

BUCHANAN IN AN ALARMING POSITION.

A correspondent from Bedford Springs to the Baltimore Sun, writes as follows: "The lady of Col. Alfred Spates, of Cumberland, Maryland, one of the visitors at the Bedford Springs, by her dashing exploits with a pair of superb horses, has created quite a sensation. Her admirable tact and skill in handling the ribbons, and managing her spirited animals, are the theme of commendation with all experts at the whip. She is the same lady who took the silver cup at a recent agricultural fair in Montgomery county for the best display of horsemanship. Her style in the saddle is queenly, and she would be the envy of the most accomplished horsewoman at Franconi's. She has honored some of our distinguished guests with an invitation to share with her the hilarious exercises and refreshing perils of a place by her side upon her brilliant chariotteering excursions. The other day she sent her card to the President, who, of course, with his habitual politeness, placed himself in her charge, and the lady gave him a glorious round. Dashing through Bedford town at a spanking pace, the horses flecked with foam, the lady glowing with excitement, and the President known to everybody, very serious alarm seized the public mind that some aspiring dame had caught up the Chief Magistrate of the United States, and was eloping with him. As it was observed, however, that the President took it very calmly, called upon no one for help, and seemed perfectly resigned to the consequences, nobody interfered. In good time the party returned, and the President was restored safe and sound to his anxious friends."

THE ROCK OF DANGER.

In a sermon lately delivered by the Rev. Joseph K. White, occurred the following fine passage: "In the Straits of Sundy, between Java and Sumatra, is a small rock called the Siroom Reck, the top of which is just washed and half covered by the waves, while all around the water is so deep that no anchor can touch the bottom. A ship was once passing through these straits, carried on by the tide, with scarce wind enough to fill her sails. The current bore her rapidly along towards this rock. The danger was seen and every effort made to guard against it. The yards were braced, but the wind no longer filled the sails, and on the ship sped to what seemed her sure destruction. The loud commands of the officers, and the willing response of the sailors were hushed, and silently each watched the rapid approaching danger. But when hope had almost turned to despair, a breath of wind fills the sails, the ship obeys her helm, the dark rock with the foaming sea around it is now seen just over ship's side, and then at the stern and all hearts breathe free again, for God has saved the vessel and crew. In the voyage of life, in some straits through which we have passed, has no Siroom Reck lain in our way?—no temptation to sin seemed ready to whelm us in destruction? Have we not tried to avoid it, and felt that our strength was weakness, and almost in the depth of despair have we not cried for a breath from Heaven, and out from the unforeseen world has there not come, like the wind, an influence that has saved us?"

SINGULAR INFATUATION.

The Philadelphia Press mentions a curious circumstance connected with the loss of the Austria. The wife of Mr. Theodore Gerok, of Baltimore, is now visiting her relatives in Philadelphia, and while they have no doubt of his loss, she alone has a deep conviction that he is not dead; either he was not on board the Austria (though he wrote to her that he had actually paid for his passage), or if he was, that he must have been among the few who were rescued. But here is something still more strange: "It may be within the knowledge of many of our readers that a clergyman of this city was among those who left for Europe, on the ill-fated Austria, and was never again heard of. His wife, who remained in Philadelphia, and was deeply attached to him, never did, because she never could, believe that he was lost to her. Eighteen years have passed away, and yet that trusting lady—we cannot speak of her as wife and she repudiates the name of widow—continues to expect his return. Every day a cover is placed for him at the table where still stands his accustomed chair. Every ring at the bell, we are informed, awakens the cherished conviction of her heart that the loved one will return."

A MOTHER'S LOVE.

