Hay Covers.

A good set of hay covers will save twice their cost, every season, and with due care will last a dozen years. Two months from now farmers in the vicinity of New York cure the hay against injury from a sudden shower. Now is the time to get the hay covers ready. Do you know how? Perhaps not. Then we will make this little item worth more to you than the price of the Tribune for a whole year. Buy a piece of stout, coarse, brown cotton sheeting, yard wide or more, and tack it upon the sunny side of a board fence, or broadside of the barn, and seed oil, 1 gallon ; beeswax, 2 pounds-boiled together-to which add a quart of Japan varnish. Dry two days and cut the cloth into squares, and to each corner attach a round stone of six or eight ounces weight, sewed in à bag, fastened to the cloth by a string a few inches long, in such manner that the weights can be easily taken off for convenience in packing away the covers when out of use. One of these thrown over a cock of hay hastily tumbled together, will keep it quite dry in case of a sudden shower. A large cover for a wagon load or unfinished stack of hay or grain will be found one of the most useful implements on the farm. It is surprising that every man who hauls hay to market does not keep such a useful thing .- N. Y. Tribune.

Proper Time te Manure.

With respect to the proper time or season for putting on farm-yard artificial and other manure that will depend entirely on circumstances and the convenience of the farmer. I remember this question was once put to a very shrewd old farmer by a young neighbor, who had a very high opinion of the old man's judgement and experience in farming matters; and after stipulanting for a fee in the shape of a jug of ale (which of course, was very cheerfully paid) what think you was the old man's reply to the anxious inquirer ? Why simply this : "Put it on all the year around." Now, although we may not quite agree with the farmer that all the year about is the best time for putting on manure, yet I think most of us agree with him that a dressing of good manure will seldom do harm at any season; and no doubt by this significant answer the old man meant to impress upon the mind of his neighbor the high value he placed upon this right hand friend. In my opinion, the best time for applying manure of any kind (including bone etation is the most active, say in the months of April and September, if the land can be spared; and the old fashioned custom of putting on manure immediately after the hay is carried off, is, I think, a very good one .---Mr. Martin.

TO IMPROVE SEED POTATOES.-Charles Seager, of St. Louis, recommends the following easily tried method of improving potatoes, so as to restore them to the original soundness, richness and mealiness of this valuable root :

Midnight The State State Huferland, in his treatise on sleep, has some curious as well as forcible ideas on the necessity of devoting midnight to rest and leep. He considers that the period of twentyfour hours, which is produced by the regular revolution of the earth on its axis, marks its influence most definitely on the physical econ-omy of man. Diseases show this ygular in-fluence in their, daily rise and fall. Settled regular fever exhibits a twenty-for hours' flux and reflux. In the healthful state, there is manifested the same regular influence, and the more habitual our meals, our hours of will be cutting their hay crop, and not one employment, and our hours of sleep, the in ten has such a thing as a hay cover for bia more power is there in the system to resist hay cocks by which he can effectually se- disease. In the morning the pulse is slow and the nerves calmer, and the mind and body better fitted for labor. As we advance towards the evening of the day, the pulse becomes accelerated, and an almost leverish state is produced which, in excitable persons, becomes an absolute evening fever. Rest carries off this fever by its sleep, and the refreshing opening of its pores which sleep produces. In this nightly respiration there is an paint it with the following composition : Lin- absolute crisis of this evening fever, and this periodical crisis is necessary to every one, for it carries off whatever useless or pernicious particles our bodies may have imbibed.

This evening fever, Huferland thinks, is not entirely owing to the accession of new chyle to the system, but to the departure of the sun and of the light. The crisis of this fever, to be most effective by its regularity, ought to take place at midnight, when the sun is in its nadir, and then the body becomes refreshed for the early morning labor. Those who neglect this period, either push the diurnal crisis into the morning, and thus undermine the importance of its regularity, or lose it entirely, and arise to their labors unrefreshed by sleep. Their bodies will not have been purified by the nightly crisis, and the seeds of disease will have thus been planted.

Nervous people are peculiarly subject to the influence of this evening fever, and think they cannot labor without its excitement. Hence their mental efforts are performed in the night alone; the important time for the crisis of their nervous exclement passes over in wakefulness, and no perspiration cleanses the body or strengthens the nerves. Such people will wear out soon, unless they change their habits and seek rest when nature and the human constitution dictate.

These considerations ought to be deeply studied and regarded by all who are in the ruinous habit of turning night into day, and changing the functions of each.

A failure of nealth will soon manifest the truth of these remarks.

A Time of Justice Will Come.

We are consious of the odium that rests upon us. We feel that we are wronged; but we are not impatient for the righting of our wrongs. We bide our time. The man that shall come after us, will do us justice. The present generation of America cannot dust) to permanent pasture is when the veg- | "judge righteous judgment," in case of the uncompromising friends of freedom, religion, and law. They are so debauched and blind. ed by slavery, and by the perverse and low ideas of freedom, religion, and law, which it engenders, that evil good, and good evil; put darkness for light, and light for darkness: put bitter for sweet, and sweet for bitter.' They have been living out the lie of slavery so long, and have been, thereby, deadening thir consciences so long, as to be now well nigh incapable of perceiving the wide and everlasting distinctions between truth and notatoes for six or seven weeks after the usual time of planting, say till the last week of June or the first week of July, and then plant and cultivate them as stock potatoes.

They will grow until the frost withers the vines, when they should be dug. As they have not had time to mature, they will be quite small-not more than an inch and a half through, but they should all be carefully gathered, and kept safe from frost through the winter, and planted at the usual time of planting in the spring-one of the small potatoes sufficient for seed in each hill. The result will be large sized, sound, mealy potatoes, as I have proven by actual trial. I bope it will be tried by some of our farmers this year.

THE GOLDEN GRAIN .- Faithful Nature. true to herself, and good and true to man, what time man is unfaithful to God and to himself-seeking in our South to abase Labor, and degrade Humanity, to subject Free. dom, and hinder Republicanism-is generously growing grain all over the corn fields and wheat helds of the nation, and promises the People a harvest of extraordinary bounty. She covered the tender plants thickly with anow the past winter. Uncovered now by her spring breath, they have been watered by her, and saved from hurtful changes of temperature, and from the violence of winds. The high prices of wheat in '55 induced widely extended sowing last fall, and the present spring. A successful harvest, succeeding upon a favorable season of growth and ripening, must put the next fall's prices of flour to those long absent rates for the. poor of $4,00 and $4,50 the barrel.-Alb. How TO COOK HAMS .- The Southern Farmer gives the following receipe for cooking a ham, and we can testify to its excel lence.

An excellent manner of cooking a ham is the following : Boil it three or four hours according to the size, then skin the whole and fit it for the table; then set it in an oven for half an hour, cover it thickly with pound? ed rusk or bread crumbs, and set it back for half an hour longer. Boiled ham is always improved by setting it into an oven for pear an hour, until much of the fat dries out, and it also makes it more tender. 1.579
