

PARODY.—We find the following very good parody on Geo. P. Morris's song, "Near the Lake," in an exchange:

AFFECTING.
Up in Podunk, where the thistle
Blooms, dies and rots;
Where the winter winds whistle
All around the lofts—
Lived the slickest guy ever
Saw in your life,
Ankle like a blue beech lever,
Voice like a fife.
As I sat by her a-curtain,
Calm and serene—
With her apron she was sportin'
Checkedered and clean.
Mingled was our hash together;
All day we eat,
A chawin' gum in wintry weather,
Happy as fat.
Long I stuck to her like teales,
Sunnier and fall;
But she went off with the measles,
Ankle and all.

THE RETORT.
Ofta Birch, who taught a village school,
Wedded a maid of homespun habit;
He was as stubborn as a mule,
And she as playful as a rabbit.
Poor Kate, had scarce become a wife,
Before her husband sought to make her
The pluck of country polished life,
And prim and formal as a Quaker.
One day the tutor went abroad,
And simple Kitty sadly missed him;
When he returned, behind her lord,
She stily stole, and fondly kissed him!
The husband's anger rose!—and red
And white his face alternate grew!
"Less freedom, mate!"—Kate sighed and said,
"Oh dear! I didn't know 'tween you!"

MRS. PARTINGTON PATRIOTIC.—"HURRA!" said Ike, as he read the fact in the papers, "here's O'Regan admitted to the Union." "A furrier, I should judge," remarked Mrs. Partington, looking very wisely at the steam that rose from the teacups and formed in one cloud near the ceiling, "but I'm glad they've let him come in to enjoy our political rights and lefts and other prerogatives. There's room enough, and the rear of our institutions should be extended. I don't believe a man should be cut off because he wasn't born in this country for twenty-one years, which of course wasn't any fault of his, for everybody would be born here if they could have their own auction consulted." "It means," said Ike, "a new State." "Well, child," replied she, the odds is only the difference—States or men, 'tis all the same. Let 'em come into our grand constellation, where the eagle shall spread its broad opinions over 'em, and make 'em happy in an unlimited bondage of brotherhood, like the Siamese twins." She had not taken her eyes from the steam that rose from the cups, and joined in one cloud, that seemed to represent the Union, as he took the five preserved peaches on the plate, and put them all into one.

It is not a man's part merely to keep his armor bright; to hang around the edge of the fight, and, whenever he sees it bulging out towards him, to retreat to a hill, and, if any dust has fallen upon his armor, to set to work at once to brush it off. It is a man's business to go down to the battle, and to use his sword when he gets there. Man was not meant to be an armor keeper; but there are men who go all their lives scrubbing up their armor—keeping their hope bright and their faith bright, but never using them. Miserable scouring Christians.—H. W. Beecher.

A FATALIST.—A western paper publishes the following: "I knew an old man who believed that 'what was to be would be.' He lived in a region infested by very savage Indians. He always took his gun with him, but this time he found that some of his family had taken it out. As he would not go without it, his friends tantalized him, by saying that there was no danger of Indians; that he would not die till his time came anyhow. 'Yes,' says the old fellow, 'but suppose I was to meet an Indian, and his time was come, it wouldn't do not to have my gun.'"

In the Court of Special Sessions, recently, a man was arraigned for stealing a demijohn containing three gallons of whiskey. "Are you guilty, or not guilty?" asked the clerk. "Wal, you can tell it what you likes; I tuk the whiskey, that I admit, and drank it, too." "You took it without leave, did you not?" "I never wait to be asked, when that article's around."

A Jurymen was asked, whether he had been charged by the presiding Judge. Well," said he, "the little fellow that sits up in the pulpit and bosses over the crowd, gin us a leetle, but I don't know whether he charges anything or not."

"Put out your tongue a little farther," said a physician to a female patient; "a little farther ma'am if you please—a little farther still."—"Why Doctor, do you think there is no end to a woman's tongue?" cried the fair invalid.

Gentlemen and ladies," said the showman, "here you have a magnificent painting of Daniel in the lions den. Daniel can easily be distinguished from the lions by the green cotton umbrella under his arm."

A sensible "down east" female is decidedly opposed to the interference of women with politics. She pointedly asks: "If men can't do the ruling and take care of the country, what is the use of them?"

Says an Astronomer to a bright-eyed girl, when talking of rainbows, "Did you ever see a lunar bow, Miss?" "I have seen beaux by moonlight, if that's what you mean," was the rejoinder.

There seems a chance yet of getting a current through the Atlantic cable. A genius remarks that he don't care a fig for their currents, if they only give us a few fresh dates.

"Papa," said a precocious boy to his father, "why do the Puseyites burn candles?" "Why, Tom," replied the matter-of-fact governor, "I suppose they are in the dark."

"You always lose your temper in my company," said an individual of doubtful reputation to a gentleman. "True sir, and shouldn't wonder if I lost everything I had about me."

A down-East poet thus immortalizes the beautiful river Connecticut:—"Roll on, loved Connecticut; long hast thou ran, giving shade to South Hadley and freedom to man!"

A Farmer, the other day, was told by his landlord that he was going to raise his rent.—"Much obliged," said he, "for I find it impossible to raise it myself."

A New Kind of Soap.

A NEW kind of Soap has recently been invented which promises to supersede all other kinds of hard soap. It is used extensively for washing clothes and possesses the remarkable property of extracting the dirt without boiling the clothes and without the use of the rubbing board. The process of washing requires less than half the time, and only about half the labor, by using this Patent Soap. This article is peculiarly excellent, and superior to any thing else called Soap; because while it saves time and labor, it never rots or injures the clothes. It is just the article it is represented to be, and never disappoints the expectations of purchasers. It does not take out stains. For sale at ROY'S Drug Store, Wellsboro, Pa.
