

Family Receipts.

Clover, as well as the grasses intended for hay, should be mowed when in bloom.

A bit of soda as large as a marrowfat pea, to a quart of milk, will keep it sweet a day or two longer than without.

The New England Farmer says that common hard soap applied to the end of a recently pruned vine will stop the bleeding.

IMPERIAL GINGER POR.—Cream of tartar, one pound; ginger, two ounces; white sugar, seven pounds; essence lemon, one drachm; water, six gallons; yeast, half a pint. Tie the corks down.

CHEAP CAKE.—One cup of sugar, one of butter, two ounces of butter, one teaspoonful of saleratus, one essence of lemon, stir in flour till quite stiff, beat the mixture well before baking.

MOULDINESS.—Fruit jellies may be preserved from mouldiness, by covering the surface one fourth of inch deep with finely pulverized loaf sugar. Thus protected, they will keep in good condition for years.

HARVEST DRINK.—Mix with five gallons of good water, half a gallon of molasses, one quart of vinegar, and two ounces of powdered ginger. This will make not only a very pleasant beverage but one highly invigorating and healthful.

CURE FOR NERVOUS HEADACHE.—The application of towels wrung out in hot water to the forehead and temples is represented to be an efficacious and speedy remedy for headaches arising from neuralgic affection.

CORN MEAL PUDDINGS may be made of yellow meal stirred into scalded milk till as thick as gruel, and, when cooled, add ginger, cinnamon, nutmeg, salt, and a little fine cut suet, and some raisins, or dried peaches, or fine apple. It should be baked an hour or more—according to size.

HOME MADE DRINKS FOR THE FIELD.—Six quarts of water, two quarts of molasses, half a pint of yeast, two spoonfuls of cream of tartar. Stir all together. Add the grated peel of a lemon, and the juice may be substituted for the cream of tartar. Bottle after standing ten or twelve hours with a raisin in each.

RICE CAKES.—Boil rice until it is soft, and while warm make it into cakes or Cat balls. Dip these balls into a beaten egg, and then roll them into Indian meal till thoroughly coated. This done fry them in lard, which is better for this purpose. Serve them with sauce, or butter, or cream and sugar.

CREAM.—Cream cannot rise through a great depth of milk. If, therefore, milk it desired to retain its cream for a time, it should be put into a deep, narrow dish; and if it is desired to free it most completely of cream, it should be poured into a broad, flat dish, not much exceeding one inch in depth.

TO MAKE BEEF TENDER.—Cut your steaks the day before using into slices about two inches thick, rub over each a small quantity of soda, wash it off next morning, cut into suitable thickness and cook to notion. The same process will answer for fowls, legs of mutton &c. Try it, all who love delicious tender dishes of meat.

CURE FOR STIFF JOINTS FROM RHEUMATISM.—Beat quite thin the yolk of a new laid egg and add by degrees, three ounces of water; shake it well, that the egg and water may be well mixed. This is to be applied to the contracted parts, either cold or milk warm, rubbing it well three or four times a day.

Mrs. L. W., of Erie, Pa., says:—"Whoever will soak clothes from twenty to thirty-six hours before washing them, will find that they can do without patent washing fluids, &c., and save nearly all the wear of clothes by rubbing, too. The clothes may be boiled without rubbing—any more than to rinse the loosened dirt."

CORN CAKE.—A special premium was awarded to Mrs. Chas. W. Wampole, at the Exhibition of the Montgomery (Ala.) Agricultural Society, for the corn cake, made after the following receipt:—"Take the white of eight eggs; one fourth pound each of corn starch, flour and butter; half pound sugar; teaspoonful of cream-tartar; half a tea-spoonful of soda. Flavor with almonds to suit the taste."

TO MAKE GOOD RUSK.—Take a piece of bread dough large enough to fill a quart bowl, one tea-cup full of melted butter, one egg, one tea-spoonful of saleratus; knead quite hard, roll out thin, lap it together, roll to the thickness of this biscuit, cut out with a biscuit mould, and set it to rise in a warm place. From twenty to thirty minutes will generally be sufficient. Bake them, and dry thoroughly through and you will have an excellent rusk to eat with your coffee.

SOAP SUDS FOR CURRANT BUSHES.—A correspondent of the Indiana Farmer says:—"I have found the cultivation of currants to be very profitable. By care and attention I greatly increased the size of the bushes and the quality of the fruit. My bushes are now about six or eight feet in height, and are remarkably thrifty. The cause of this large growth, I attribute in a great measure to the fact that I have been in the habit of pouring soap suds and chamber ley around their roots during the summer season. I am satisfied from my own experience and that of some of my neighbors, that this treatment will produce a most astonishing effect upon the growth and product of the bushes, and would advise others to give it a trial."

The editor of the Boston Liberator calls upon the ladies of the North to make use of no article that is produced by slave labor. The Louisville Journal says he needn't expect them not to use cotton. They will not expect such an old friend from their bosoms.

BLUE GRASS AND WOODLAND PASTURES.—Cassius M. Clay gives some valuable directions in the Ohio Farmer, respecting blue grass pastures. He says the older the sward is the better. He has a pasture which has not been broken for more than sixty years, and it is the best on the farm. As to woodland pastures, he says they will keep young stock growing, or old stock "on foot," but will not fatten them. "Just as far as there is shade, the grass is deficient in nutritious qualities—that grass which is most exposed to the sun being best."

