Transplanting Cabbages.

Often when cabbage plants are removed from the beds where they were raised to the garden square, a large portion die, and in a few days the gardener must re-set the square with other plants, and this has occurred so frequently that most persons have concluded that it is inevitable. Many will doubt when we tell them that it is wholly their fault that every plant does not live. Yet such is the fact. It results from two errors which are easily avoided. One is that in drawing the plants the roots are broken, and the other from keeping out of the ground too long, until it becomes more or less dry. The gardener instead of having the land prepared fully before he takes up the plant and going thro' the whole process of drawing and planting in a few minutes, often draws the plants, then lays off the ground, and then drops every plant where it is to be put, before he begins to set the first one, and by the time he gets to the last they are hopelessly injured. Sometimes, we have seen such instances, the plants are lying thus on the ground exposed to the heat of the sun for hours, before they are planted. If they grew afterwards it would be yery wonderful. The plan which we have pursued for many years seems to us to be far more reasonable, and certainly is much more successful than that usually followed in this region. We prepare the land thoroughly first of all, and then lay it off before a plant is drawn from the bed. Some hours before the plants are drawn, water is applied freely to the beds in which the plants are growing to soften the earth, so that the plants can be taken without breaking the roots. The plants are then carefully drawn, and taken at once to the spots where they are to be planted. There meantime, a mud puddle has been made, by scraping away the soil, and pouring down water, and mixing soil therewith until a tolerably thick mud has been formed into which the root of each plant is immersed. A considerable portion of mud will adhere to the root, and then as quickly as possible they are planted. The result of this mode of planting is, that a plant rarely ever fails to grow off at once and flourish vigorously, and unless the worms or insects attack the plants, we never have occasion to re-set cabbage plants .- Southern Planter.

HENS AND Eggs.—For several years past I have spent a few weeks of the latter part of August, on the Kennebec river, in Maine .-The lady with whom I have stopped is a highly accomplished and intelligent housewife .-She supports a hennery, and from her I derived my information in this matter. She told me that for many years she had been in the habit of administering to her hens, with their common food, at the rate of a teaspoonful of cayenne pepper each alternate day, to a dozen of her fowls. Last season when I was with her, each morning she brought in from twelve to fourteen eggs, having but sixteen hens in all. She again and again experimented in the matter by omitting to feed with the cayenne for two or three days. The consequence invariably was, that her produced eggs fell off to five or six per day .-The same effect of using the cayenne is produced in winter as well as in summer .- Transcript.

How to Select Flour .- 1. Look at its color; if it is white, with a slightly yellow. ish or straw colored tint, it is a good sign If it is very white, with a bluish cast or black specks in it, the flour is not good. 2. Examine its adhesiveness: wet and knead a little of it between the fingers; if it works dry and elastic, it is good; if it works soft and sticky, it is poor. Flour made from spring wheat, is likely to be sticky. 3. Throw a little lump of dry flour against a dry, smooth, perpendicular surface; if it falls like powder. it is bad. 4. Squeeze some of the flour in your hand; if it retains the shape given it by the pressure, that too is a good sign. Flour that will stand all these tests, it is safe to buy.

These modes were given by old flour dealers, and we make no apology for printing them, as they pertain to a matter that concerns everybody, namely: the quality of which is "the staff of life."

CURRANTS FOR WINE MAKING .- The red current (or red Dutch) for wine making, gives a lighter flavor than the white and is considered a better producer. One acre of currant bushes, set 4 feet a part would in due time produce 25 bushels of fruit, and might be made to grow 50 bushels, that depending on the soil and the manner of cultivation .-Thre gallons may be obtained from a bushel of good ripe fruit. Make the wine in the same manner that you would a barrel of good sweet cider, with the addition of from 3 to 4 pounds sugar to the gillon, fermenting off the pomace until it is entirely clear, after which and that of Tioga Co. in particular, that he has for it should be racked off into tight barrels and sale a large quantity of fresh-ground Cayuga Plaster, there remain any desirable time to become at the old price-$6, per ton. sin market, the deponent saith not.

To DRIVE AWAY RATS.—Some years since a correspondent of the Boston Cultivator recommended potash for this purpose .-The rats troubled him very much, having entered through the chamber floor. They apneared in great numbers and were very troublesome, so that he felt justified in resorting to extreme measures to effect their expulsion from his premises. He pounded up potash and strewed it around their holes, and rubbed some under the boards, and on the sides where they came through. The next night he heard a squealing among them, which he sup posed was from the caustic nature of the potash that got among their hair or on their bare feet. They disappeared, and for a long time he wrs exempt from any further annovance.

A Frenchman who was exhibiting some relics and other curiosities, produced among other things, a sword, which he assured his visitors was "De sword dat Balaam had when he would kill the ass." A spectator remarked that Balaam had no sword, but only wished for one, "Ver well, dis is de one he wished
