

Asbes for Corn.

I noticed an article in the newspapers not long since, wherein the writer recommends a mixture of asbes, shell, lime, bones, &c., which he has found valuable for corn, when applied as a top-dressing to the hill after planting. We have been in the habit of using asbes alone for some years, and have invariably found it of much greater value when put to the hill than on the surface. Some five years since, we had finished planting our corn, with the exception of about five acres left for pasture, which we did not plant until the rest was planted. We had put asbes in the hills of all we planted, and had some three or four bushels left. When we were about half done planting the rest, I recollected the asbes which were left, and immediately sent for and applied. The rest on both sides had no asbes in the hill, but when the corn was some two or three inches high, we obtained enough unbleached asbes and applied them to the hill on the surface. The corn came up best where there was no asbes, which I have often before and since observed to be the case, asbes often times keeping the corn back. But when the corn became a few inches high, you could observe a change. That on which the asbes were put in the hill, grew evenly and had a fine color, while on either side you would soon find hills, of almost any required size, from the smallest to the greatest, and almost all varieties of colors. The difference continued throughout the season, and it was an easy matter to tell at a glance where the asbes were in the hill from the very row. In this case, the asbes on the top did no apparent good. I am unable to explain the reason of this, or why a handful of asbes in each hill should make such a marked difference. I noticed numbers of small insects on the hills and felt somewhat inclined at the time to think they had something to do with it. Be this as it may, we believe so much in the beneficial effect of asbes in the hill for corn, that we do not put any more corn in without them. We use much leached asbes, which we generally mix with the unbleached, and find it to do as well. We generally add some plaster also. Some are opposed to the practice of eshing in the hill, on account of the extra time consumed while planting, and so prefer putting on at a more leisure time. The proper way to determine where it would be of most advantage, would be to try each way, side by side. The experience of others may be different from mine, or difference in soil may cause different effects, but my mind is fully made up that the best way for me is to apply in the hill, all things considered, and that will in almost every case pay well. When the corn crop fails, there is generally enough difference in the stalks to make it do so.—Dollar Newspaper.

Work for June and July.

Cutting Grass and Curing Hay. Timothy should never be cut until after the seed is formed, and then between the milk and dough state. Orchard grass, however, is so much more tender when cut in the flower, and is therefore so much preferred by cattle when so cut, that it should not be permitted to ripen into seed before cutting; it does so, however to a great extent after cutting, and contains much more nutriment than timothy. Many farmers do not consider the scorching effects of our June and July sun, and the consequence is, that hay is too much dried in this country. Unless the grass be very thick and heavy, it will generally cure sufficiently, when exposed in the swath for two days. When shook or stirred out, it should not remain in this condition beyond the first day, or it will lose much of its nutritive juices; nor should dew or rain be permitted to fall upon it, unless in cocks. It is better after partially drying, to expose it for three or four days in this way, and as soon as properly cured, place it under cover. It is a good practice to salt hay when put up, and it is thus secured against damage from occasional greenness; and there is no waste of the salt, as it serves the double object, after curing the hay, of furnishing salt to the cattle and manure heap. Clover should be cut after having fully blossomed and assumed a brownish hue. By close cutting more forage is secured, and the clover afterwards springs up more readily and evenly. The swath, unless heavy, ought never to be stirred open, but allowed to wilt on the top. It may then be turned over, and when thus partially cured, placed in high, slender cocks, and remain till sufficiently dry to remove into the barn. Clover may be housed in a much greener state, by spreading over it in the mow, from ten to twenty quarts of salt. Some add a bushel, but this is more than is either necessary for the clover, or judicious for the stock consuming it, as the purgative effect of two much salt induces a wasteful consumption of the forage. A mixture of alternate layers of dry straw with the clover, by absorbing its juices, answers the same purpose while it materially improves the flavor of the straw for fodder.

Blindness in Cattle.

In our paper of the 22d ult., we published a communication touching a case of blindness of a cow, and asking for a remedy. A day or two since, we were called upon by a gentleman who furnished us with the following statement of a similar case among his stock, and his mode of treatment. Some two months ago, one of his oxen was taken with a discharge of matter from his eyes, which continued until they were completely covered with a thick white film, and the animal was entirely blind, and had to be led to and from the barn, and to the water. Mr. P. made trial of all the remedies he could think of—blue vitriol, burnt alum, &c., but to no effect, when he was informed by Mr. Joseph Soule of Palermo, that Lard would effect a cure, and as it could do no harm, he determined to try it. He accordingly melted a quantity of lard, and the animal's head being turned to one side, to render the application possible, he turned the head into his eyes. This treatment he repeated about once every three days. Now for the result. Soon after applying the lard the film began to grow dark colored, and gradually disappeared—as it were, peeling off. This was about four weeks since, and the cure was progressed until the animal is now nearly well. Some small particles of the film yet remain at the lower part of the eyes, but, to all appearance, the sight is as good as ever. Mr. P. still continues the application. The lard should not be applied very hot—merely warm enough to run from the spoon or dish.—Maine Farmer.

