

State. You may just kick that down and write Caesar under to fatten it.

A funny incident touching Fremont occurred the other day on the Reserve, at the house of George Washington, another Delaware Chief. During the recent campaign, some of the Opposition papers, as you are aware, speedily asserted that one of the qualifications of our candidate for the Presidency was his ability to get into meat. A friend of mine being at George's house, observed a pair of pistols hanging up against the wall. "What," said he, "do you use them?" "Yes, we use them, heap."

"Where?" "California." "Were you ever in California?" "Yes; me be in California with Fremont?" "Ah! Well, do you know that Fremont is up for President?" "George Washington projected his eyes, and threw up his hands in delighted amazement, exclaiming: "Fremont good man 'oh, yes; Fremont great man—Fremont make great President: he eat mule, heap?" "Fremont eat dog?" asked my friend. "No!" replied George Washington. "Delaware eat fat dog; Fremont no eat dog; Fremont eat mule, heap!"

A CHANGE.—The Richmond, (Va.) Enquirer, during the late election, could find no language too severe, insulting, or violent, to be applied to the Republican party. Since the visit of Gov. Wise to the President elect, the Enquirer speaks thus:

"During the canvass we often spoke in very round terms of the universal, moral, political, social, and religious scepticism of the Black Republicans. We asserted the party to be a mere congeries of isms. We were sincere in our assertions. We are now undeceived. We respect Americans too much, North and South, to believe for a moment that a party so large as that which voted for Fremont, is composed wholly, or indeed chiefly, of fanatics, infidels, or sceptics. We have to look out for other causes, for this national movement. We find a clue to them in the article upon which we are commenting, the North believes the South is arrogant, overbearing, and aggressive. The North is mistaken, but sincere. The change of opinion, policy, and position about slavery; if more marked at the South than elsewhere, has been universal, and it is to this change of opinion throughout Christendom, that owe we the new policy of our Government."

Is this the key to someone attempt to dox back the refractory North into the leading strings of southern propagandism?—Courier.

A SOUTHERN PAPER, in explaining the intelligence in Berks county, which led to the large majority at the late election, lets off the following good one: In the palmy days of Pennsylvania militia training, we believe it was to old Gen. Keim the honor was given, to train the enlightened populace of old Berks into the science of march and counter march, to which task he assiduously devoted his attention for many years; but with all his practical skill and energy, he never could succeed in making them keep step, until he resorted to the expedient of tying a band of straw on one leg, and a band of hay on the other, and compelled them to march to the order of "hay foot, straw foot; straw foot, hay foot." It required a very little foresight—no mantle of prophecy—to predict how that county would vote.

THE TRIBUNE FOR 1857.

The Tribune is a paper that is not only a source of information, but a source of instruction. It is a paper that is not only a source of information, but a source of instruction. It is a paper that is not only a source of information, but a source of instruction.

These facts indicate the path of progress. With no unmanly repinings over what is irrevocable—with no abatement of heart or hope because the triumph of Liberty in her own order is not won at the Long Island and White Plains of her struggles—with no shadow of regret that the responsibility of governing is not confined to her champions before the People were fully ready to sustain them—we begin afresh the work of diffusing that vital truth which is the life of the nation.

But even if the Republicans were disposed to fold their arms in slumber, our adversaries would not permit it. They are busy to-day in lengthening their cords and strengthening their stakes with a vigilance and activity which reveals a consciousness on their part that their hour is not far distant.

THE PEOPLE'S PICTORIAL DOMESTIC BIBLE, With about One Thousand Engravings! This noble work is destined, if we can form an opinion from the Notices of the Press, to lay an unprejudiced and complete view of our wide-spread continent, and to form a distinct and a full view of the people of the AMERICAN PEOPLE.
