

THE AGITATOR.

LOCAL AND MISCELLANEOUS.

Wellsboro, Wednesday, June 5, 1861.

New Advertisements. Ho for the Bee Hive.—Elias H. Dornaul.

We are authorized to state to those whose names were advertised in our columns as jurors for the second week of Court, that they need not attend, as no jury court will be held.

APPOINTMENTS.—Mr. James P. Taylor, has been appointed Post Master of Wellsboro, and Joel G. Parkhurst at Elkland Borough, in this county. Both good men.

DROP LETTERS.—According to a law passed by Congress last session, every drop letter must have a stamp upon it, otherwise the Post Master is required to forward it to the Dead Letter Office at Washington.

We are requested to give notice that the citizens of Charleston will meet at the village of Cherry Flats, on Saturday June 23d, at one o'clock in the forenoon, for the purpose of forming an independent uniformed rifle company. A band of martial music will be in attendance.

By the Pennsylvania War-Bill, published in the Standard last week, the Associate Judges and Commissioners of each county are constituted a board of relief for the families of volunteers. The officers named will probably form themselves into such a board, and we shall try to keep our readers informed of their actions.

Miss Margaret Hinnehan, a young lady residing in this place, who has for some time past complained of a severe pain in her stomach, and been under the medical care of Dr. J. P. Brown, one day after her confinement but had a large sized hard tumor on her abdomen. She is now enjoying good health. The tumor can be seen at Dr. Brown's office alive yet.—Addison Advertiser.

NEW ICE CREAM SALOON.—Mr. F. M. Hills has recently erected a building just below his house on Main Street, intended for an ice-cream saloon. Mention, until that is completed and furnished, he has opened for the season at his residence just above State Street, where ladies and gentlemen who are fond of that kind of "cool vittles"—as Artisans Ward calls ice cream—can be daily supplied. Give him a call.

REMOVAL.—We intended last week to notice the removal of Dr. O. W. Gibson's Drug Store, to the handsome new building just erected by him for that purpose and for an office. It is neatly fitted up and painted, and reflects great credit upon the Doctor's taste.

J. J. Eaton, Dealer in Flour, Feed, Groceries, &c., has taken the building recently occupied by the Drug Store, (next door to his old stand), where he may be found ready to wait on his customers.

WORTH KNOWING.—As "by time" is nearly upon us, we may remind our readers that it is said that three or four onions are boiled in a pint of water, and the liquid is brushed over glasses or frames, the files will not flit on the articles washed. This may be used without the least apprehension, as it will not do the least injury to the frames. We know a man who was foolish enough to invest $2— in a pair of spectacles. It was a good thing to drive bugs out of the front yard—but it didn't answer for flies. Try the extract of onions.

The friends of Lorenzo B. Taylor, (and we don't know a man who has a greater number of personal friends than he has) will be glad to learn that he has been located at the Tioga Hotel, Tioga, of which he has become the proprietor. Mr. Taylor understands the art of making a traveler feel at home while away from home better than any man we know of except Major Fields.

By the way, we learn that Taylor is going to give a grand Independence Ball at his Hotel in Tioga, on the evening of the 4th of July. Young folks will not be likely to forget this fact.

THE THREE TRAPPERS.—A large black bear which has been making rife with the sheep of some of the farmers residing on and near the place known as Middle Ridge, was killed by N. W. Wheeler, on the 25th ult. It appears that the bear had visited the sheep-fold of Mr. W. on the 18th previous to the 25th, and that he was with Mr. W. on the 20th, and that he returned to his lair to doze away in a comfortable way the coming day, so as to be ready for his next night's work. Meantime Mr. W. was not idle, but taking what was left of the sheep by Master Bruin, he placed a quantity of strychnine in and left it to the disposal of the thief. The bear returned on the next night, devoured the choice morsel left him, and was found dead a few days after, not far from the scene of his depredations.

DON'T FORGET THE EYE.—We hear complaints nearly every day from the Tioga County Boys at Harrisburg, that they do not hear from home often enough. Their friends should remember that the members of Home are dear to every one who may be absent even for a short time, and that they are particularly dear to those who have been used to home comforts which only kind mothers and sisters know how to dispense. The soldier, from the circumstances surrounding him, is deprived of everything but the necessities of life. It is important therefore that he should be cheered by letters from home. The most trivial occurrences of every day life will be read by him with avidity, and he will thank with his whole heart the thoughtful friend who gives him accounts of them. Mothers, fathers, sisters, brothers, friends, don't forget the soldiers. Write to them often and they will bless you for doing so.

