THE TIOGA COUNTY AGITATOR.

A Scene in Real Life.

There is many a life scene more touching, more worthy of immortality than the deeds of conquerors or the heroes of history. The following from the St. Louis Republican, is one :

We saw last evening an apt illustration of the affection of a woman. A poor inebriated wretch had been taken to the calaboose. His conduct in the street, and after he had been taken to the cell, was of such a violent character that it became necessary to handcuff him. The demon rum had ppsression of his soul, and he gave vent to his ravings in curses so profane as to shock the sense of his fellow prisoners, one of whom, in the same cell, at his own solicitation, was placed in a seperate apartment. A woman appeared, at the grating, and in her hands she had a rude tray, upon which were some slices of bread, fresh from the hearth-stone, and other little delicacies for her erring husband.

She stood at the bar, gazing intently into the thick gloom where her manacied companion wildly raved. Her voice was low and soft, and as she called his name its urterance was ss plaintive as the melody of a fond and crushed spirit. The tears streamed from her eyes, and there, in the dark house, the abode of the most wretched and depraved. the tones of her voice found their way into that wicked man's heart, and he knelt in sorrow and in silence before his young injured wife, while his heart found relief in lears such only as man can weep. Though the iron still bound his wrists, he placed his hands, with the heavy insignia of degrada. tion, confidingly and affection stely upon the brow of his fair companion, and exclaimed-"Katy, I will try to be a better man."

There, upon a rude seat, she had spread the humble meal, which she had prepared with her own hands, and after he had finished she rose to depart, bidding him to be calm and resigned for her sake, with the assurance that she would bring a friend to go as his bond, and that she would return and take him home. And she left him a strong man, with his head dropping on his breast, a very coward, humiliated before the weak and tender being whose presence had stilled the angry passions of his soul. True to the instincts of her love and promise, she did return with one who went on his bond for his appearance the next morning-with his hand clasped in that of his loving wife, she led him uway a penitent, and, we trust, a better man,

There were those who laughed as that pale, meek woman bore off her erring hushand : but she heeded them not, and her self sacrificing heart knew or cared for nothing in its heaven born instinct but to preserve him whom she loved with all the devotion of a wife and a woman.

& JOLLY LIFE --- Insects generally must lead a truly jovial life. Think what it must be to lodge in a lily. Imagine a palace of ivory pearl, with a pillar of silver and capitals of gold, all exhaling such a perfume as never rose from human censer. Fancy again the fun of tucking yourselves up for the night in the folds of a rose, rocked to sleep by the gentle sigh of the summer air, nothing to do when you awake but wash your selves in a dew-drop, and eat your bed clo thes.

Morton, of the Neuraska News thus descoples a domestic row of which he was a wilness:

Coming down the Missouri near Dean lake, between Weston and St. Joe, our boat was hailed by a woman on shore. The officers of the craft, with their usual gallantry, rounded to, headed up stream and stopped; the lady informed him that the "Juds and cooking consarns" were all packed in a cabin, hard by, ready for removal, and that it was her desire to take passage down the tiver -

The captain wait ed until he had arrived, and then puffing and blowing, said, "Ann, whar on earth are you going tew ?"

Said she, "Joab, I allow to go where I sin't to be cuffed, and cursed, and mauled every day, by a brute like you."

Said he, in a very melancholy tone-Ann, farewell."

Said she, doubtfully-"Joab, if you'll trea me better, I'll stay and live with you until the breath is clean out of my body."

And Joab promised that he would, and that he hoped to be eternally dog on-ended to thunder if he wouldn't pay the captain for landing, and treat all round if she would just stay; and so she stayed. And the last seen of this nearly separated couple, they were affectionately embracing each other on the bank of the "big muddy," surrounded by seven little free soil bays, whose shirt tails, like the banner of Macheth, were hung up on the outer walls, and whose eves were full of gum, dirt and wonder.

BRUTES LOVE MEN MORE THAN WOMEN.-A writer in the Atlantic Monthly for March, puts it thus :--

Kate, the other day, was asserting a wife's right to the control of her own property, and incidentally advocating the equality of the sexes-a touchy point with her. I put in-

"Tell me then, Kate why animals from stronger attachment to men than women, Your dog, your parrol, and even your cal, already prefer me to you. How can you account for it, unless you allow there is more in us to respect and love ?"

"I account for it." said she, with a most decided nod, "by affinity. There is more affinity between you and brutes."
