FROM WASHINGTON. Summary of the News of the Week. [Specially prepared for The Agitator.] Washington, Jan. 8, 1861.

THE REPUBLICAN CAUCUS. The final caucus of the Republicans was held on Friday night last, with closed doors. Mr. Howard, of Michigan, in the Chair. The proposition of Hon. James T. Hale, of the Lycoming District, was submitted. It was in effect that all the territory of the United States north of thirty-six degrees and thirty minutes—the old all South of that line to remain as it is, with liberty to the People to organize into Sates wherever they please, with or without slavery. ANOTHER MESSAGE January 10 .- The city is very quiet to-day. Yesterday the president sent in his Message to Congress on the secession question. It states that at the opening of the session the President of the country, and had asked them to take proper measures to remedy the tendency of affairs. He would not now repeat what he had then said in this connection, but reiterated his call for Congressional action. He describes the country, in glowing language, and says that when Congress met, strong hope existed that peace might be restored. But, since, that hope had gradually faded. He instanced the result

It alleges that the trouble at the South arises from misapprehension there of the purposes of the great mass of the northern people, and urges that the question should lot-tox, by Congress.

It also urges that Congress should at once turn its attention to maturing a plan of settlement, and recommends, under existing circumstances, the Crittenden plan as one on which the matter may be fairly and promptly settled.

It calls attention to the fact of the seizure of the public property in States not pretending to Missouri Compromise line-should be free, and have seceded, holding that to be the most alarming symptom of the times. He had refrained from reinforcing Major Anderson as long as possible, in order to afford no pretext to South Carolina to commence hostilities, and recounts back down and acknowledge that we are wrong the history of his correspondence with the South Carolina Commissioners, and of the information received by the Government from I heard Hale make a speech in Coudersport Major Anderson, to show that the latter's re last September which led me to believe that he tirement to Fort Sumter, was called for by the circumstances by which he was surrounded, and was in conformity, under the circumstances, with the spirit of his orders.

The people here strange however, that a young man like Cowan, without reputation, should growd out a man like Wilmot who has a national reputation of fifteen years standing, and the key to this can only be found-as hinted in my last letter-in the existence of cliques who manage everything with a view only to the spoils. I know positively that the office of Speaker of the House, and the subordinate officers at the capitol were apportioned out with reference to this question by the cliques; at least I am satisfied that had the question been fairly met, without reference to the spoils, the result would have been quite different. As it is. I trust we have no reason to complain, as Mr. Cowan is said to be a young man of ability, although I am certain he has been much over-rated. In the caucus Cowan had 58, and Wilmot 38. The Demo crats nominated Foster, late candidate for Gov ernor. On Monday, Cowan was elected by the Legislature on joint ballot. The vote stood Cowan 98, Foster 35. This was a strict party ote.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

We, the undersigned, having in use "P. P. Stewart's Celebrated Summer and Winter Air Tight Cocking Stave," purchased of Parker Brothers, Wellsboro, take pleasure in testifying to the complete satisfaction with which we have used them. For all the practical uses of a Cooking Stove, as well as for economy in fuel, they are unequaled by anything with which we have ever been acquainted. While in winter the amount of heat is amply sufficient for all purposes of health and comfort, its capacity for controling the theat is so perfect that in summer all the operations of the kitchen may be carried on, without inconvenience from the heat, thus making it the most healthy and convenient, and by its perfect fitting, (ensuring durability) in our estimation the cheapest, and best Stove in use.
