Arresta in Mashville "The Gallierata Sheriff." This is the characteristic title given by some of his friends to Col. Myers, formerly of California, who is an agent of the government in arresting offenders at Washville, especially those of distinction. The Sheriff is a quiet looking gentleman, with nothing threatening in his de meanor. The Second can indeed hardly realize the fact when he arrests them; yet, when they discover their condition no actumpt is ever made at rematance, though he generally goes without escort frequently without irms of any kind One evening he rode out in a boggy to the reesidence of General Q. Wm. Harding, and found him riding on horsebark about his beautiful grounds.

"This is Gen. Harding, I believe," said the Sheriff. eriff. "Yes, sir, at your service," replied the President of Harrison's Military Board. "I have some for the purpose of arresting you, "said the Sheriff. With a wild look the General asked, without demanding the reason for his arrest: "Have you arrested Neil S. Brown?"

No; sir," said the Sheriff. .. "Who is Neil S. Brown?

Collecting his senses a little Ben. Harding dropped a subject which was an indvertant confession of guilt. Neil S. Blown was his nesociate on the committee whose business it was to send the young men of Lennesse to a slaughter pen. On his way to the Penitentiary, Gent Harding, it is said, declived he should commit suicide, but for the company of Gen. Warthington in prison. The poor fellows he caused to be hung in Tennessue have no company in their narrow house.

When first arrested the General enquired if Col. M had come alone to affection. "Yes," said the California Sheriff, "and I im unarmed; (opening his vest as proof of the fact!) don't you think one is enough?" Alk this while he held the reins of the General's large. On the prisoner's asking permission to take leave of his fimily, he was directed to get the officer's buggy by his side, and was driven by his residence for that purpose. ARREST OF GOL. JO. CI LD.

Col. Guild was elected Judge of the Chancery District which embraces Samner county, after Tendesse was forced into rebellion. He is a lawyer of some ability, and was abillious locofoco politician. In the work of trasson, no one commenced earlier, or ran faster. When Col. Myers went in search of Old Bally," he took a walk around Gallatin in his usual quiet way, and asked nonge one he met where Col. Guild lived? "Junge Guild?"

"Yonder be goes now," said the citizen, "on that pony." Quickening his page the Sheriff coon caught up, and approaching him, inquired if that was Col. Guild.

"Guild is my pame, sir; what will you have?" "I have visited Gallatin for the purpose of arresting you."

"Arrest me!" said Guild, with well feighned astonishment; "I have done in hing worse than thousands have done in the annty of Sum-

Col. Guild desired to wish his residence before setting out for Anshvill , but our Sheriff was in a hurry.

"But the Court is in session," said Guild ; surely you will allow me to sign the records?
"Yes, you can sign them, lend in them, and sign them at the Provost Marshall office.
The Judge sent for the records and for his

"Yery well," said the lady. "You need not think you can force our people into the Union." We intend to force the soil in anyhow. said Col. Myers, "and if the people can't afford to come in, they had better get aff of it."

THE HISTORY SOREHARD COMMENTAR In the summer of 1798, a young man sinnected with the theatre at Philadelphia as a singer was about to receive a benefit on a certain Monday evening. On Saturday afternoon, previous, he challed on Joseph Hopkins, a rising young lawyer, 28 years of age, with whom he had gone to school witch both were hows. The actor said he had but twanty boxes taken, and his "benefit; would be a less unless in gould get a patrioue, song written to the "President's March," then a popular air. The poets of the theatrical corps and the their binds, but were satisfied that no words could be made to suit the air. Hopking promised to make the attemp.

At the time there was a great discussion in the country as to the policy of America joining either France or England in the war then waged between those to nations, and pasty spirit, ran very high. Hopking endeavored is write a song that should be independent of spil above the interests, passions and policy of both balliger. ents, passions and look and feel exclusively for Amelican rights and honor. He wrote Hail Columbia. It, was announced on Monday morning, and the theatre was crowded to ex cess; and so continued during the season, the song being encored and repealed many times each night, the audience joining in the chorus. It was also sung at nights in the streets, by large assemblies, including members of Congress, and has now become a Namonal Song.
