A First Rate Story for Lawyers.

It is probable that every lawyer of any note has heard and read of the celebrated Luther Martin of Maryland. His great effort in the case of Aaron Burr, as well as his displays in the Senate of the United States, wi'l not be forgotten. Trifles in the history of genius are important, as we hope to show in this story.

Mr. Martin was on his way to. Annapolis, to attend the Supreme Court of the State. A solitary passenger was in the stage with him, and as the weather was extremely cold, the passengers soon resorted to conversation to divert themselves from too much insensibility to the inclement air. The young man knew Martin by sight, and as he was also a lawyer, the thread of talk soon began to spin itself out upon legal matters.
"Mr. Martin," said the young man, "I am just entering on my career as a lawyer; can you tell me the great secret of your success? If, sir, you will give from your experience, the key to distinction at the Bar, I will-"

"Will what?" exclaimed Martin. "Why sir, I will pay your expenses while at Annapolis."

"Done. Stand to your bargain now, and I'll furnish you with the great secret of my success ins a lawyer."

The young lawyer assented. "Very well," said Mr. Martin. "The whole secret of my success is contained in one little maxim, which I carly laid down to guide me. If you follow it you cannot fail to succeed. It is this: "Always be sure of your evidence."

The listener was very attentive—smiled—threw himself back in a philosophical posture and gave his brain to the analysis with true lawer patience, of "Always be sure of your

It was too cold a night for anything to be made pecuniarily out of this old man's wisdom. and so the promising adept in maxim learning gave himself to stage dreams in which he was knocking and pushing his way through the world by the all powerful words, "Always be sure of your evidence."

The morning came, and Mr. Martin, with his practical student, took rooms at the best hotel in the city. The only thing peculiar to the hotel, in the eyes of the young man, was that the wine bottles and the et ceteras of fine living, seemed to recall very vividly the maxim about the evidence.

The young man watched Mr. Martin. Wherever eating and drinking were concerned, he was indeed a man to be watched, especially in the latter, as he was immoderately fond of the after-dinner, after-supper, after-everything luxury of wine. A few days were sufficient to show the incipient legalist that he would have to pay dearly for his knowledge, as Mr. Martin seemed resolved to make the most of his part of the contract.

Lawyers, whether young or old, have legal rights, and so the young man began to think of the study of self protection. It was certainly a solemn study. It ran through all creation. Common to animals and men, it was a noble instinct not to be disobeyed, particulary where the hotel bills of a lawyer were concerned. The subject daily grew on the man. It was all absorbing to the mind and pocket. A week elapsed, and Mr. Martin was ready to return to Baltimore. So was the young man, but not in the same stage with his illustrious teacher.

Mr. Martin approached the counter in the barroom. The young man was an anxious specta-

"Mr. Clerk," said Mr. Martin, "my young friend Mr.—, will settle my bill, agreeable to the engagement."

The young man said nothing but looked everything. "He will attend to it, Mr. Clerk, as we have already had a definite understanding on the subject. He is pledged, professionally pledged to pay my bill," he hurriedly repeated.

"Where's your evidence?" asked the young

"Evidence?" sneered Mr. Martin.

"Yes sir," said the young man, demurely. "Always be sure of your Evidence, Mr. Martin-Can you prove the bargain?"

good humor assured the young man:

"You will do, sir, and get through the world with your profession without advice from me."

The Light of a Cheerful Face.

There is no greater every day virtue than cheerfulness. This quality in man among men, is like sunshine to the day, or gentle, renewing moisture to parched herbs. The light of a cheerful face diffuses itself and communicates the happy spirit that inspires it. The sourest temper must sweeten in the atmosphere of continued good humor. As well might cloud, and fog, and vapor hope to cling to the snn illumined landscape, as the blues and moroseness combat jovial speech and exhilerating laughter .-Be cheerful always. There is no path but will be easier traveled, no load but will be lighter, no shalow on heart or brain but will lift sooner in presence of a determined cheerfulness. It may happen at times to be difficult for the happiest tempered to keep the countenance of peace and content, but the difficulty will vanish when we truly consider that sullen gloom and passionate despair do nothing but multiply thorns and thicken sorrows. Ill comes to us as providentially as good-and is a good, if we rightly consider its lessons; why not then cheerfully accept the ill, and thus blunt its apparent sting. Cheerfulness ought to be the fruit of philosophy and Christianity. What is gained by peevishness and fretfulness—by perverse sadness and sulleness? If we are ill, let us be cheered by the trust that we shall soon be in health. If misfortune befalls us, let us be cheered by the hopeful visions of better fortune; if death robs us of the dear ones, let us be cheered by the thought that they are only gone before, to the blissful bowers where we shall all meet, to part no more forever. Cultivate cheerfulness, if only for personal profit. You will do and bear every duty and burden better by being cheerful. It will be your consoler in solitude, your passport and commendator in society. You will be more sought after, more trusted and esteemed more for your steady cheerfulness. The had, the vicious may be boisterously gay and vulgarly humorous, but seldom or never truly cheerful. Genuine cheerfulness is an almost certain index of a happy mind and a pure and good heart.

A celebrated physician having been called from a convivial party to a lady, was so much under the influence of wine that he was unable to form an opinion in her case, and when attempting to examine her pulse, he exclaimed, "Drunk! drunk, upon honor!" The lady looked up astonished, not understanding the possessive case in his exclamation in her case, and blushing like a beet, said, "It's a fact, Doctor, but for mercy sake, don't expose me !"

KIRBY'S MOWER & REAPER

THE Subscriber is selling this valuable machine and invites all who want a really good Mower and Reaper, to examine it before purchasing any other machine. It is superior to all other Mowers and Reapers in use, in the following particulars: It is the lightest in use; is strong and durable; requires less draft than any other machine; has no side draft though it than any other machine; has no side draft though it cuts a wide swath; will work on rough ground where no other machine can follow it; very difficult to be clogged in any kind of grass, be it wet or dry; is simple in construction and not liable to get out of repair; is a perfect combined machine; working equally well, whether mowing or reaping; and is the CHEAPEST in price, the Mower being only $105 and the combined machine $130—making it altogether the most desirable Mower and Reaper in market. Call at the Tin and Stove Store and examine for yourselves.

22 This Reaper took the first prize at the State Fairs of New York and Indiana against all competitors. It also took the prize at the Tioga County Fair last Fall.

May 5, 1859. 8. A FEW WORDS ON THE RATIONAL
Treatment, without medicine, of Spermatorrhea or Local Weakness, Nocturnal
Emissions, Genital and Nervous Debility, Premature
Decay of the System, Impotency and Impediments to Marriage generally,
BY B. DE LANEY, M. D.,

The important fact that the many alarming com-plaints, originating in the imprudence and solitude of youth, may be easily removed without medicine, is in youth, may be easily removed without medicine, is in this small tract, clearly demonstrated; and the entire-ly new and highly successful treatment, as adopted by the Author, fully explained, by means of which every-one is enabled to cure HIMSELF perfectly and at the least possible cost, thereby avoiding all the advertised nostrams of the day.
