Taking the Assessment.

The following story we find in the las West Baton Rouge Sugar Planter:

When the immortal Col.----was Assessor of a neighboring parish he was wont to have a figs old time. One day as he was assessing the valuables of the occupants of a log cabin munted in the Pine woods, he in his usual upbane manner "popped the ques-tions" to the old woman, while the old man gamble; in the street I learned to pilfer; O, had gone to procure some "corn cob, oil" where with to regale his guests.

how much are they worth ?"

"Well, there's three old horses-but they ain't wuth a cent; three cows, but they've been lost this Spring two years; nary sheep -'cept my old man and he ain't wuth a cuss; but he allers votes the Dimmycrack ticket, and buys his whiskey by jug when he can get it a heap cheaper by the bar'l .---The chickens was all stole the other night, and hope to massy they'll pizen the scamp that hooked 'em."

. "Very satisfactory estimate of your valuables, particularly about the old man-but here's something worth assessing." (point. ing to a dirty little urchin about five years old, that was clinging to his old mother's gown.) "how much do you value that httle absence she never slept a wink; she missed

By this time the old woman had worked herself up to an ungovernable fury, raising The place to buy goods cheap, is where they ner voice to a shrill yoll, she called out to advertise. SNORING .- Old Hicks was an awful snorer. He could be heard farther than a blacksmith's forge ; but his wife became so accustomed to it that it soothed her to repose. They were a domestic couple who never had slept apart for many years. At length the old man was required to attend Court some distance from home. The first night of his the snoring. The second night passed away in the same manner, without sleep. She was getting in a bad way, and probably would have died had it not been for the ingenuity daylights out of you in a minnit. > FRUIT TREES .- Fruit growers should be partcularly carful this year in making purchase of peach, plum, damson, pear and appricot trees, as the past winter has treated these varieties very harshly, killing the bud, if not the stalk of the tree. An easy mode of testing whether a tree has vitality in it or not, is by cutting off a twig near the bud. If the wood thus exposed presents a dark brown color, and snaps as if half seasoned, the tree it not dead, is not worth planting.

BE EQUAL TO THE CRISIS .--- When a crisis befalls you, and the emergency requires moral courage to meet it, be equal to the Tequirements of the moment, and rise superior to the obstacles in your path. The universal testimony of men, whose experience exactly coincides with yours, furnishes the consoling reflection that difficulties may be ended by opposition.

There is no blessing equal to the slout heart. The magnitude of danger needs nothing more than a greater effort than ever at your hands. If you are recreant in the hour of trial, you are the worst of recreants, and deserve no compassion. Be not dismayed or unmanned when you hear with fear and dread, is pregnant with blessing, and the frown, whose sternness makes you shudder and tremble, will ere long, be succeeded by a smile of bewitching sweetness and benignity. Then be strong and manly, oppose equal force to open difficulties, keep a firm reliance on your ability to overcome the obstacles ; and trust in Providence.

THE DRUNKARD'S BRAIN .- Hyrli, by far the greatest anatomist of the age, used to say that he could distinguished, in the darkest room, by one stroke of the scalpel, the inebriate from that of the person who had lived soberly. Now and then he would congratulate his class upon the possession of a drunkard's brain, admirably fitted, from its hardness and more complete preservation, for the purpose of demonstration. When the anatomist wishes to preserve a human brain for any length of time, he effects his purpose by keeping that object in a vessel of alcohol. From a soft, pulpy substance, in then becomes comparatively hard.

"But the inebriate, anticipating the anatomist, begins the indurating process before death-begins it while the brain remains the consecrated temple of the soul, while its delicate and gossamer tissues still throb with the pulses of heavenborn life. Strange infatuation thus to desecrate the god-like !--Terrible enchantment that dries up all the tender humanities and sweet charities of life, leaving only a brain of lead and a heart of stone |

BEAUTIFUL AND TRDE .- Education does not commence with the alphabet. It begins with a mother's look-a lather's smile of approbation or sign of reproof-with a sister's genile pressure of the hand, or a brother's noble act of forbearance-with a handful of flowers in the green, daisied meadows-with bird-nests admired but not touched-with creeping ants and almost imperceptible emmets-with humming bees and glass beehives pleasant walks in shady lanes, and with shoughts directed in sweet and kindly tones, and words to mature acts of benevolence; to doeds of vifue and to the source of all good -to God himself.

If, on the other hand, the wood is of a yel- stock, and a smooth job, will not fail to make their lowish green color, the tree will, ten chances selections and leave their orders at to one, live and bear fruit.

BEECHER says, there is a great deal more Gospel to the poor in a loaf of bread, and a cheerful word of sympathy, than a dozen dry sermons.