We are indebted to Lamartine's exquisitely fine pen for the following touching and graphic illustration of a mother's love: "In some spring freshet, a river widely washed its shores and rent away a bough, whereon a bird had built a cottage for her summer hopes. Down the white and whirling stream drifted the green branch, with its wicker cup of unfledged song; and fluttering beside it, as it went, the mother bird. Unheeding the roaring river, on she kept, her cries of agony and fear piercing the pauses of the storm. How like the love of the old fashioned mother, who followed the child she had plucked from her heart, all over the world. Swept away by passion, that might be, it mattered not; bearing away with him the fragments of the shattered roof-tree, though he did, yet that mother was with him, a Ruth through all his life, and a Rachel at his death."

Condemn no man for not thinking as you think. Let every one enjoy the full and free liberty of thinking for himself. Let every man use his own judgment, since every man must give an account of himself to God. Abhor every approach, in any kind of degree to the spirit of persecution. If you cannot reason or persuade a man into the truth, never attempt to force him into it. If love will not compel him, leave him to God, the Judge of all.—John Wesley.

"OR FOR SOME QUIET SPOT?"—Tell me, ye winged winds, that round my pathway roar, do ye not know some quiet spot where hoops are worn no more? Some lone and silent dell, some island or some cave, where women can walk three abreast along the village pave? The loud winds hissed around my face, and answered—"Nary place."

As a deacon A, on an extremely cold morning was riding by the house of his neighbor B. The latter was chopping wood. Salutations were exchanged, the severity of the weather briefly discussed, and the horseman made demonstrations of passing on, when his neighbor cried, "Don't be in a hurry, Deacon. Wouldn't you like a glass of good old Jamaica, this morning?" "Thank you kindly," said the old gentleman, at the same time beginning to dismount with all the deliberation becoming a deacon, "I don't care if I do. 'Ah don't trouble yourself to get off 'Deacon," said the neighbor, "I merely asked for information. We haven't a drop in the house."

BUCHU LEAVES are procured from the south-east part of Africa. The Hottentots at the Cape of Good Hope have long used this article as a remedy in a variety of diseases. From them the medicine was borrowed by the English and Dutch physicians residing there and by their recommendation it was soon employed in Europe. In process of time this medicine has come into general use, and is highly spoken of by the best medical writers. Physicians recommend it mostly for complaints of the urinary organs, such as gravel, a morbid irritation of the bladder and urethra, retention of urine, also incontinence of urine from want of tone in the urinary organs. It cools the unnatural heat and relieves pain; and in many cases of long standing it has been efficacious when other valuable medicines had failed to produce an effect. The active principle of this medicinal is a volatile oil which is mostly lost by the old process of boiling. Hence it requires great care and skillful management to prepare this medicinal properly.

FLUID EXTRACT OF BUCHU is a strong or concentrated preparation prepared by the new process called "Displacement." By this the valuable properties of the Buchu are entirely preserved, and this form of the medicine is less liable to injury from age and more palatable. GARLICK'S Improved Portable Field Fence.

Patented by Isaac D. Garlick, Lyons, Wayne Co. N. Y., May 5, 1857. The patentee of this Fence, after numerous trials and experiments, has finally succeeded in perfecting a plan for the construction of a fence, which does away with the necessity of inserting posts in the ground. The above Fence is made to set upon the natural face of the earth, and by its peculiar formation will conform to the irregularities of the ground. The mechanical mode of its construction convinces all who examine it of its superiority over anything of the kind ever offered to the public, as well as of its durability, simplicity and cheapness. It is so put together that it is secured by means of keys, which are easily adjusted, and battens by which it is kept strained to the ground, so that no trouble need be apprehended from winds.

This fence can be built of lumber at $10 per thousand, for the sum of $2 cents per rod—making it by far the cheapest fencing that can be made; and the ease with which it can be put up and taken down, moved, made into stack pens, or used temporarily for any purpose the farmer may require it—no less than the fact that at each joint an opening can be made, thus obviating the necessity for bars or gates—must render it a universal favorite with the farming class of country.

The Subscriber has purchased the territory comprising Charleston, Delmar and Wellsboro, and will devote himself to the disposal of farm rights, under the name of RICHARD W. JACKSON. Delmar, June 17, 1858.