A Slight Mistake.

The Boston Evening Gazette says that as an old gentleman was one morning passing through Howard-street, during the engagement of the "eminent tragedian," McKean Buchanan, his attention was arrested by what he considered unnatural sounds, issuing from the Howard Athenaeum. The old gent, not being aware of its location, or the rules of theatres, from curiosity ascended the front steps. The noise still ringing in his ears, he mounted to the first tier.—After he had for a while gazed with astonishment upon the stage, he was accosted by one of the employers of the establishment thus: "Who do you wish to see, sir?" "No one, sir, in particular; but I heard a noise from this building, and as a citizen, I came in to ascertain the cause of the disturbance." "No disturbance here, sir; the manager don't allow those things."

"Then from whence came those harsh sounds?" "Mr. Buchanan, sir, is rehearsing "Macbeth." "Oh—yes—I beg your pardon. I thought it was a dog fight!"

A CAPITAL STORY.—The Hawkeye and Iowa Patriot tells a capital temperance story. A farmer, belonging somewhere in Iowa, bought a keg of whiskey and carried it home. Well knowing that his better half occasionally took a "drop or so" if it came in her way, and now then would have a drop at all events, he then endeavored to conceal the keg from her by suspending it in the barn somewhere near the ridge pole. The eagle-eyed, or rather "hawkeyed" wife got sight of it, however, and resolved upon obtaining a taste. It was impossible for her to reach it. At length she hit upon the following expedient, which worked to a charm. Taking down her husband's rifle, she put in a charge with a good ball, and taking deliberate aim at the keg, tapped it with a ball and brought down the whiskey at the first shot! Having a tub previously prepared, she was thus enabled to catch all, without losing a drop, and left her poor husband to weep over and wonder at the loss of his whiskey.

DON'T WORRY.—This is the first thing that an editor should get by heart. If Mr. Slocum threatens to withdraw his patronage because you criticized Prof. Drawl's lecture on the onion question, don't worry—but tell him go ahead and do it.

Mr. Bullion writes you an insinuating letter, saying that if you don't stop writing about the Diddleton Railroad, he will ruin you with a law suit, don't worry—but dare him to try it on.

Mr. Smith threatens to "cave your head in," because you mentioned that his son Bob was sent to the Tombs for pelting a street lamp with brick-bats—don't worry, but tell him that you love the law, that you dine on sallad made of red tape and sealing wax.

Again we say never worry. If you do, you are no more calculated for an editor than a Quaker is for marine horripipes.

EXPURGATION EXTRAORDINARY.—A gentleman was conversing with the Professor of Moral Philosophy at the West Point Military Academy, not long since, in reference to the text books used at that institution. "What text books do you use in moral science?" asked the former.

"Wayland." "But how do you get along with the chapter on slavery?" "Oh! that is expurgated! The Secretary of War cut that out." It is thus that Literature, Philosophy and Ethics are tortured and emaciated for the convenience of Slavery.

FAITH.—In order to render strict obedience to the commands of God, it is necessary that we have Faith—I mean a lively and evangelical Faith, without which "it is impossible to please God." This Faith will always work by love, and purify the heart—thus producing good works, wherein is no merit of our own; but they are all the fruits of the Spirit, and must redound to the glory of the Divine Redeemer alone. Did we take the credit to ourselves, we should be ungrateful hypocrites, and lose sight of the triumphs of the Cross, which Christ wrought out for our salvation.

WHAT fools men are to lament that they are not as well off as "that fellow across the street." The richest man in town will be forgotten in fifty years from now, as the mason who built the Rocky Mountains. In 1843 we attended the funeral of a millionaire. We visited his grave recently, and what do you suppose we saw? Four bobtail pigs rooting the soil for his grave. And this was the end of all his influence—a neglected grave, with four stub-tailed pigs rooting up the soil. So passes the glory of the world.

As an appropriate finale to the proceedings, the convention at Cincinnati adopted a resolution that the next convention of the party then represented should be held at Charleston, S. C. And they might properly have added that the farce of having delegates in attendance from the free States, should be discontinued as an expensive and useless form.—Buff. Republic.

The time is rapidly coming when all men will see that the characters "which have been most highly esteemed among men" have been a sheer nothing in the divine estimation.—Henry James.

