THREE ROSES. 1----

Just when the red June roses blow She gave me one, --a year ago. A ross whose crimson breath reveal'd The secret that its beart conceal'd, And whose half shy, half tender grace Blush'd back upon the giver's face, A year ago-a year ago-To hope was not to know.

Just when the red June roses blow I plack'd her one, — a month ago. It plack'd her one, — a month ago. It shalf-brown erimson to eclipse, I haid it on her smiling lips; The balmy fragrance of the south Drew sweetness from her sweeter mouth. Swiftly do golden hours creep, — To hold is not to keep.

The red June roses now are past,— This very day I broke the last, And now its perfamed breath is hid, With her, beneath a coffin-lid; There will its petals fall apart, And wither on her icy heart: At three red roses' cost My world was gain'd and lost.

Biography of Paul Morphy.

For the following sketch of the career of the American chess-player, we are indebted to the kindness of one of his oldest and most intimate friends.

Paul Morphy is a native of the city of New Orleans, and was educated at Spring Hill cot-tage, near Mobile, Alabama. His father was born in Charleston, South Carolina, of Spanish parents, and became one of the most eminent Judges of the Supreme Court of the State of Louisiana. United to a French Creole lady of the latter State, the subject of our sketch was born on the 22d of June, 1837, and, at the early age of ten years, learned the moves of chess from his father, at his own earnest solicitation. The family of Morphy has long been known in the South and West of the Republic for the eminence of its members in the mysteries of Caissa: and foremost among them stood the uncle of our hero, Mr. Ernest Mor-phy. This gentleman is of equal strength with Mr. Rosseau of New Orleans, who has, for many years, been a frequent vistor at the leading clubs of London and the continent and whose presence we are again happy to welcome in Europe. At a very early age, young Paul had played some hundred games with his uncle, and about half as many with Mr. Rossean; almost all the games toward the last being won by their youthful opponent. While still a mere boy, he played thirty games with Mr. James McConnell, winning all but one; and on the 22d and 25th of May, 1850, (not yet thirteen years of age.) he encountered the celebrated Hungarian, Herr Lowenthal, the result being in some measure, no doubt, owing to Mr. L's underrating his young antagonist-Morphy, 2; Lowenthal, 0; drawn, 1. It is not unfair to suppose that the desire to wipe out this defeat had something to do with Herr Lowenthal's challenging his youthful victor in the match now pending.

For several years past, Mr. Morphy had only played with amateurs, to whom he gave the rook or knight-odds in which, from his brilliant style of play, probably no one living can sursurpass him. But the meeting of the first congress of American chess players, last year, in New York, offered a field for the display of his extraordinary powers, and his visit to the Em pire City was hailed with satisfaction by nearly all the leading athletes in the States. Comparatively little is known in England of the strength of American players. At the time of the congress, the New York club contained such men as Mead and Thompson, gentlemen well known at the Cafe de Regonce, and who received only small odds. from Zierzeritzky, and players of equal grade. Lichtenheim, a trifle stronger had been president of the Konigsburg club, in Germany: and Charles H. Stanley is no new name to Englishmen. In other cities of the Union were amateurs of equal force ; such, for instance, as Montgomery, of Philadelphia, and Paulsen, then unknown to fame. Could ou readers examine some of the games played by the above gentlemen, they would have a high opinion of the knowledge of the "king of games" in the great Republic. Hon. A. B. Meek, Judge of Probate in th Hon. A. B. Meek, Judge of Fronzie in the state of Alabama, and one of the leading jurists and orators in America, was the first to give the New York club an idea of Paul Morris why's powers. When he informed the members The state of the st

A ROMANCE IN POLITICS.-One of Texas's distinguished citizens, heme hot given, who has figured largely in public life, first as a lawyer, then as a soldier in the Mexican and Indian wars, and then as a leading politician, has the following related of him in a sketch of his life by the New Orleans Christian Advocate. He had been put up by his party in 1857 to succeed General Houston in the United States Senate; but, feeling called to the ministry, and distrusting his own ability to resist the temptations of Washington life, was unwilling to accept the nomination. He laid the case before his wife, leaving to her the choice between the United States Senate and destruction to his morals, and the pulpit and salvation.

