

Future Policy of the Republicans.

The late elections have done a great deal to consolidate and define the Republican party, and to give it an appropriate position as a permanent party, and as the only organization which can combine the opposition with any hope of success.

With Douglas as the standard-bearer on the other side, with the entire South united in his support, and the prestige of his late remarkable success against such odds in Illinois, and the known sympathy with his struggle of so many whose co-operation has been proved to be essential to the recent triumph of the opposition, it is evident that the scale will turn in 1860 on the ability of either party to secure the support of the anti-Compromiser democrats.

But it will not be perfectly easy for him to win them all back. They have broken the cords of the party. They have acted boldly and resolutely against the demands of the slaveholders. They have had their eyes opened, at least in some degree, to see the evils of the sectional and aristocratical domination by which the country and the democratic party is directed.

The question on which the Republicans are most liable to split is that of the tariff. But that problem is forced upon the democratic party by the condition of the treasury, and it will be impossible for Mr. Douglas to dodge the responsibility, unless the Republican leaders volunteer to take it off his hands, by prematurely undertaking its solution in conformity to some old theory which they have adopted as individuals, but on which the Republican party is both uncommitted and irreconcilably divided.

What belongs to the opposition is the duty of watching the Administration and its party, country. There is one point in regard to which they are bound to exercise a controlling influence, and that is, to allow no tariff bill to be passed which does not simplify the rate of duties in such a way as to lessen the expense of collection, and thus reduce the Custom-House patronage, by means of which the slaveholders govern New York.

Scene in Court.

A few days ago, a man who had been bound over on a serious charge of assault and battery, offered as his bail a very rough looking customer, whom he introduced as "Judge Barnes, of Delaware county."

"Well, Mr. Murphy, you say you wish to give bail; pray, who is your man?"

"Judge Barnes, of Delaware county."

"And who is Judge Barnes, of Delaware county?"

"As respectable a man as you'll find north of Mason & Dixon's line."

"Is there any one here who knows him?"

"Yes sir, Mr. Wilson."

"Mr. Wilson, do you know Judge Barnes of Delaware county?"

"Yes sir."

"What is he?"

"A Judge."

"Indeed! How long has he been upon the bench?"

"Some twenty-two years."

"Possible! It is very singular that we have never heard of him. You are certain that he is a Judge?"

"Yes sir."

"When did you see him act as such?"

"On Monday night, at O'Brien's cock-pit, in Passyunk road."

"By Judge, then, you mean that he decides chicken disputes?"

"Yes, sir."

"But you said that he had been twenty-two years on the bench. What do you expect me to understand by that?"

"That Mr. Barnes is a shoemaker, and he has been a maker of brogans since 1836."

At the conclusion of this testimony, the magistrate came to the conclusion that "Judge Barnes, of Delaware," was not just the person to give vitally to a thousand dollar bond, and the prisoner was incontinently sent below.

Two Farmers riding along together me a large number of clergymen, and one of them said to the other—"Where are all these persons coming from?" To this his friend replied, "They have been at a visitation."

"The other, no wiser than before, asked, "What's a visitation?" The answer was, "Why, it's where all the persons go once a year and swap their sermons." His friend, thus enlightened, quietly remarked, "Hang it, but our parson gets the worst on it every time!"

The man who did not think it respectable to bring up his children to work, has just heard from his three sons. One of them was a driver on a canal; another had been taken up as a vagrant; and the third had gone to a public institution to learn the shoe business under a keeper.

ADVICE (WORTH MILLIONS) GRATIS.

Every man should keep the wolf from the door, and his mother-in-law too, if he can. Every woman has a right to be any age she pleases, for if she were to state her real age no one would believe her. Every one has a right to wear a moustache who can. Every woman who makes puddings, has a perfect right to think that she makes better puddings than any other woman in the world.

BUCHU LEAVES are procured from the southern part of Africa. The Hottentots at the cape of Good Hope have long used this article as a remedy in a variety of diseases. From them the medicine was borrowed by the English and Dutch physicians residing there and by their recommendation it was soon employed in Europe. In process of time this medicine has come into general use,

and is highly spoken of by the best medical writers.

Physicians recommend it in a variety of complaints of the urinary organs, such as gravel, a morbid irritation of the bladder and urethra, retention of urine, also incontinence of urine from want of tone in the urinary organs. It cools the unnatural heat and relieves pain; and in many cases of long standing

it has been effectual when other valuable medicines had failed to produce an effect. The active principle of this medicine is a volatile oil which is mostly lost by the old process of boiling. Hence it requires great care and skillful management to prepare this medicine properly.

FLUID EXTRACT of BUCHU is a strong or concentrated preparation prepared by the new process called "Displacement." By this the valuable properties of the Buchu are entirely preserved, from age and more palatable. Useful equally in all cases of the kind whether male or female. Price

75 cents per bottle. For sale at Roy's Drug and Chemical Store at Wellsborough, Pa.

It is this no patent medicine or quack nostrum or secret remedy, but a new and improved preparaused to prevent the hair from falling off to cause fumed and is very pleasant article for toilet use.