Dress Marks the Man, OWING to the great rise in paper, there is a great increase in the price of all kinds of goods. Therefore, every man who wishes to save the first cost on his old clothes should cast them, buttons and all into the rag-bag; not however until he calls at the PREMIUM CLOTHING STORE, AT TIOGA; and selects from the large and splendid assortment of Ready Made Clothing, here kept constantly on hand, a suit warranted to wear as long as any other, and made in the best and most substantial manner, and under his own supervision. The proprietor has a complete knowledge of the trade, and can sell the best quality of Ready Made Clothing considerably cheaper than any other establishment in the county. He keeps a variety of Cloths, Cassimeres, Vestings, Drawers, Trimmings, Wrappers, Shirts, Collars, Cravats, &c. &c., which will be sold as reasonably as they can be purchased elsewhere. His stock of GOATS & VESTS can't be beat this side of New York, either in price, style, or quality. Don't forget that this establishment took the first premium at the Fair of last October. Particular attention given to cutting and making garments to order. C. OSMUN. Tioga, April 5, 1855.

MONEY TO LET. R. S. BAILEY, HAVING just returned from New York with his fall purchases, would invite the attention of buyers to his exhibition of GOODS & WARES, comparing qualities and prices with any establishment in Tioga county. Thinking the idea of a great deal of show and bombast in advertising, I would simply say that the usual variety of useful articles in the line of DRY GOODS, GROCERIES, BOOTS & SHOES, CLOTHING, HATS, CAPS, HARDWARE, OILS, PAINTS, STONE WARE, CROCKERY, TIN WARE, &c., may be found at prices that cannot fail to please purchasers for Ready Pay. Should it so happen that an article called for is not on hand, customers are positively assured that it will be "sent next week." In connection with the establishment may be found a good assortment of Box, Parlor, and Cook Stoves, of the heaviest castings and most approved patterns together with everything in the line of tinware, wholesale and retail, manufactured by and under the supervision of our fellow townsman, Mr. John B. Soffield, who is said to be the best tinner in the county. Those wishing work made from good stock, and a smooth job, will not fail to make their selections and leave their orders at Nov. 29, 1855. MILL GEARINGS furnished without extra charge for patterns. FLOWS of all kinds, (two of which took the premium at the late County Fair,) kept constantly on hand. We have the exclusive right, for Tioga County, to manufacture and vend the King Stove. one of the best (if not the very best) Cook Stoves ever invented; which is always on hand at our store house, for wholesale & retail. Their Stoves took the premium over the Albany Stoves at the late Fair. That is a feather in our cap which we do not intend to have plucked out soon. Corn Shellers. Of all the improved patterns that commend themselves to farmers. Besides this, we intend to furnish better Ware, better articles and better work, at lower prices than any other establishment in Tioga county can get what he buys at reduced prices. This is the fair way of doing business, and the system upon which the Tioga Foundry and Machine Shop will be conducted hereafter. Don't wait for the wagon, but come on. TABOR, BALDWIN & CO. Tioga, Nov. 15, 1855-4f. Old Iron and Copper, and all kinds of produce taken in exchange for work.

A NEW ERA IN SUN-PENCIL-LING!—E. W. BECKWITH respectfully announces to the citizens of Wellborough and vicinity, that he has perfected his arrangements for taking AMBROTYPE'S, and is now ready to gratify those who wish a faithful likeness of themselves by this beautiful process. The superiority of Ambrotypes over pictures on metallic plates, is obvious to the most careless observer. The harshness and metallic luster of the latter are entirely obviated, and instead, we have a clear, well-defined impression, exceeding in softness of light and shade the finest steel engraving and as plainly to be seen in any light. Pictures of infants and children of every age taken with certainty and despatch. Persons wishing to have their pictures taken, let their stay in town will be necessarily short. Pictures taken in cloudy as well as in clear weather. Apr. 3, '56-4f.

HERE'S YOUR CHEAP BOOTS & SHOES! HAVING removed to the building in the rear of Bailey & Foley's store, the subscriber is prepared to furnish to order, MEN'S & BOYS' KIP & CALF BOOTS Pegged and Sewed, WOMEN'S & CHILDREN'S KIP & CALF SHOES—YEN'S & BOYS'—COARSE BOOTS. Made upon honor—and warranted to wear out in due time, and not to rip until they are worn out. As a man known by his Boots no less than by the company he keeps, it behooves every man to take heed how his "understanding" is cared for. A reasonable share of the public patronage is respectfully solicited. Hides taken in exchange for work. W. A. SEARS. Wellborough, Dec. 28, 1855-ly.