HOW TO CLEAN ANIMALS AND PLANTS OF VERMIN.—The Agricultor publishes a letter from M. Raspaill, giving an account of a plan for destroying vermin on animals, and also trees and plants. The process he recommends is to make a solution of aloes, (one drachm of that gum to a little water;) and by means of a long brush to wash over the trunks and branches of trees, with this solution, which will speedily, he says, destroy all the vermin on them, and effectually prevent others from approaching. In order to clean sheep and animals with long hair, they must either be bathed with this solution, or be well washed with it. The writer mentions several trials which he had made with the solution with the most complete success, and very strongly recommends it to general use.

TO PREVENT FRUIT TREES FROM SPLITTING.—For preventing forked trees from splitting under their weight of fruit, Isaac Lewis, of Hopkinsville, Kentucky, has given us his plan. "My plan," he writes, "which I have followed for thirty years, is this: when I find a forked tree that is likely to split, I look for a small limb on each fork, and clean them of leaves and lateral branches, for most of their length. I then carefully bring them together and wind them round each other, from one main branch to the other. In twelve months they will have united, and in two years the ends can be cut off. The braces will grow as fast as any other part of the tree, and is a perfect security from splitting. I have them now of all sizes, and I scarcely ever knew one to fail to grow."—Practic Farmer.

A MARK'S NEST.—The Buchanan papers are parading with much unctious a vote or two given by Col. Fremont while in the Senate, on the subject of abolishing Slavery in the District of Columbia. The whole matter is thus satisfactorily set forth in the Tribune:

"At the sessions of the People's National Convention at Philadelphia, incidental allusions were made to a vote cast by Col. Fremont during the twenty-one days he occupied a seat in the Senate, which was not regarded as Anti-Slavery in its character, and which some who doubted the propriety of his nomination feared might embarrass him during the canvass. Since then, we have taken some pains to examine the official journal of the Senate of 1850, and find that these objections vanish into thin air, when all the attendant circumstances are considered.

The objectionable vote was one where his name was found recorded against a proposition to abolish Slavery in the District of Columbia subject to a popular vote upon the question. But an examination of the official journal shows that but five Senators voted in its favor, and that it was evidently not a test vote. The circumstances are as follows:

On the 12th of September, the bill to suppress the slave-trade in the District of Columbia was pending, when Gov. Seward, to show by his record that he preferred to strike the institution out of existence altogether in the District, moved to strike out the whole bill from its enacting clause, and insert the proposition above referred to. It was rejected, as it was expected it would be, the vote standing yeas 45. Among the yeas with Col. Fremont were such northern men as Roger S. Baldwin of Connecticut, John Davis of Massachusetts, Thos. Ewing of Ohio, H. Hamlin of Maine, Truman Smith of Connecticut, and R. C. Winthrop of Massachusetts. They preferred, doubtless to bend their energies toward obtaining what was attainable—the breaking up of the slave pens and the slave auctions in the National capital—and on the 10th of September the bill passed, Fremont and Dayton voting with all the Northern Senators in its favor—Atchison, Jeff. Davis, Butler, and the rest of that kidney, in the negative. Fremont voted against another proposition for an absolute, unconditional abolition of Slavery in the District, which was overwhelmingly rejected, and the success of which was expected by no one. But during the pendency of the bill suppressing the District Slave trade, several votes were taken which proved plainly enough where the young Californian's heart was, and to which side of the Senate Chamber his principles of humanity led him. On the 14th of September, an amendment was pending providing that if a free person should entice or induce a slave to run away, or should harbor any such, he should be imprisoned in the District Penitentiary five years. The veto was a close one—Yeas 23, Nays 26. But our standard bearers, Fremont and Dayton, voted No, and turned the scale against it. Among the Yeas were Barnwell and Dutler, of S. C., Dawson and Berrien of Ga., (the State in which Fremont was born) Jeff. Davis, Soule, Foot, (later and Mason of Va., W. R. King, Rusk and others.—Among the Noes were Fremont and Dayton, Baldwin, Chase, John Davis, Ewing, Hale, Hamlin, Seward, Winthrop and others. Of another amendment to authorize the Corporations of the District to prohibit free negroes within their limits, under penalty of imprisonment and fine; which also failed by Yeas 20, Nays 28; Atchison, Butler, Soule, Jeff. Davis and others in the affirmative; Fremont and Dayton, Hale, Chase and Seward were in the negative. The record is a significant one. Avoiding extreme votes for hopeless propositions, he was found on all real test questions with the friends of Freedom.

We were not at all surprised (on page 691, Sept. 28) to find that when Mason of Va. moved to strike out the clause in the Navy bill which abolished flogging in the Navy, Col. Fremont was found voting an emphatic No, with Hale, Seward, Chase and other Northern men, who believed that sailors could be better disciplined in some other way than by the cat-o-nine-tails, administered in plantation style, at the whim of their superiors.

There is a standing article in all the Whig democratic papers, that A. J. Lewis, of Boston, states upon his own authority that J. C. Fremont is a slave holder. A. J. Lewis is probably a fictitious name, or a new name for their old father, for every one of them who keeps the article in their columns, knows that John C. Fremont never owned a slave in his life, and they dare not say that he ever did on their own responsibility, as long as they are of living.—N. H. Sentinel.

The superiority of Ambrotypes over pictures on metallic plates, is obvious to the most careless observer. The harshness and metallic luster of the latter are entirely obviated, and instead, we have a clear, well-defined impression, exceeding in softness of light and shade the finest steel engraving and as plainly to be seen in any light. Pictures of infants and children of every age taken with certainty and despatch. Persons wishing pictures will please call soon, as this stay in town will be necessarily short. Pictures taken in April as well as in clear weather. April 3, '56-ly.
