Select Miscellany. Hogarth's "Tailpiece."

DE SUCCE THE REAL FORST FOR THE MARKED

A few months before Hogarth was seized without giving the "engle a squeeze that with the moledy which deprived society of makes him his like a gander." Mr. Grip is a one of its brightest ornaments, he proposed tled "The Tailpiece." The first idea of this picture is said to have been started in company, while the convivial glass was circulating round his own table. "My next under." taking said Hogarth, "shall be the end of all things." "If that is the case," replied his friends, "your business will be finished, for there will be an end, to the painter? ing heavily ; "and therefore the sooner my work is done the better." Accordingly, he began the next day, and continued his design with a diligence that seemed to indicate an plete it. This, however, he did, and in the mos' ingenious manner, by grouping everything that could denote the end of all things: -A broken bottle; an old broom worn to the stump; the butt-end of an old musket; a cracked bell; a crown tumbled to pieces: towers in ruins; the sign-post of a tavern, called "The World's End" falling down ; the moon in her wane; the map of the glube burning; a gibbet falling, the body gone, and the chains which held it drooping down; Phorbus and his horses lying dead in the clouds; a vessel wrecked; Time with his glass and scythe broken; a tobacco pipe with the last whiff of smoke going out; a play book opened, with excunt omnes stamped in the corner; an empty purse; and a statute of bankrupicy taken out against nature. To do another out of four cents, affords him "So far, so good," said Hogarth, on review. as much pleasure as to make two shillings ing his performance; "nothing remains but this," taking his pencil and sketching the ro- that gets ahead of Grip, has got to start earsemblance of a painter's pälette broken. "Finis!" he then exclaimed. "The deed is done ; all is over." It is a very remarkable fact, not generally known, that Hogarth never again took the palette in his hand, and that the arrival of the minister in the porch, a his "Tailpiece"

Sin George Beamont, when a young man, was one day in the Mount-a famous coffee pouse in Mount Street, Grosvenor Square -with Harvy Aston. Various persons were seated at different tables. Among others present. there was an Irishman who was very celebrated as a duelist, having killed at least half a dozen antagonists. Aston talking to some of his acquaintances, swore that he would make the duellist stand barefooted before them

" You had better take care what you say," they replied : "he has an eye upon you."

"No matter," rejoined Aston ; " I declare you, if you will make up a purse of filly replied, "an' many it please yer honor, 1 guinea-

Although Mr. Grip is a man of wealth, he "maket it a point" never to put over five cents on the plate, even for the benefit of "Central Africà," This piece of coin he places in the rica," This piece of coin he places in the here kept constantly on hand, a suit wairanted to right hand pocket of his vest on Saturday wear as long as any other, and made in the best and evening, so as to "prevent mistakes." A lew Sunday's since, Mr. Grip, in dressing, for there will be an end to the painter?" got on the wrong vest. He did not discover "There will be so," answered Hogarth, sigh his error till the "man with the plate" commenced chasing up that five cent piece. It was no good, however, he had the wrong vest on, while the smallest piece of money he had in his pantaloons pocket was a half apprehension that he should not live to com- dollar. He, of course could not think of "throwing away funds" in that manner. He applied to his wife :

"Mary, have you got any small change?"

"Not a cent." He then turned to his son.

"Got any small change, George ?"

"Nothing but a shilling-that one with illars you gave me last night."

"Haven't you got a smooth one ?" "No, sir."

"Well, hand it here, and give me you knife, I'll stick him on four cents any way. Saying this, Mr. Grip took his son George's mile and drew it across his son George's shilling. By this means, Mr. Grip reduced its value to eight cents, and felt better for the next two days. Mr. Grip is a character. in any legitimate manner. The plate carrier ly, that's all.

A marriage under difficulties took place at Philadelphia the other day. While awaiting he died about a month after he had finished | tuilor stepped up to the bridegroom and presented a bill for his wedding coat. The bill must be paid at once or the coat returned but as the poor fellow had not a dollar beyond the minister's fee, there was a bright prospect that he would have to get married in his shirt sleeves. A friend, however, advanced the needful, and he twain were "made one flesh." Hardly had the parties left the altar, when a stout, coarse woman made her way up to the bride and presented her bill for the wedding dress ! The friend again advanced the money, and the couple departed.

EXTREME BRAVERY .- " Well, my good fellow," said a victorious general to a brave soldier, after a battle, "and what did you do again that he shall stand barefooted before to help us gain this victory ?" "Do ?" he They did so Aston then said in load cut off his fut off." "Cut off his foot I and the general, "Ah, an' faith, that was off

HAZEL-EVED GIRLS .--- Major Noah says that a "hazel-eve inspires at first a Platonic denument" which gradually but surely expands into love as securely founded as the rock of Gibrallar. A woman with a hazeleye never stopes from her husband / never chats scandal, never finds fault, never talks too much nor too little, always is an entertaining, intellectual, agreeable and lovely creature " "We never knew," says a brother editor, "but one uninteresting and unsmiable woman with a hazel eye, and she has city Hon.A.V. FRENCH LOVE OF SCANDAL.-A French provincial paper contains the following paragraph :--

"A trial took place at our Assizes. It promised rich food for scandal. All the ladies of the town bedecked themselves in their amartest toilets, and crowded to the court house. On seeing this, the presiding judge rose and said : Persons here assembled as spectators are not aware of the nature of the case. I therefore invite all decent women to withdraw." A pause took place without a single female moving to retire from her seat. Seeing this, the Judge rose again and said : "Officer of the Court, now that all the decent women have retired, turn out the remainder."

Hoors are dangerous, in some places. Read and tremble. In New York, a day or two since, a full-rigged lady was walking up Broadway, when one of the hoops with which her circumnmbients were inflated, the ends of which had not been strongly secured together, suddenly broke loose, and, flying back with great force, tore completely through the outer garment and struck a small boy who was standing on the sidewalk about twenty feet from the lady. The small boy was taken home senseless; it is feared he will not recover. The hoop is al. ready recovered.

FUNNY REASON .- In the Arrison trial at Cincinnati, says the Golumbian, one of the gentlemen who was chosen as a juror, and who lives almost within a stone's throw of the place where the infernal machine exploded, stated in his examination, that he had " never heard of the case," and in excuse for this want of knowledge of what was going on, said that " he had a house rented to a lot of Irish, and they gave him so much trouble that he couldn't think of anything else."
