

TEACHERS COLUMN.

A 'CAPITAL SCHOLAR' SKYE.—One lit the incident we must mention as illustrating education by rote. Walking to church one Sunday, in Skye, we were followed by a slip of a lad some ten or eleven years of age, who, on putting some questions to him, volunteered to name all the capitals in Europe, which he did with marvelous dexterity.

MAY A SCHOOLMASTER KISS A SCHOOLMISTRESS?—This question has been up for decision in the town of Palmer, Mass. It seems that the principal of a leading school undertook to kiss a female assistant. She, like all ladies that want to show a proper shyness upon such occasions, and make folks think that they don't like to be kissed, resisted the gallant attack just long enough to make the victory more sweet, and to give foundation to the story that the whole thing was against her will.

ENGLISH SYNONYMS.—Words which are strictly synonymous, i. e., which convey precisely the same idea, and which may be substituted for each other in every possible connection, are almost, if not entirely unknown. But the term synonyms is applied, in common usage, to words which represent a given idea under different limitations or modifications, or ideas which are almost identical.

READERS.—Those who read may be divided into four classes:—1st. Spongers, who absorb all they read, and return it in nearly the same state, only a very little dirtied. 2d. Sand Glasses—who retain nothing, and are content to get through the book for the sake of getting through the time. 3d. Strainbags—who retain merely the dregs of what they read. 4th. Mogul Diamonds—equally rare and valuable—who profit by what they read and enable others to profit by it also.

OVERDOING THE THING.—The Mobile Mercury gives an amusing account of a negro baptismal scene in Mississippi, wherein a negro known as Big Will figured conspicuously. Despite Will's irreverence we publish the story:

"The bottom of the creek was of slippery soap stone, which, just beyond the point where a sufficient depth was obtained for a proper administration of the ordinance, broke suddenly off into a deep hole. Big Will attempted to do as directed, but like his race in matters of religion generally, overdid the thing; his feet slipped from under him, and down he went into the deep hole, dragging the minister along with him. The astonished crowd was horrified as they both disappeared beneath the surface. For a few seconds bubbles rose to the surface to mark the spot where they went down, and then Big Will arose snorting and spouting water like a porpoise. As Will regained the shelving rock and made towards dry land, the minister was discovered clinging to his leg with bull dog tenacity. As soon as Will's speech returned to him he was heard to exclaim, 'Gosh, Gor A'mighty, white folks some on you yine to lose a nigger wid dis d—d foolishness!'"

A HIT AT THE LAWYERS.—Judge Jones, of —, Indiana, who never allows an opportunity for a joke to pass him, occupied the bench when it became necessary to obtain a jurymen in a case in which L.— and B.— were employed as counsel. The former was an illiterate Hibernian, the latter decidedly German in his mode of expression. The sheriff proceeded to look around the room in search of a person to fill the vacant seat, when he espied a Dutch Jew and claimed him as his own. The Dutchman objected: "I can't unstead good Engleese," he repeated. "Take your seat," cried the Judge, "take your seat; that's no excuse; you're not likely to hear any of it!" Under that decision he took his seat.

HOLD ON, BOYS.—Hold on to your tongue when you are just ready to swear, lie, speak harshly or say an improper word. Hold on to your hand when you are about to strike, pinch, scratch, steal, or do any disobedient or improper act. Hold on to your foot when you are on the point of kicking, running away from duty, or pursuing the path of error, shame or crime. Hold on to your temper when you are angry, excited, or imposed upon, or others are angry about you. Hold on to your heart when evil associates seek your company and invite you to join in their games, mirth and revelry. Hold on to your name at all times, for it is more valuable to you than gold, high places, or fashionable attire. Hold on to your truth, for it will serve you well and do you good through eternity. Hold on to your virtue, it is above all price to you in all times and places.—Hold on to your good character, for it is, and ever will be, your best wealth.

Somebody has said that the marriage between Jonathan and Miss Great Britain, which was so brilliantly celebrated a few weeks ago, is evidently a very happy one. At all events, no words have passed between them since their bridal day.
