The Brooky Chimney.

James Gray wes a hard working man, and his wife a decent woman, and tach was the posed to night o the comport of the other; that they did all next her was the comport of the other; that they did all they could, they tidde sag enemy to their pences which often disturbed them this a simply chimnes with they were frequently as peavish as thought they lind a digital provoking sadic other; Which James came came homesat right, and would have enjoyed his meal in a clean touck, and by a bright fire, he had a digital to the contract of the plaints of his wife, who declared that to sille such a smoke as she did allidaylong was the bearable. James thought it had enough o endum the smoky chimney by to beat at the signe time a scolding from his side for what he knew not how to avoid troubled thin sadly, and many a half hour did he sit bread ing over his troubles and contriving how he should cure his smoky chimney.

One night when the smoke was making its way in every direction except up the chimney, and James was puzzling his brain, and riving to hit upon some plan to lessen the evil, a neighbor of his, a slater, popped his head in at the door.

"James," said he; "you are in a pretty resulution, another neighbor, a glazier, made his appearance.

"Muster Gray!" said he, "why your chimney gets worse and worse; I tell you what, you may try a hundred schemes, but none of them will do till you put a whirl-agig in your window-that is what you want, and you will have no peace until you get Away went the glazier, and James began to think about having a whirl a gig in his window; but was a little puzzled whether to try the whirl-a-gig or the tiles.

" Hollon, James !" shouted a third neighbor, a bricklayer who was passing by, "here's n pretty smother; I suppose you mean to smother us all out!"

"No. no." said James; "I am tormented too much with the smoke myself, to wish to torment any body else with it. Nobody knows what a trouble it is to me."

"Why, now," replied his neighbor, " if you will only brick up your chimney a little closer, it will be cured directly; I was plagued just in the same manner, but a few bricks put all to rights, and now I have no trouble with the chimney! at all."

This account set James Gray off a woolgathering once more; and whether to put slates at the top, to brick up closer the bottom of the chimney, or to have a whirl-a-gig in the window, he did not know. He mused on the matter before he went to bed, a woke two or three times in the night, and pondered it over, yet, when he got up in the morning he was as little decided as ever. Just as he was about to set off to his work, old Allen lngram came by. Now Allen had the character of being a shrewd, sensible old man, which character he well deserved, so that he was often consulted in difficult cases .--James Gray, as soon as he saw him, asked him to step in for a moment, which he willingly did.

"I want your advice," said James, "about my chimney; for it is the plague of my life, it smokes so sadly,"

"What have you done to it?" inquired old

"Why, as to that," replied James, "I have done nothing but fret about it; for one tells me to do one thing, another, another; among three different opinions, I am puzzled." "There may be some sense in what they say," said old Allen; "and if I found it necessary, I would take the opinion of all three; try them all, and see which is best."

No sooner was old Allen gone, than James went in search of the slater, who, in an hour's time had put the slates on the chimney-top. When James returned from his work at night his wife told him that the house had not emoked quite so bad as it did before, but that still it was not cured. James then went to the glazier; he put a ventilator in the window, which many people call a whirl-a-gig-this did wonders. James then went to the bricklayer, who in the morning bricked up the chimney a little closer, to make the draught quicker. When James returned, he found a hearth, a bright fire, a good-tempered wife, and a house clear of smoke. Old Allen calied again to know how matters went on, and was much pleased to hear that all was right now.

- " Now," said old Allen, "the next time . you get into a difficulty, instead of wasting your time fretting over it, listen to the advice of others, and to act on this plan will cure a thousand troubles.

HAD HIM THERE .- An incident occurred in one of the Churches of this city, on Sunday last, which is quite too good too keep .--We have it from undeniable authority and know it to be true. The Pastor of the Church was catechising the pupils of the Sabbath School, and asked among other questions, " Where is God?" Various answers were returned by the children, after which the minister proceeded to speak of the omnipresence of Deity, concluding his remarks, with the admonition, "Remember dear children, that God is everywhere." The words had hardly escaped his lips when a roguish-looking little fellow rose up and said to the pastor: "Please sir, did you say that Gud was everywhere !"

" Is he in my pocket?"

"Yes, he is in your pocket?" the triumphant retort; " cause I hain't got any nocket." Was ever sacerdotal dignity assailed before by such a stunger as that ?-Syracuse

June 26, 1856. IMPROVEMENT EXTRAORDINARY,

WE would respectfully call the attention of Mill owners and all interested in the use of water dower in this vicinity, to a patented from Water Wheel, (called Greenleaf's gravity and percussion Water Wheel,) one of which they have recently point a Saw Mill owned by Judge White of Weilsboro and Dr. Archer of Morris township, and situate one and a fourth miles from Rubb's Creek on the Stony Fork. This wheel on Saturday the 7th inst. a single saw to saw hundred feet of white pine lumber: 4100 feet a which was one such in thickness, 400 feet 2 motor thick, 500 feet 11 inches thick. This Wheel used i very small quantity of water, only discharging abox 90 square inches and with about 114 feet head in: fall of water while performing the above. Thus Wheels are well adapted to the propelling of all kine of Machinery driven by Water power. They are very simple and substantial in their construction, and will do from one third to one half more were than any other Iron Water Wheel in operation is this vicinity with which they are acquainted. The offer for sale on very liberal terms the patent right for Counties or States, and also to furnish and put a operation the Wheels in Mills in this vicinity on resonable terms. For further information address A. Greenleaf, Morris township, Babbs Post Office, or t Vance care of P. P. Cleaver Wellsboro Tioga Co.

A. GREENLEAF, L. VANCE, June 12 1856. N. B. The above named Wheel may be seen in operation at almost any time by calling on Mr. Robert Wilson who has the Mill in charge.
