their property. I thought how prompt and vigilant men are in seeking the possession of this world, and how procrastinating and dull in seeking those of the next. That long pine box was the newest thing that came out of that baggage car, and it said to that crowd, "There is another road for you to travel, where you must get checked through and ticketed through and have in your possession the right kind of currency; and where the coin of this world will be worthless, and where the tickets and checks, yea, and baggage, with which you roll over these iron tracks, will not be needed; and to this great hidden thoroughlare there are hidden switches, all along railroads, yes, and all along life-roads, and when the great Master says the word, the switch will turn, and you will go the hidden road, while your gains continue on the other track for others to gather."

I thought this was the sermon of the silent form to the crowd, and saw how few heeded the message, and marvelled to hear, in the very presence of this messenger, angry words spoken and an oath uttered. And I thought, how strange the infatuation of men! And how slow to obey the command, Lav not up for yourselves treasures upon earth, where * * but lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven." ROMANCE OF FRAUD. - The Chicago Dem. ocrat relates a tale of deception, in two chapters, which is, in its leading features, out a reproduction of the "old story," in which a gay deceiver makes advances to a widow and her daughters, finally proposes to the widow, who consents to the proposition to marry a young man whom she hardly knows, preparalory to re-enter the state of matrimony, and then, while her quickly grown expectations are in full bloom, there comes a killing frost, which lays all her fine prospects in darkness and death. The first chapter of this "over true tale" ends thus :--

Their wooing sped rapidly, and last Tuesday, just five weeks from the date of their first acquaintance, the twain were to be made one flesh. He would take her to his friends to pass the honeymoon; they would travel through the South next winter, and the next summer should find them resting upon the shady side of Mont Blanc, preparatory to a winter among the gay scenes of the French capital.

As they should want it no more, by his advice she sold all her furniture, and invested the proceeds in apparel for the condition in life to which she was to be transplanted .-Preparations for the tour were nearly completed on Saturday evening last, but some teifling things yet remained to be purchased, to obtain which the young man had to go to

Chapter Second .- The young man hasn't got back yet; when he does, we will finish

HE WAS A STRANGER TO HER.-Those who are termed "simple-minded people," adopt a curiously innocent mode of expression occasionally, which comes so near art at times, as to render its simplicity doubtful

We heard of a young married couplefrom the country of course—who recently H A P S & C A P S D Price 25 cents per bottle. (Warranted.) attended an exhibition of "Dissolving Views." The bride, being pretty, attracted the attention of a stylish looking city gent, who happened to occupy the same seat with the twain. During the exhibition, the audience part of the half being already obscured, by some accident the light was entirely extinguished .-Pending its recovery which occupied some little time, the city gentleman (perhaps accidentally) gently pressed the hand of the bride, who was too much alarmed to offer resistance. This bold act was followed by a bolder, certainly not accidental, for the city Lothario absolutely kissed the bride! This was too much, and the young wife resolved to tell her husband, which she did when the following colloquy took place:

- "John." "What?"
- "This feller here's kissing me." "Well," said John, who was a little shy o the citizen, "tell him to quit,"
- "No, John, you tell him." "Tell him yourself."

"No John, I don't like too; you tell him. The gentleman's a perfect stranger to me!

THE WONDERS OF LIGHT. - Not only does light fly from the grand "ruler of the day," with a velocity which is a million and a half times greater than the speed of a cannon ball, but it darts from every reflecting surface with a like velocity, and reaches the tender structure of the eye so gently, as it falls upon the little curtain of nerves which is there spread to receive it, it imparts the most pleasing sensations, and tells its story of the outer world with a minuteness of detail and a holiness of truth. Philosophers once sought to weigh the sunbeam; they constructed a most delicate balance and suddenly let in upmost delicate balance and suddenly let in up.

on it a beam of light: the lever of the balance was so delicately hung that the fluttering of a fly would have disturbed it. Every.

thing prepared, the grave men took their the Mammoth Store of Charles O. Etz. places and with keen eyes watched the result. The sunbeam that was to decide the experiment had left the sun eight minutes prior, to pass the ordeal. It had flown thro ninety-five millions of miles of space in that thing prepared, the grave men took their short measure of time, and it shot upon the balance with unabated velocity: but the lever moved not; and the philosophers were mute.

Wellsboro, June 25, 1857, GARLICK'S Improved Portable Field Fence.

Patented by Isaac D. Garlick, Lyons, Wayne Co. N. Y., May 5, 1857. The patentee of this Rence, after numerous trials and experiments, has finally succeeded in perfecting a plan for the construction of Fence, which does away with the necessity of inserting posts in the ground. The above Fence is made to set upon the na ural face of the earth, and by its peculiar formation will conform to the undulations of the ground. The mechanical mode of its construction conviness will who are nice. all who examine it of its superiority over anything of the kind ever offered to the public, as well as of its durability, simplicity and chlapness. It is so put together that it is secured by means of keys, which are easily adjusted, and battens by which is kept strained to the ground, so that no trouble need be apprehended from winds,

This fence can be built of lumber at $10 per thousand, for the sum of 50 cents per rod—making it by far the cheapest feince that can be made; and the ease with which it can be put up and taken down, moved, made into stack pens, or used temporarily for any purpose the farmer may require it—no less than the fact that at each joint an opening can be made, thus obviating the necessity for bars or gates made, thus obviating the necessity for bars or gates — must render it a universal favorite with the farming class of community.