THE WELLSBORO COLORED.—This is the name of a uniformed company of boys ranging from twelve to sixteen years of age recently formed. Their uniform consists of a scarlet tunic, faced with black velvet, black pants with a yellow stripe, and a black military cap. They have been for two weeks past under the instruction of a competent drill-master, and have made very creditable progress. On Saturday last, they had a dress parade, marching through the principal streets headed by a band of martial music. Their appearance and maneuvers drew forth praises from everybody. Below we give their muster roll:

- Officers.—Captain—W. Frank Bailey. 1st Lieut.—W. A. Sherwood. 2d Lieut.—George W. Butterworth. Orderly Sergeant.—E. H. Robinson. 1st Sergeant.—D. L. Power. 2d Sergeant.—Abraham Fair. 3d Sergeant.—Wm. Emory. 2d Corporal.—A. E. Kirkpatrick. PRIVATES.—W. P. Bignony, Charles Strait, J. W. Brewster, Isaac Cook, Nathan E. Niles, E. A. Rathbone, James W. Strickland, Nelson, Creon Farr, Edward Bignony, Melvin Gray, C. B. Blanchard, Oren E. Williams, Reddington, John Kirkpatrick, Lewis Culver, George Smith, Cook Williams, G. W. Smith, James White, George H. Martin, Leroy Ferry, Jas. Austin, C. Y. Hoop, Boj. Van Horn, Harry Bodine, Leonard Harrison, Henry Smith, Edg. Walker.

From Lawrenceville.

The rumor that the small pox was making terrible headway among the good people of Lawrenceville, is happily disproved by a fair correspondent at that place. We learn that the disease has entirely disappeared. Ed. AGITATOR.]

THE SMALL POX IN LAWRENCEVILLE. EDITOR AGITATOR, Dear Sir: Many of your subscribers in this place are indignant that while we keep a tolerably full record of the progress of the comparatively small affair of the little speck of war in the Southern horizon, you pass by unnoticed, events of vastly greater interest and importance, passing all under your very nose.

It is your peculiar office as editor of a country newspaper, to chronicle all matters of sufficient local importance to justify a notice. These sir, please for a moment to lay aside your long telescope with which you seem to delight to be constantly sweeping the horizon of Alexander, Monroe, Harper, Cairo and St. Louis, and look down your eye into the beautiful valley, where sits, at the confluence of the Tioga and Conocoque, a City, the denizens whereof, believe it to be situated very near the centre of the world, and behold an excitement without a parallel.

With all the business possible, and under the influence of a relative taken to quiet my nerves, I will attempt to give you some account of the state of things here since the advent of the contagion. The streams of commerce that have enriched this place are all dried up—the noise of the wheel and the anvil is still to be heard, but the baneful reigns supreme—it is spreading into the surrounding country, and if the way continues to swell, no one knows where it will stop. It is not doubted by those who condescend to glance at the interests of the outside world, that it will eventually affect the war, if it does not do so at once, on the principle that the greater always includes, (and therefore in some sense) destroys the less.

Our usually quiet citizens who are noted for their own individual interest, are going from house to house inquiring "what of the night?" and imparting what news they may have.

Many of the street corners discuss events as they rise—the female portion of the population, true to their virtuous instincts, offer consolation and impart information to each other—few families eat their regular meals undisturbed, and the domestic duties of the household go partly neglected. In the gloom of this desolated place, with the pestilence borne upon every breeze, with the heart at a state of chill about tea degress below zero, with the imagination at fever heat, there are instances of such touching sympathy for the sick—such fraternal condolence with the distressed and benevolent aid to the unfortunate, even to the extent of the gift of instruments which brought the calamity here, such generous regard for the truth—such love of justice—such heroism—and, withal such manly (and womanly) public spirit, indeed, such a manifestation of all the social virtues, as has never been my good fortune (who am not an unprivileged person) to witness in all my experience. How true it is that great calamities develop great virtues! I esteem myself most happy in the opportunity of observing these charming traits.

After the lapse of say half a century, when the present generation are in their graves, and when the heat, always engendered by such moments of intense excitement, shall have cooled off, permitting a calm and deliberate exercise of judgment, some future Maccarty or Motley may draw both inspiration and immortality from the story of the "small pox in Lawrenceville."

