

GENTLE ANNIE.

BY STEPHEN C. FOSTER.
Thou wilt come no more, gentle Annie,
Like a flower thy spirit did depart;

A Story of Rats.

Quite lately, in Paris, a specimen was given of the force in which rats can muster, where they have gained only a provisional footing.

One girl, feeling a rat taking a walk round her neck, was so overcome with terror that she fainted.

This is nothing to what occurs at Montevideo (unless it is greatly changed from what it was) where the only drawback upon the delightful way in which an evening may be spent is the necessity of returning home through long narrow streets so infested with voracious rats as sometimes to make the way perilous.

So far are they from running off in affright to their burrows, that they will turn round, set up an ominous cry, and will then make a rush at your legs in a way to make your hair stand on end.

It is something to have made best French kid gloves out of the skins of Parisian rats, and best French beaver hats from their fur.

When a man of sense, no matter how humble his origin or degraded his occupation may appear in the eyes of the vain and foppish, is treated with contempt, he will soon forget it; but he will be sure to put forth all the energies of the mind to rise above those who look down on scorn upon him.

A grand jury down South ignored a bill against a huge negro for stealing chickens, and before discharging him from custody, the judge bade him stand reprimanded; he concluded as follows:

"You may go now, John, but (shaking his finger at him) let me warn you never to appear here again."
John, with a delight, beaming in his eyes, and with a broad grin, displaying a beautiful row of ivory, replied:

"I wouldn't bin here dis time, judge, only the coastable he fetch me."
Speaking of a piece of poetry, the Knickerbocker says:—"Our correspondent says he can furnish us more of the same sort."

Do DAILY AND HOURLY YOUR DUTY; do it patiently, thoroughly. Do it as it presents itself; do it at the moment, and let it be its own reward. Never mind whether it is known or acknowledged or not, but do not fail to do it. Do not think of yourself as a mortal, but as an immortal. Fear nothing but sin; fear nothing but a mean action.

The Smack in School.

The following incident in a District School, described by Mr. William Pitt, Palmer, of New York, will take many whose heads are now streaked with silvery hairs, a journey back to boyhood and early life:

A District School, not far away, Mid Berkshire hills, one Winter's day Was humming with its wonted noise Of three-score mingled girls and boys— Some few upon their tasks intent, But more on festive mischief bent;

The process of washing requires less than half the time, and only about half the labor, by using this Patent Soap.
