Fer the Agitator. Slavery and the Constitution.

MR. AGITATOR. Will you please give place to the following article which appeared in the Independent the nummer of 30; hoping it may lead some to investigate more jolosely the Constitution by which we must all hope to see our present difficulties arranged :

"There's a divinity which shopes our ends, Rough how them as we will."

It is well known that the Constitution of the United States is the supremedaw, of the land, and that no State law, or Stage custom, or peculiarity, which contravenes at sapreme law it acts, is brought before the United States Tribunnls; and although they may decide wrongfully, yet public opinion is the last grand earthly resort, and never fails, eventually, to constitute the Supreme Court, so as to decide the knys to be as a full discussion declares they are. It is also well known that the Constitution guarantees that 'no person shall le deprived of life liberty, or happiness, without due process of law," which due process of law is understood to mean a trial by a court and jury. But it has not been mooted that lyery child, though borne of a slave mother, it necessarily born free, and cannot be reduced to servitude, or slavery, without due process of law. For it is also declared in our glorious and providentially made Constitution, that "not State shall pass any bill of attainder," and every law imposing penalties on children because of acts of the parents, would be an "attoinders"

Now the time is undoubtedly at hand when this great truth must be established, that the Constitution of the United States does abolish slavery in all and every State and Territory, over which its authority is rightly established. For this we have not to thank any man or men but that divinity which guided our fathers to do that which was right in itself, and placed the law where it could be formed when God's time for its execution agrived.

The phraseology is most excellent-"No person." The very term used to refer to slaves, or "persons held to service." No State law can override this; no State can establish slavery. Slavery existed at the time the Constitution was adopted, and that was not interfered with. Those then slaves, or sheld to service," were to be redered up each if they escaped into other states; but no state was allowed to pass a bill of "attainder" to make their offsprings slaves, or to hole them to service; and no person could, therefore, be reduced to slavery, or "deprived of liberty, with at due process of law." Their progeny were free by the Constitution, and have ever since been illegally held in servitude, and are now e tytled to their freedom by the laws of God and man. There are many difficulti a to be overcome, many threats of secession to e made, and perhaps enforced, but when the question is fairly raised, it must eventually be decided according to the plain terms of the Constitution; not as understood, but as written; not as heretofore administered, but as the Declaration of Independence would have us infer it ought to be .-And finally we shall agree that truly in our country, all men are born equally, and that among their "inalienable rights, are life liberty, and the pursuit of happiness.

DAVID, SON OF JESSE. The only objection we have ver heard made to this position, is that the fathers did not intend to dispose of slavery in this way, they intended each State should free speir own slaves. Some have followed out their intention. Others, like Pharaoh, refused to lethem go. Now if there is a chance for them; (the slaves,) in the constitution, let them know that under Northern interpretation, the Constitution frees them, and they will become grateful subjects, not lawless insurrectionists.

Why did Mr. Buchanan, in his last message, recommend three amendmentato the Constitution on the subject of slavery, if slavery werealready safe?

First amendment, "An exp us recognition of the right of property in slave in the State where it now exists, or may be eafter exist. T. H. C.

Good.-"Who made you ?" asked a teacher of a lubber of a boy, who had lately joined her class.

"I don't know," said he. Don't you know? You out to be ashamed of yourself, a boy fourteen years old! Why, there is little Dicky Fulton in is only three—he can tell, I dare say. On here, Dicky; who made you?

"Dod," said the infant. "There." said the teacher, Sumphantly, "I knew he would remember it.

"Well, he oughter," said as stupid boy,

"taint but a little time since he was made."

'I do not say,' remarked N & Brown, "Jones is a thief, but I do say that i bis farm joined mine I would not try to keep thep."

AYER'S CATHARTIC PILLS. AYER'S CATHARTIC PILLS.

The sciences of Chemistry and Medicine have been taxed their utmost to produce this best, most perfect purgative which is known to man. Innomerable proofs are shown that these Pills have virtues which surpass in excellence the ordinary medicines, and that they win unprecedentedly upon the exteem of all men. They are safe and pleasant to take, but powerful to cure. Their penetrating properties stimulate the viral activities of the body, remove the obstructions of its organs, purify the blood, and expel disease. They purge out the foul humors which breed and grow distempor, attimulate shugglish or disordered organs into their natural action, and impart healthy tone with strength to the whole system. Not only do they cure the every-day complaints of a tery body, but also formidable and dangerous diseases that have baffled the best of human skill. While they produce powerful effects, they are at the same time, in diminished doses, the safest and best pliysic that can be employed for children. Being sugar-coated, they are pleasant to take; and being purely vegetable, are free from any risk of harm. Curse have been made which surpass belief were they not embestantiated by men of such exalted position and character as to furbid the suspicion of untrath. Many eminent clergymen and physicians have lent their namesto certify to the public the relatibity of my remedies, while others have sent une the assurance of their convigion that my Preparations contribute immensely to the relate of my afflicted, suffering fellow-men.
