Spicy Correspondence.

A TRUE WIFE.—We are assured by a friend who is personally cognizant of what he states, that the following piquant correspondence is genuine. A gentleman whose business call him a good deal from home, is accustomed to give the custody of his correspondence to his wife, an intelligent lady, who, in obedience to instructions, opens all letters that come in her husband's absence; answers such of them as she can, like a confidential clerk, and forwards the rest to her liege lord at such places as he may have designated at his departure. During a recent absence of her husband, the lady received a letter, of which the following (omitting names, dates and places,) is a true copy: "My Dear Sir: I saw a fine picture of you yesterday, and fell in love with it, as I did with the original in W— last winter, when I saw you more than an hour, though I suppose you did not see me among so many. I fear you will think me forward in thus addressing you; but I trust you are so noble and unsuspecting as you are handsome and brilliant. Perhaps you would like to know something about me—your ardent admirer! Well, I am not very good at description, but I will say I am not married, (though you are, I am told.) My friends tell me I have not a pretty face, but only a good figure. I am rather petite, have black eyes, black hair and a dark complexion—that is, I am what is called a "brunette." I am stopping for a few weeks with my brother-in-law and sister in this town, and I dearly wish you would meet me there before I return to W—. At any rate, do not fail to write me at least a few words to tell me whether I shall ever see you again, and know you more intimately. Forgive my boldness and believe me, Your friend,"

To this letter the wife, who by the by, has not the least knowledge of the person to whom she was writing, made the following answer:

"Mademoiselle: Your letter of the ——— inst., addressed to Mr. ———, was duly received. Mr. ———, who is my husband, directed me, when he left home some days ago, to open all his letters, and to answer any of them that I conveniently could. As you seem to be rather impatient, I will answer your letter myself. I do not think your description of yourself will please Mr. ———. I happen to know that he dislikes black eyes, and hates brunettes most decidedly. It is quite true (as you seem to suppose) that he judges of women as he does of horses; but I do not think your inventory of your 'points' is complete enough to be satisfactory to him. You omit to mention your height, weight, wind, speed, and [here the word is illegible.] Taking your charms at your own estimate, I doubt whether they will prove sufficiently attractive to draw him so far a B— merely for the satisfaction of comparing them with the schedule. You say you trust my husband is 'unsuspecting.' I think that is his nature, but yet he is used to drawing inferences, which are sometimes as unkind as suspicious. You say you are unmarried. My advice to you is that you marry somebody as soon as possible. In most cases, I would not recommend haste; but in yours, I am convinced there is truth in the proverb which speaks of the danger of delay. Should you be so fortunate as to get a husband (which may God mercifully grant!) my opinion is that you will consider any woman, who should write him such a letter as this of yours, impertinent, and, perhaps, unmodest. "I will deliver your note to Mr. ——— when he returns, also a copy of my reply which I assure he will approve. I am, with as much respect as you permit, MRS. ———"

Arrest of Gen. Walker.

Gen. William Walker arrived in New York last week, as a prisoner, in charge of United States officers. He was arrested with his men on the 7th inst., at Punta Arenas, by Commodore Paulding, who took possession of him, and of his men as pirates and outlaws. The men have been sent to Norfolk, and Walker is to be handed over to the federal Courts, to be dealt with according to law. His previous experience under similar circumstances justifies the belief that he will escape without any punishment whatever. Some fifty of his men still remain in Central America, under Col. Anderson. This force was landed from the Fashion at the mouth of the Colorado, and proceeding up the river, made themselves masters of the fort at Castillo Rapids and the river boats; here they still remain waiting for reinforcements, which are not likely soon to reach them.

With this event Walker's career as a filibuster leader is probably ended; though we just say that such an end by no means does justice to the cruel, sanguinary and ruffianly character which he has exhibited throughout. His opportunities have been limited, but it would be difficult to find in history a more heartless and inhuman villain. His abilities, however, do not keep pace with his ambition; and the junta of Southern propagandists who put him out on the present expedition long determined to deprive him of all real power, and to give the actual control of their enterprise to Gen. Henningsen. That purpose is understood to have been in Washington some time past endeavoring to gain the consent of the Administration to the departure from Mobile with a force of 500 men. In this endeavor he is sustained by very powerful influences. The Slavery paganda, having lost Kansas, naturally attaches out its greedy hands to grasp the tropical regions of Central America. The breaking up of Walker's camp at Punta Arenas is a check upon their design; but we are sure that it is not a design which will soon or easily be induced to abandon.

