HONEST ABE OF THE WEST. AIR-Star Spangled Banner. O hark! from the pine-crested hills of old Maine, Where the splendor first falls from the wings of morning.

And away in the West, over river and plain,
kings out the grand anthem of Liberty's warning!
From green rolling prairie it swells to the sea;
For the people have risen victorious and free;
They have chosen their leaders, and bravest and best
Of them all is Old Abe, Honest Abe of the West!

The spirit that fought for the patriots of old
Has swept through the land and aroused us forever;
In the pure air of Heaven a standard unfold
Fit to Marshal us on to the sarced endeavor!
Proudly the banner of freeliner we bear;
Noble the hopes that encircle it there;
And where battle is thickest we follow the crest
Of gallant Old Abe, Honest Abe of the West!

There's a triumph in urging a glorious cause,
Though the hosts of the foe for a while may be stronger,
Pushing on for just rulers and holier laws,
Till their leasening columns oppose us no longer,
But ours the long pean of men who have past
Through the struggle of years, and are victors at last:
So forward the, like! leave to Heaven the rest,
And trust in Old Abs, Honest Abe of the West!

Lol see the bright scroll of the Future unfold!

Broad farms and his cities shall crown our devotion—
Free labor turn even the sands into gold,
And the links of her railways chain ocean to ocean;

Barges shall float ou the dark river waves
With a wealth never wring from the sinews of slaves;
And the Chief, in whose rule all the land shall be bleat
Is our noble Old Abe, Honest Abe of the West!

Is our noble old Abe, Honest Abe of the West!

Then on to the holy Republican strife!

And again, for a Future as fair as the morning.

For the age of that freedom more precious than life,
Ring out the grand anthem of Liberty's warring!

Lift the banner on high, while from mountain to plain

The cheers of the people are sounded again;

Hurrah! for our cause—of all causes the best,

Hurrah! for Old Abe, Honest Abe of the West!

Anecdote of Jackson.

In the just published life of Andrew Jacksor, by Mr. Parton, we find the following interesting anecdote: The new aid-de-camp, Mr. Livingston, as he rode from the parade ground by the General's side, invited him home to dinner. The General promptly accepted the invitation. It chanced that the beautiful and gay Mrs. Livingston, the leader of society then at New Orleans, both creole and American, had a little dinner party that day, composed only of ladies, most of whom were young and lively creole belles .-Mr. Livingston had sent home word that Gen. Jackson had arrived, and that he should ask him home to dinner; a piece of news that threw the hospitable lady into consternation. Whatshall we do with this wild general from Tennessee?" whispered the girls to one another; for they had all conceived that Gen. Jacksonhowever becoming he might comport himself in an Indian fight, would be most distressingly out of place at a fashionable dinner party in the first drawing room of the most polite city in America. He was announced. The young ladies were seated about the room. Mrs. Livingston sat upon a sofa at the head of the apartment, anxiously awaiting the inroad of the wild fighter into the regions sacred hitherto to elegance and grace. He entered. Erect. composed, bronzed with long exposure to the sun his bair just beginning to turn gray, clad in his uniform of coarse blue cloth and yellow buckskin, his high boots flapping loosely about his slender legs, he looked, as he stood near the door of the drawing room, the very picture of a war worn, noble warrior and commander.

He bowed to the ladies magnificently, who all rose at his entrance, as much from amaze ment as politeness. Mrs. Livingston advanced toward him. With a dignity of grace seldom equalled, never surpassed, he went forward to meet her, conducted her back to her sofa, and eat by her side. The fair creoles were dumb with astonishment. In a few minutes dinner was served, and the General continued, during the progress of the meal, to converse in an easy agreeable manner, in the tone of society, of the sole topic of the time, the coming invasion. He assured the ladies that he felt perfecly confident of defending the city, and begged that they would give themselves no uneasiness with regard to that matter. He rose soon from the table and left the house with Mr. Livingston .-In one chorus the young ladies exclaimed to their hostess. "Is this your back woodsman? Why, madam, he is a prince!"