"Taking the letters and papers from all parts of the State, giving him assurance of election, he went to his wife and said : 'I can go to the United States Senate. Here are the evidences. If you wish it, I will go. But if I go, hell is my doom. I shall die a drunkard as certain as I go to Washington. I can yet escape. If I pass this point, I never can. I can enter the ministry, which I ought to have done long ago, and save myself from a drunkard's grave, and my soul from hell. But you shall decide.'-His poor wife, unwilling to relinquish the glittering prize in view, replied, weeping, that she could not see why he could not be a great man and a Christian too. But, after prayerful re-flection, she would not incur the fearful responsibility of deciding against his conscience, and told him to go into the itineracy and she would go with him. To the astonishment of the whole State, a letter from him appeared in the papers, just before the meeting of the Legislature, de clining the office and announcing his retirement from political life. The next thing that was heard of him was that he was preaching."

Where is Heaven ? Plato points to the snowy summits of cold Olympus, and says, 'It is there Swedenborg beholds spiritual presence in all space, and says, 'It's everywhere.' Wordsworth ives again through his youth, and replies,---Heaven lies above us in our infancy. Sage, theologian, and poet, I turn from you all and ask the little blind girl, and she replies, 'Heaven is where God is.'

An Ohio editor says: "What can' be more captivating that to see a beautiful woman, say about four feet eleven inches high, and eleven feet four inches in circumference, passing along the aisle just as divine worship commences ?"

carry off the prize in the tournament, he incurred a good deal of bantering; one gentle man answering, "Because he beats you, Judge, you think he must necessarily beat everybody else ;" a rep!y which, however brilliant, proved unsound. Mr. Paulsen also gave it as his decided opinion, previously to Mr. Morphy's arrival, that he would vanquish all competitors; and he frequently expressed his belief, during the congress, that should Morphy visit Europe. he would prove his superiority over every living player.

Mr. Paulsen's admiration for the young Louisianian was so great that, whenever the latter was engaged in a game, he could not be lured from watching him. But it is not merely over the board that Paul Morphy exerts his powers. As a blindfold player, no one ever before succeeded in conducting seven games with the exception of Paulsen, and he has frequently stated in New York that he felt satisfied Morphy could play as many games as him-self. The latter is considerably stronger blindfolded than Paulsen, and some of his battles are surprising examples of brilliant strategy.

Mr. Morphy is about five feet three inches, and his slenderness of figure is such as to give him a remarkably youthful appearauce.-London Field.

A PABAGRAPH FOR MOTHERS .--- A writer in Blackwood's Magazine considers the prevailing idea of toughening infants to enable them to withstand cold a disastrous and destructive treatment. Although it may be true that young animals have a higher temperature than old ones, yet it is believed to be a fact that the younger the animal, the feebler its power of resisting cold. The process of 'toughening' may be carried so far by cold-water baths and exposures to cold air as suddenly and seriously to chill the vital current. Exposure to the open air and the vicissitudes of the weather in the process of 'toughening' ought not to commence until the child has obtained the free use of its limbs, so that his own activity may counteract the exposure and assist in the toughening process. Parents should not commence this system of 'toughening' when the child is merely passive in their hands. The principle is that the child must assist by its own activity in the process of its hardening. This is the true line.

TO THE LADIES! A New Kind of Soap

has recently been invented, which promises to supersede all other kinds of hard soap. It is used extensively for washing clothes, and possesses the re-markable property of extracting durt without boiling the clothes and without the use of the rubbing board. The process of washing requires less than half the time, and only about half the labor, by using this Patent Soap. This article is peculiarly excellent, and superior to any thing else called Soap; because while it saves time and labor, it never rots or in-jures the clothes. It is just the article it is repre-sented to be, and never disappoints the expectations of purchasers. It does not take out stains. For sale at Roy's Drug Store, Wellsboro, Pa.
