for during the blustering of the past month. The syn has once, more shown himself, and the streets have become dry and passable, and every one is wishing to be out of doors. The Spring sever also has begun its ravages, on every corner, sence top and door step, can be seen individuals in all stages of the disease; a warm fence top is at a premium, while an inclined cellar-door can't be had on any consideration. We hope our farming friends will make good use of the warm days, not forgetting that sugar as well as 'hay' is made while the sun shines.

 We have been shown a door-lock. which claims the merit of being Burglar-proof. This lock is portable, and can be instantly applied or removed from any door without the use of tools. The travelling public should not be without them. Call and examine them at Taylor's Book Store, Hart's Hotel or Robert's Stove and Tin Store.

 Read advertisement in another column, of Ambrotypes. Mr. Beckwith has thus far given general satisfaction with the daguerrectype, and judging from the specimen of the new style shown us we can warrant satisfaction to all who wish a faithful and correct portrait. The new style surpasses the old in clearness and beauty of expression, durability, and does away with the metallic glare seen in the daguerreotype. Mr. B. will remain in town but a short time, and all who desire a good picture should secure it without

 Great excitement was visible in the village on Monday afternoon, an alarm was scended to the kitchen from whence proceeded moans and cries, and there upon the probably "they smelled a mice,"

 On opening a letter a few days since, hailing from California; we received a terrible shock to our nervous system. In one corner of the sheet lay a large chunk of some I last we gave it up and left it to a man o the world who came in to decide. He, to our consternation pronounced it 'gold'. BEARDING THE LION IN HIS DEN.—Platte At the Old Stand over the bunty Missouri, is the home of ex-Senator STORE OF B. B. SMITH & SON DEARDING THE LLUNING HIS DEN.—FIRITE COUNTY, Missouri, is the home of ex-Senator David H: Atchison. There have originated all the Kansas troubles, and no small share of the most lynchings of individuals. But Platte county is not entirely in the bands of the most of the most of the county is not entirely in the bands of the county is not entirely in the same of the the outlaws, as might be supposed. On the contrary, they are said to be greatly in the minority there, and, if a vote could be now taken, it would be decidedly against Atchison, and all his associates. Nevertheless, the few hundreds of border ruffians have long kept the majority in subjection. Their rule, however seems to be past, for on the 4th lust, a meeting of the Bentonites was held at Weston; in Platte county, at which one man "remarked that he had a report to make as Coroner, which was, that he had held an inquest over the dead political body of the Hon. David R. Atchison, and that the verdict of the jury was-that he came to his death by an intemperate use of old Bourbon, and exposure in the late waf?" This was received by the meeting with much merriment. On the same day, the Atchison party held a political convention at Platte city, at which General Atchison made a short speech, saying that, in the spring, he was going to Kansas to live, and that he was out of the politics of Missouri, He spoke of the Benton party as "suspended between heaven and hell; unfit for heaven and unworthy of hell." It is evident that there is not much love between these two factions. The correspondent of the St. Louis Democrat says that Atchison told several gentlemen that he "did join the Know Nothings, and that he did so for express purpose of killing old Benton, and that, as he had accomplished that object, and as the Know Nothings at the North had become Free Soilers and Abolitionists, he had left the order." -U. S. Gazette.

FEMALE RIOT-WHISKEY BELOW PAR. On Saturday last, about twenty or thiry of the most respectable lades in Farmingtonbacked up and protected by about 800 men and boys-turned out armed with suitable implements, and went to every grogshop in the place, emptied out all the intoxicating drinks could find; which, from all that we could learn, was not a very small quantity. One man locked up his groggery, determined to keep them out; but finding them resolute unfinching, he finally unlocked it again, to save them the trouble of breaking the door in, then stood and watched them turn his liquors out; and when they had finished, he jumped upon the counter and proposed three cheers for the ladies, after which he made them a short speech, and declared decidedly that he would never sell any more intoxicating drinks as long as he lived in Farmington. We hope he will be as good as his word, and that the ladies will see that all the rest do likewise. In one grocery the ladies, by misvillage on Monday afternoon, an alarm was take, attacked a barrel of molasses.
