

Saint Patrick's Day.
 [This day (March 17) would be kept as a holiday all over the world wherever Irishmen may be found, (and where are they not?) in honor of St. Patrick, the Patron Saint of the Green Island.
 Saint Patrick was born in Britanny near the end of the fourth century, and in his youth was carried to Ireland by some freebooters.— After spending six years in Ireland he returned home. He studied theology at Rome and was sent at his own request on a mission to Ireland where he had the honor of first introducing the Christian religion.
 He established Churches and Schools, ordained priests, and as Bishop of Ireland, bishops also. He died at an advanced age in the year A. D. 463.
 The following amusing version of the Popular legend that Saint Patrick banished all kinds of reptiles from Ireland, was written by Mr. HENRY BENNETT, a Barrister of Cork, about the beginning of the present century.—
 ED. AGITATOR.]

ST. PATRICK WAS A GENTLEMAN.
 Oh! St. Patrick was a gentleman,
 Who came of decent people;
 He built a church in Dublin town,
 And on it put a steeple.
 His father was a Gallagher;
 His mother was a Brady;
 His aunt was an O'Shaughnessy,
 His uncle an O'Rahilly.
 So, success attend St. Patrick's fist,
 For he's a saint so clerical;
 Oh! he gave the snakes and toads a twist,
 And bodered them forever!
 The Wicklow hills are very high,
 And so's the Hill of Howth sir;
 But there's a hill, much bigger still,
 Much higher nor them both sir.
 'Twas on the top of this high hill
 St. Patrick preached his sermon
 That drove the frogs into the bog,
 And banished all the varmint.

There's not a mile in Ireland's isle
 Where dirty vermin clusters,
 But there he put his dear fore-foot
 And murthered them in clusters.
 The toads went pop, the frogs went hop
 And dashed into the bog,
 And the snakes committed suicide
 To save themselves from slaughter.

Nine hundred thousand reptiles blue
 He charmed with sweet discourse,
 And dined on them at Killaloe
 In soups and second courses.
 Where blind worms crawling in the grass
 Disgusted all the nation,
 He gave them a rise, which opened their eyes
 To a sense of their situation.
 No wonder that those Irish lads
 Should be so gay and frisky,
 For sure St. Pat he taught them that,
 As well as making whiskey;
 No wonder that the Saint himself
 Should understand distilling,
 Since his mother kept a shebeen shop
 In the town of Banniskillen.

O! I was I but so fortunate
 As to be back in Munster,
 'Tis I'd be bound that from that ground
 I never more would come stir.
 For their St. Patrick planted turf
 And plenty of the prattles,
 With pigs galore, ma, gra, ma, store,
 And cabbage and potatoes;
 Then his blessing on St. Patrick's fist
 For he's the darling saint O!
 O! he gave the snakes and toads a twist;
 He's a beauty without a doubt!

IDLE BOYS.—He who is idle and vicious in school, is still more so when he leaves it. He who fires squibs will in time fire pistols. He who plays cards for sport, will if he turns not, play ere long for money. He who robs hen-roosts and orchards, will probably some day rob safes and pocket books. He may not do it in the way to expose himself to the penitentiary; he may have his wits so sharpened as to rob legally, by setting up a wild-cat bank, or betraying the confidence of his employer; or obtaining possession of property without the means of paying for it; or by getting his hand upon the public coffers, that he may fill his own, under the soft appellation of "breach of trust."
 I would that you could see with my eyes for a little; you would think with me, that he who when a boy could not be trusted, cannot now when he is a man. It would not be proper for me to mention names, or I could illustrate this by numerous painful examples. But they are not necessary. Effects will follow causes; as a man sows, so shall he reap; boyhood is the seed-time of which manhood is the harvest.
 As, therefore, you love yourselves for the habit while young of employing all your time usefully. Never be unemployed. The land is full of idlers striving to live without labor. It is not to be supposed that you are never to take recreation; this is useful, it is necessary; but it comes after hard study or productive labor, it will probably be healthful and moderate.— An honorable mind in the desire of mere relaxation, will not go forth in forms of mischiefous exertion. It is not supposed that a boy is to be a man, much less an old man; but in the midst of his mirth and hilarity he may be innocent and amiable.

The editor of the Logan (Ohio) Gazette having been presented with a bottle of old London Dock Gin, drank it, and then attempted to write a paragraph of thanks, with this melancholy result:
 "In conclusion, here's to the Fire Fountain Company No Some, the Brassfontaine Belle Band, and the rest of our home insuations and organizations, including the ladies and other branches of business [hic] in and around town—town and especially the Mesident's Pressage, Monington Washument, &c., all of which may be had cheap at the Buck—Drook—Brook and Drug Store of Binninger's old London Dock Gin, for $2 a year, if payment is delayed until the end of the Atlantic Cable."

Against slander there is no defence. Hell cannot boast so foul a fiend; nor man deplora so foul a foe; it stabs with a sword—with a nod—with a frown—with a shrug—with a look—with a smile. It is the pestilence walking in darkness spreading contagion far and wide, which the most wary traveler cannot avoid; it is the poisoned arrow, whose wound is incurable; it is the mortal sting of the deadly adder; murder is its employment; innocence its prey, and ruin its sport. Its foundation is envy, jealousy and disappointed ambition, its heralds are found in all classes, among all sects and in every vicinage; the slanderer is vindictive, malicious, a cowardly insinuating demon—worse than a murderer.

"Ool. W. is a fine-looking man, isn't he?" said a friend of ours the other day.
 "Yes," replied another; "I was taken for him one time."
 "You! why you are as ugly as sin."
 "I don't care for that; I endorsed his note, and was taken for him by the sheriff."

TO THE LADIES!
 A New Kind of Soap.
 A NEW kind of Soap has recently been invented which promises to supersede all other kinds of hard soap. It is used extensively for washing clothes and possesses the remarkable property of extracting the dirt without boiling the clothes and without use of the rubbing board. The process of washing requires less than half the time, and only about half the labor, by using this Patent Soap. This article is peculiarly excellent, and superior to any thing else called Soap; because while it saves time and labor, it never rots or injures the clothes. It is just the article it is represented to be, and never disappoints the expectations of purchasers. It does not take out stains.
