Rev. Peter Cartwright at the Astor House.

Some church affairs made it necessary for Mr. Cartwright to visit New York City some years ago, and it was arranged for him that he should put up at the Astor house. It was here that his brethern expected to meet him; his social and denominational appointment had reference to the Astor House as his head quarters. When Mr. Cartwright, however, appeared at the Astor there was nothing in his backwoods appearance that suggested to us proprietors his worthy position among the fathers of Methodism; when, therefore, he requested to be shown to his room he was very cavalierly turned over to a servant to show him up stairs. Up stairs they went -up, up, up-Mr. Cartwright in wondering amazement lost, the servant apparently untiring in his amusement of ascending. Finally the servant opened the door of an apartment up in the attic story, pointed it out to Mr. C., as his room. Father Peter detained the servant while he should take a general survey of the premises—repeated the inquiry if this was the room he was to 'occupy-and at length, appeared to be well satisfied, he disposed of his baggage, and very politely requested the servant to be good enough to show him down stairs again. The servant preceded Father Cartwright, down, down, down, till they reached at length the street landing; but before the servant could make his escape, Peter inquird if he wouldn't show him up stairs! So up they went again, heavenward, and at last Peter found his room, and permitted the servant to depart in peace. The servant however, had little more than found himself down stairs, when Uncle Peter rang the bell vigorously. In due time, up came the servant, by this time panting with unusual exertion.

"My good friend I am sorry to trouble you, but I should be glad to see the clerk, if you will be kind enough to send him to my room." "Oh certainly."

And so down, down, goes the servant to say to the clerk that a singular old chap up in the upper story wanted him to come to his room. And then up, up goes Mr. Clerk. "Are you the Clerk?"

"Yes sir." "Well, you will place me under great obligations to you, if you will show me the way down stairs!" And when once more down stairs, after Uncle Peter had taken another careful survey of the surrounding, the clerk very politely inquired if there was anything further-he could do for him, "Yes," says Uncle Peter, "yes, my friend I would be greatly obliged to you for a broad-

"A broad-axe!" says Mr. Clerk in astonishment, "and what do you propose to do with a broad-axe?"

"I thought I should like to blaze my way to my room !"

It is needless to say that Peter Cartwright was the hon of that week at the Astor; and that it was not further required of him to climb up that endless series of stairwaysbut, when his friends called again to enquire for, or call upon him, they found him snugly ensconced in one of the most eligible rooms in the house.

A'GOOD STORY is told of an old lady who had received a letter from her son on board of a merchantman. It ran thus:

"Have been driven into the bay of Funday, by a pampoose right into the teeth. It blew great guns and carried away the bowsprit; a heavy sea washed overboard the binnacle and companion; the captain lost his quadrant and couldn't take an observation for fisteen days; at last we arrived at Haliwoman who could not read herself, got a neighbor to repeat it to her three or four times, until she thought she had it by heart. She then sallied out to tell the story, "Oh my poor sou!"

"Why, what's the matter, mother? I hope no mischief."

"No, thank God, he's safe! But he has been driven into the bay of Firmament by a bamboozel right into the teeth, it blowed great guns, and they carried the pulpit-a heavy sea washed overboard the pinnacle of the tabernacle, the captain lost his conjuration, and couldn't get any salvation for fifteen days -at last they arrived at Hallelnjah!"

"La, bless me! what a wonder they wasn't beat to atoms. Well, I wouldn't like to be a

A printing office is like a school; it can have no interlopers, hangers on, or twaddlers without a serious inconvenience, to say noth ing of loss of time, which is just as good as gold to the printer-as though it metallicly glistened in his hand. What should be tho of a man who would enter a school and twaddle first with the teacher and then with the scholars-interrupting the discipline of one and the studies of the others? And yet this is the precise effect of the loafers with the course of business-distracts the great attention which is necessary to the good printer.-No gentleman will ever eater it and presume to act the loafer. He will feel above it, for no real man ever sacrifices the interests of or interferes with the duties of others. The loafer does both. Let him think, if he never has, that the last place he should ever insinuate his worthless and unwelcomed pres ence is in the printing office. -- Printers News Letter.

"Doctah, pway, how long can a man live without bwains?" asked a Chicago exquisite of a physician, who had been commenting on the case of an idiot who had recently died. "Couldn't say exactly," was the doctor's reply, "but if you tell me your age I can inake a rough guess." An old offender was lately brought before learned Justice of the Peace. The Constale, as a preliminary informed his worship a learned Justice of the Peace. The Consta-ble, as a preliminary informed his worship that he had in custody John Simmons, alias Jones, alias Smith. "Very well," said the Magistrate, "I will try the two women first; bring in Alis Jones."

The Hottentots at the cape of Good Hope have long used this article as a cape of Good Hope have long used this article as a remedy in a variety of diseases. From them the medicine was borrowed by the English and Dutch physicians residing there and by their recommendation it was soon employed in Europe. In process of time this medicine has come into general use, and is highly spoken of by the best medical writers. Physicians recommend it mostly for complaints of the urinary organs, such as gravel, a morbid irritation of the bladder and urethra, retention of urine, also incontinence of urine from want of tone in the urinary organs. It cools the unnatural heat and relieves pain; and in many cases of long standing relieves pain; and in many cases of long standing it has been effectual when other valuable medicines had failed to produce an effect. The active princi ple of this medicine is a volatile oil which is mostly lost by the old process of boiling. Hence it requires great care and skilful management to prepare this medicine properly.

FLUID EXTRACT OF BUCHU is a strong or concentrated preparation prepared by the new process called Displacement. By this the valuable properties of the Buchu are entirely preserved, and this form of the medicine is less liable to injury from age and more palateable. Patented by Isaac D. Garlick, Lyons, Wayne Co. N. Y., May 5, 1857. The patentee of this Fence, after numerous trials and experiments, has finally succeeded in perfecting a plan for the construction of Fence, which does away with the necessity of inserting posts in the ground. The above Fence is made to set upon the na ural face of the earth, and by its peculiar formation will conform to the undulations of the ground, The mechanical mode of its construction convinces all who examine it of its superiority over anything of the kind ever offered to the public, as well as of its durability, simplicity and chapness. It is so put together that it is secured by means of keys, which are easily adjusted, and battens by which it is kept strained to the ground, so that no trouble need be apprehended from winds is kept strained to the ground, so that no trouble need be apprehended from winds.

This fence can be built of lumber at $10 per thousand, for the sum of 50 cents per rod—making it by far the cheapest fence that can be made; and the ease with which it can be put up and taken down, moved, made into stack pens, or used temporarily for any purpose the farmer may require it—no less than the fact that at each joint an opening can be made, thus obviating the necessity for bars or gates—must render it a universal favorite with the farm-