THE WIFE .- There is a great deal of truth in the following lines, written by one who has unquestionably had experience. he considers the truth:

"It needs no guilt to break a husband's heart. The absence of content, the mutterings of spleen, the untidy dress and cheerless home, the forbilding scowl and deserted hearth-these, and her nameless neglects, without a crime among them, have narrowed to the quick the heart's core of any man and planted there beyond the reach of cure, the germ of dark despair. O may woman, before the sight arrives, dwell on the recollections of her youth, and cherishing the dear idea of that tuneful time, awaken and keep alive the promise she so kindly gave. And though she may be the injured, not the injuring—the forgotten and not the forgetting wife—a happy allusion to the hour of peaceful love—a kindly welcome to a comfortable home—a smile of love to banish hostile words-a kiss of peace to pardon all the past, and the hardest heart that locked itself within the breast of selfish man, will soften to her charms, and bid her live, as she had hoped, her years of matchless bliss, loved, loving and content- the source of comfort and the spring of joy.

Benjamin Franklin had a nephew who was one occasion reduced to great straits, and found himself compelled to have recourse to his friends. His first application was to his uncle, of whom be asked the loan of sixty dollars. Franklin told him to call next morning, when if possible, he would accommodate him. Of course John was there, and had the gratification to see his mucle counting out the cash. While this operation was going on, he took a sheet of paper from the desk, with the intention, on doubt, of writing his I. O. U. If such was his design, he was disappointed, for Franklin gently drew away the paper, and with a benevolent smile, said, "You need not waste my paper, too, John."

If you want to keep your town from thriving, refuse to take your home paper; turn a cold shoulder to every young mechanic or beginner in business; look upon every new comer with a jealous scowl, or as a suspicious person; discourage all you can. If that won't do, cry them down, or rather go abroad for your wares than pay your neighbors your money, but above all don't advertise. Then just in proportion as you -osa get others to do the same, will your object be accomplished: But if, you are public spirited and wish to see your town thriving, and your townsmen prospering, just do the very reverse.

"Mother, don't you wish you had the tree of evil in our garden

"You're getting too smart; that's what correct

"Why, Joe, what do you mean?"
"As money's the root of all evil, if we had the tree, couldn't we get all the precious stuff?"

of sending boys to the macademies."

ANOTHER TRIUMPH!

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 29, 1859.

To the President of the Pennsylvania Agricultural Society:—The subscribers, your committee to examine the contents of a Saiamander Safe of Evans & Watson, after being exposed to a strong fire on the Fair Grounds for eight hours, respectfully represent—

That after acren cords of oak wood and three of pine had been consumed around the Safe, it was opened in the presence of the committee, and the contents taken out, a little warmed, but not even scorched.

Several Silver Medals peretofore received by the manufacturers, and a large quantity of documents were in the Safe, and came out encirely uninjured.

The experiment satisfied us of the capacity of Safes of this kind to protect contents from any fire to which

STILL ANOTHER.

WILMINGTON. Del., Sept, 17, 1859.—Messrs. Evans and Watson, Philadelphia.

Gentlemen: The Salamander Fire-Proof Safe of your manufacture, purchased by us from your Agent, Ferris & Garrett, of our city, some nine months ago, was severely tried by burgiars last Saturday night, and although they had a siedge hammer, cold chisels, drill, and gunpowder, they did not succeed in opening the Safe. The lock being one of Hall's Patent Powder-proof," they could not get the powder into it, but drilled a hole in the lower panel and forced in a large charge, which was ignited, and although the door, in side and out, showed the explosion not to have been a small one, it was not forced open. We suppose they were the greater part of the night at work on it. We are much gratified at the result of the attempt to enter it, and if the above facts are of any service, you are at liberty to use them.

GREAT FIRE!-ANOTHER TRIUMPH.

GREAT FIRE!—ANOTHER TRIUMPH.

KNOXVILLE, TENESSEE, March 13th, 1859.—Messre.

Evans & Watson, Philadelphia:

Gentlemen: It affords me great plensure to say to you that the Salamander Safe, which I purchased of you in February, 1858, proved to be what you recommended it—a sure protection from fire. My storchouse together with several others, was burned to the ground in March last. The Safe fell through into the celiar, and was exposed to intense heat for six or eight hours, and when it was taken from the ruins and opened, all its contents were found to be in a perfect state, the books and papers not being injuned in the least. I can cheerfully recommend your Safes to the community, believing as I do, that they are as near fire-proof as it is possible for any Safe to be made.