The foregoing view is from a "stand point" in the center of our village.

The writer heretofore some times, looks at things from a position somewhat elevated above the street, having ascended in her balloon to take an observation above the murky atmosphere that covers the village, proposes to give you the "plain facts."

There have been one case of small pox—five hundred cases of inflammation of the brain—fifty thousand, and thirty-nine thousand nine hundred and ninety-nine lies.

The small pox patient died.

And more patients of the disease is apprehended, and it is to be hoped, that the people will soon subside (which is more likely) get another case.

INVISIBLE GENES.

MARRIED.

In Nelson, on the 30th ult., at the house of Enoch W. Lloyd, by A. W. Lugg, Esq., Mr. WILLIAM W. GORDON, of Miss ANTOINETTE LLOYD, both of Nelson, Pa.

On the 21st inst., in Wellsville, by A. J. Seefeld, Esq., Mr. EDWIN VANDUSEN of Tioga, to Miss ALURA A. BITTON, of Middlebury, Pa.

DIED.

On the 9th ultimo, near Davenport, Iowa, NANCY, wife of Joseph Weaver, late of Knoxville, aged 55 years.

Also on the same day and at the same place, FRED, infant son of Wm. A. and Adalade Whitaker, late of Knoxville, Pa., aged 4 years.

Min. Weaver, the deceased, was on board the steamer "Wagon Wheel" of the Great Western Company, on her way from Dubuque to Burlington, Iowa, to visit a sister. The mother of Mrs. Weaver, an aged woman, was also on board.

The steamer while coming through the draw of the railroad bridge at Davenport, struck the pier and was wrecked. At first it was believed all the passengers were saved, but it was found when too late, that Mrs. Weaver and one of the child were drowned. The deceased is truly mourned by many friends in this county, by whom she was known and loved.

GROVER & BAKER'S

CELEBRATED NOISELESS SEWING MACHINES, FOR FAMILY AND MANUFACTURING USE, 495 BROADWAY, NEW YORK.

The Grover and Baker Sewing Machine Company, the new manufacturing, and have an exhibition at their different show-rooms, modified making the Shuttle or Lock-Stitch, of the same patterns and at the same prices as their celebrated Grover and Baker Sewing Machines, thus affording the public the advantage of comparing the stitches of the two leading machines and exercising their own judgment as to their respective merits. This is the only company that manufactures both kinds of machines, and therefore the only one that can offer this privilege to the purchaser.

We speak from experience when we say that, after having tried all the principal Sewing Machines, we must, as a matter of fact, of Grover and Baker's pre-eminence. Those ladies who are brought out in this inimitable invention, make it the first sewing machine in the country. Others have their good points, but this combines all, and possesses every characteristic necessary to make it most desirable.

Mean vs. Pretext.—We perceive that the Grover and Baker Sewing Machine is every day growing more and more popular, both for manufacturing and family purposes—but especially as adapted to all the requirements of family use.

Other machines, by dint of brazen puffery and condescending committees at annual fairs, have been thrust forward into the first place; but they are fast losing this unmerited position. The real merits of the Grover and Baker Machine are beginning to be known in a practical way, and daily in the demand for them increasing, while the demand for heretofore better known, but inferior machines, is proportionally decreasing. So it turns out in this, as in many other instances, that honesty is the best policy, and the right in the end comes uppermost.

A trial of over two years enables us to say with the greatest confidence that there is no better machine for general family use than Grover and Baker's Sewing Machine Co. It makes a beautiful elastic seam that does not rip with wear or washing, runs almost noiselessly, is plain, simple, easy to work, and not liable to get out of repair, fastens the ends of its own thread, and sews threads and silks directly from the spools on which they are bought.

Grover and Baker's Machines work in their peculiar stitch, and fabrics put together by it, may wear and warp pieces from original weakness or hard usage, but come apart or give way at the seams, they can not; they will hold together when the cloth or calico around them frays in rags and tatters.

The points we conceive most necessary and important to meet the wide range of requirements in a machine for family use, we find more fully combined in the Grover and Baker's, than in any other machine. Its simplicity of construction, ease of management, advantage of using thread from two spools without re-winding, strength of work, elasticity, durability and regularity of stitch, and quietness of movement. We therefore mark award to the Grover and Baker.—Report of the Legislature State Fair of 1850—also of St. Louis State Fair of 1850.
