A soldier who was dented into the service of the Behels in Charleston, and who served at the ter, has made to us the following statement. His reliability is vouched for, and we have every reason to beleive that his sentiment is ever way worthy of belief !

Our informant states that he served under Capt. Havens, and went into Fort Moultrie the day after Major underson left for Fort Samter He remained the o or four days after the fight He belonged to the Artillery, and served at the guns most of the time fluring the siege. The guns of Fort Mon Itries beened about half-part four in the morning, but Major Anderson, did not fire a gun for near two hours after. When He did open, his are was rapid and distructive. The balls from Sumter struck the port-holes of Moultrie and at nearly every discharge some-body was killed. Their places were supplied by others. There were in Moultrie more than one thousand men, and between three and four hundred were light at the guns constantly. Not more than that jumber could protect themselves in the disentates of sandbags, which, while they afforded invellent protection, were much torn up and booked down. It was between nine and ten telock on the first day that the greatest loss of life occurred.

The barhette juns of Fort Sumter were lenced carly if the day, and the round shot from these wer, most destructive to Fort Moultrie, and caused the greatest loss of life. They were fired with great accuracy, and at times the scene in the Fort was terrible. During the siege between three and four hundred were killed and a large number were wounded. The killed were collected together in a mass, and at night placed in boxes, brought down from Charleston and taken away to Potter's Field and interned during the night. Some of the men were hor-ribly mangled, and others, were scarcely dead when thrown into the baxes. Blood flowed lin streams from these receptacles, and the sight. was horrible. The surgeon at the Fort sent for help and others same down from Charlestoni-The wounded were removed to the Haspital, where such as have not since died, now main.

In order that the grath should not be known in Charleston, he soldiers were charged to say that nobody we hurt and were threatend with certain death f they disclosed the fucts There were a good many killed in the dwellings outside the fort. The Moultrie House was very much damaged, and a large number of buildings in the neighborhood of the fort demolished. The officers' quarters in the fort were riddled, and it is the opinion of our informant that had there been three hundred men in Sumter, Fart Migultrie would have been destroyed, and the Reliels driven out or killed almost to a man. He left Moultrie three days after the engagement, and went to Charleston. The people there would not believe that noticely had been killed, and made constant inquiry for their friends, who, key were assured, were still on Sullivan's Island. Hundreds of families are yet to learn the truth, which is kept from them by the greatest vigilance.

Fort Sumter, came here yesterday by the schooler D. B. Pitts. He says that at least one hundred and fifty men were killed and wounded at the hatterles of Morris Island, by the canister of Major And From. He had occasion to be at Fort Johnston also just before he left Charleston, and there he learned that on Sullivan's Istand thirty-nine men had been killed-that a mortar had been blown from Fort Johnston by a shot from Sumter. He had to go to Charles ton in a boat with some passengers, and when there embraced she opportunity and stowed himself away in the schooner, and in that way got off. He says that the dead were all taken and boxed and carried away in the night and buried in Potter's field, where the negroes are buried. He says that thousands of negroes only want some of their leaders to give them them the word, and great will be the slaughter. —Tribune.

VISIT OF GENERAL CAMERON TO THE PENNSYL-WANIA VOLUNTEERS, AT THE CAPITOL BUILDING. - Washington, April. 19, 1861. - This afternoon the Secreta v of War visited the Capitol Building in this lity. He was received with great enthusiasm and his address to the defferent companies produced an electrical effect. He called first aposithe Ringold Light Artillerists, from Reading, Berks county, commanded by Captain James McKnight. There he was received with great cordiality by officers and men after which, he was presented formally to the two companies from Puttsville, numbering each over one hundred, and the company from Allentown and that from Lewistown. He addressed them as follows:

GENTLEMAN: I have deemed it my duty to James I Jackson visit you, for the purpose of extending to you a hearty greeting to the National Capitol. I am more than rejoiced that the first volunteers outside of this District should have come from my native State of dear old Pennsylvania. I am glad to see many faces recalling old recollections in your ranks; so many young and ablebodied men; and so many belonging to the party which did not contribute to the election of the present Administration. But my friends, of the present Administration. But my friends, where he will keep constantly on hand as good an asthis is a question no longer of party, but of country. The Administration has attacked nother market, which he will sell cheap for cash. Also, body, and yet I believe your most energetic efforts will shortly be required to defend the flag of the country from being again assailed by those who attacked it at Fort Sumter.

"And now gentlein in. I cannot. of course. discriminate in the treatment I shall extend to the regulars and volunteers called here for the defence of this beautiful metropolis, but I assure you it will give me peculiar pleasure to pay every attention to the volunteers of Pennsylvania-and this not alone because they come from that State, but Lecause they were the first who were fortunate enough to reach Washington to repullithe evernies of the country.

The turnbike from Baltimora to York is literally black with vehicles of every description, containing whole families from Bultimore, who are hurrying to the country. A great many strangers are also proceeding to Pennsylvania, for the purpose of embarking for the North .-The country hotels upon the line of the road
