Content to do well, without doing better." A GOOD TURN DESERVES ANOTHER

A tinker was traveling in a country town and, having traveled many weary miles with out finding anything to do he stopped, weary and hungry at a taggra. He got into conversation with a glazier, to whom he related his troubles. The latter sympathized with him deeply, and telling him he'should have a job soon, advised him to go into his dinner, and eat heartily. The tinker took his advice and ate his fill, and when he returned to the bar, he was over joyed to hear that the landlord required his services, to mend a lot of pans and kettles which had suddenly sprung a leak.

The tinker at once fell to work, accomplished the task, was liberally rewarded, and started on his way rejoicing, Upon reaching the out side of the house, he found the glazier who

"Well, you see, I told you the truth. I procured you s job of work, and how do you think I accomplished it?"
"I am sure I cannot tell," replied the tinker.

"I will tell you," rejoined the glazier. "You told me you were weary, hungry and penniless! I knew the landlord was well off and doing a good business, so I watched the opportunity and started a leak in every tin utensil I could get hold of."

The tinker with many thanks and a heart full of grafitude, regimed his journey, but had not proceeded many wards before reaching the village church, when a brilliant thought struck him-he would befriend the glazier. The c'urch, he thought could afford a slight loss in a good cause, so taking a position where he could not be seen, he riddled every window in the edifice with stones, and then highly delighted with his exploit he retraced his steps to notify the glazier that he speedily would have a very important job. He met him at the tavern. "Sir," said he, "I am happy to inform you that fortune has enabled me to return the kindness I received from you an hour since."

. "How so?" asked the glazier pleasantly. "I have broken every pane of glass in the church," answered the tinker, "and you will of course be employed to put them in again." The glazier's jaw fell and his face assumed a blank expression, as the said in a tremu'ous

"You don't mean that, do you." -"Certainly," returned the tinker; " there isn't a whole pane of glass in the building. One good turn deserves another, you know." "Yes," answered the glazier, in a tone of $4 50.

S. L. AVERY'S PATENT

IMPROVED WINDLASS. DATENTED MAY 8, 1860.—The object of DATENTED MAY 8, 1860.—The object of this invention is to apply; a brake to a windrass in such a manner that articles attacked to the windlass, and raised by it, may be lowered with facility; the hitherto slow and tedious manual reverse movesment of the windlass being avoided, and the invention at the same time admitting of the operator having complete control over the descending movement of the article being lowered. The invention is applicable to various purposes; its use in connection with wells may be mentioned as an instance, in which the buckets, after being raised and emptied, may be easily lowered, and their movement retarded at the proper time, so that they will not violently strike the water.—Sciso that they will not violently strike the water .- Aci entific Anterican.

For the purpose of Raising and Lowering Buckets in Wells, it is decidedly THE GREATEST IMPROVEMENT OF THE AGE.

The Brake acts as a check upon the backward motion the bucket, without turning the crank, (the crank acting as a brake, by pressing inward at the handle. All who examine this machine, will at once acknowle edge its

PRACTICABILITY AND SUPERIORITY. Over every other machine in use. The operation of the windlass is easily controlled with, and requires but ONE HAND. It combines all the advantages of the old fashioned with the self-emptying bucket, and adds many new and useful improvements. It can be id-apted to wells of any depth, and will raise easily, with ordinary turning, Five Buckets of loater per minute! from wells of ordinary depth, and in the same proppr from weiss or ordinary appears, such that to the depth of two hundred feet.

The windless and brake is also applicable to raising and lowering any kind of weight, and in every respect is far superior to those heretofore in use.

Having purchased the right for the Counties of To-ga and Potter, Pa., the undersigned are prepared to offer for sale township rights for the manufacture and sale of the above improvement, on reasonable terrals. L. D. SEELEY Oct. 16, 1860.