The little Giant is calculating on a six months' fight on the Kansas question in Congress. He said, less than a week since, to a well known gentleman, a citizen of Kansas, who a looker on in Washington, that if it were possible for the Administration eventually to carry the Lecompton Constitution through Congress, which possibility he did concede, it could not be done in the face of the determined opposition that would be brought to bear against it, in less than six months. He knew what it was to press a measure through Congress with a formidable opposition to confront; and the people of Kansas might rest perfectly easy in his unqualified assurance that they could not be dragged into the Union under the Lecompton Constitution previous to the middle of July. This is authentic.

A well-to-do farmer of Springport, N. Y., three years ago, had a little altercation with his wife, and while conversing with her took up a pail to go after some water. His long absence awakened the fears of his wife, who suspected at once that he had made an end of his life by throwing himself into the well. The well was accordingly searched but the husband was not found. The friendly neighbors industriously sought for but found no traces of him. Last week while his family were at tea, the missing husband walked into the room with the pail of water in his hand, put it into its usual place, and sat down to the table as if nothing had happened. He had been gone just three years after his pail of water, and had visited California and Australia, and had "turned up" again with a handsome little fortune in his pocket.

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL.

FOR THE RAPID CURE OF COLDS, COUGHS, AND HOARSENESS.

BROOKFIELD, MASS., Oct. 1855. Dr. J. C. AYER: I do not hesitate to say the best remedy I ever found for Coughs, Hoarseness, Influenza, and the concomitant symptoms of a Cold, is your Cherry Pectoral. Its constant use in my practice and my family for the past ten years has shown it to possess superior virtues for the treatment of these complaints. ESBEN KNIGHT, M. D.

A B. MORTLEY, Esq., of Utica, N. Y., writes: "I have used your Cherry Pectoral myself and in my family ever since you invented it, and believe it the best medicine ever put out. With a bad cold I should sooner pay twenty-five dollars for a bottle than do without it, or take any other remedy."

Croup, Whooping Cough, Influenza. SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Feb. 7, 1856. Dr. J. C. AYER: I wish to certify that your Cherry Pectoral is the best remedy we possess for the cure of Whooping Cough, Croup, and the chest diseases of children. We of your friends in this place, appreciate your kind and successful medicine to our people. HIRAM CONKLIN, M. D.

AMOS LEE, Esq., Monterey, Cal., writes, 30 Jan. 1858: "I had a tedious Influenza, which confined me in bed six weeks; took many medicines, but finally tried your Pectoral by the advice of our clergyman. The first dose relieved the soreness in my throat and lungs; less than one-half the bottle made me completely well. Your medicine is the best as well as the cheapest we can buy, and we esteem you, Doctor, and your remedies, as the poor man's friend."

BROTHER AYER: I will cheerfully testify that your Cherry Pectoral is the best remedy we possess for the cure of Whooping Cough, Croup, and the chest diseases of children. We of your friends in this place, appreciate your kind and successful medicine to our people. HIRAM CONKLIN, M. D.

ASMA, or Phthisis, and Bronchitis. Dr. J. C. AYER, Lowell, Mass., Feb. 4, 1856. Sir: Your Cherry Pectoral is performing many valuable cures in this section. It has relieved several from alarming symptoms of consumption, and is now curing a man who has labored under this disease for forty years. I have found your medicine to be the best I ever used. HENRY L. PARKS, Merchant.

A. A. RAMSEY, M. D., Allston, Monroe Co., Iowa, writes, Sept. 6, 1855: "During my practice of thirty years, I have found nothing equal to your Cherry Pectoral for giving ease and relief to consumptive patients, or curing such as are curable. We might as well admit that the good which this great reliever has done for the human race, is far beyond what is known to the world at present. Probably no one remedy has ever been known which cured so many and such dangerous cases as this. Some non-african cold and cough, but even to those the Cherry Pectoral affords relief and comfort. A.
