BY GRASHUS.

'T was jest about six weeks ago, I walked to Snakesville through the snow: What took me there I'd like to know?

At length I reached Squire Gubbins' door I knocked; my heart and feet were sore; "Come in!" I soon was on the floor.

I warmed my feet, I warmed my toes. 'T was curious that they wasn't froze!

Bout ten o'clock the fire shone bright; SAL hid the candles outer sight; The Squire, he bid us both "Good night."

We sot and both looked at the fire;

Then thinks says I, the time is now!
I'll pop the question anyhow!

I never did the thing before; And though the walk had made them sore, I piled my knee-jints on the floor.

I spoke and says, says I: "Dear_SAL, You always was a handsome gal; Will you be mine? Now say you shall!"

"And then she gave a low "tee hee."
"Now don't! now do git up" says she. I did. The logs kept burning bright— I can't tell how we passed the night, - But never mind—the thing's all right. Condersport, Pa.

bestowed upon us that have in themselves no guilty trait, and show an essential divineness. Music is one of these, which seems as if it were not born of the earth, but lingers with us from the gates of heaven; music, which breathes over the gross, or sad, or doubting heart, to inspire it with a consciousness of its own mysterious affinities, and to touch the chords of its unsuspected, undeveloped life. And the other gift is that of flowers, which, that though born of earth, we may well believe, if anything of earthly soil grows in the higher realm-if any of its methods are continued, if any of its forms are identical, they will live on the banks of the river of life. Flowers! that in our gladness and in our sorrow are never incongruousalways appropriate. Appropriate in the church, as expressive of its purest and most social themes, and blending their sweetness with the incense of prayer. Appropriate in the joy of the marriage hour, in the loneliness of the sick room, and crowning with prophecy the foreheads of the dead. They give completeness to the associations of childhood, and are appropriate even by the side of old age, strangely as their freshness contrasts with wrinkles and gray hairs; for still they are suggestive, they are symbolical of the soul's perpetual youth, the inward blossom of immortality, the amaranth crown. In their presence we feel that the body shall go forth as a winged seed.

THE COLORED SENTRY .- Theodore Parker in his lecture on Washington, last week, repeated the following anecdote, related to him by ar old soldier, who vouched for its truth: At Cambridge, Gen. Washington had heard that the colored soldiers were not to be depended upon as sentinels. So one night when the pass word was "Cambridge," he went outside the camp, put on an overcoat, and then approached a colored sentinel.

"Who goes there?" cried the sentinel. "A friend," replied Washington.

"No. Sar!" was the response. "Medford," said Washington.

"No. sar !" returned the colored man.

"Charleston," said Washington

The colored man immediately exclaimed-"I tell you, massa Washington, no man go by here 'out he say Cambridge."

Washington said "Cambridge," and went by, and the next day the colored gentleman was relieved of all further necessity for attending to that particular branch of military duty.

It is a joy to know, that there is a realm where all those aspirations which have betokened us, only to crown us still with thorns shall be realized, and where there is no bud which shall fall without being filled into fruit.

Mrs. Swisshelm says it is marvelously strange how a woman can think herself contaminated by the slightest intercourse with the victim of a seducer, but cover her face all over with smiles to receive the seducer himself.

TO THE LADIES! A New Kind of Soap.

A NEW kind of Soap has recently been invented which promises to supersede all other kinds of hard soap. It is used extensively for washing clothes hard soap. It is used extensively for washing clothes and possesses the remarkable property of extricating the dirt without boiling the clothes and without the use of the rubbing board. The process of washing requires less than half the time, and only about half the labor, by using this Patent Soap. This article is peculiarly excellent, and superior to any thing elso called Soap; because while it saves time and labor, it never rots or injures the clothes. It is just the article is ris ir is represented to be, and never disappoints the expectations of purchasers. It does not take out stains. For sale at ROY'S Drug Store, Wellsboro, Pa.
