Poverty ?.

She always makes the grandest and most beautiful things that we see upon the earth ; it is she who has cultivated the field and pruned the trees; it is she who tends the fields singing the most beautiful airs ; it is she who sees the first peep of dawn, and receives the suits of evening, the good Goddess of Poverty 1 5

It is she who carries the sabre and the gun; who makes our war and conquests. 🛛 🗓 is she who collects the dead, tends the wounded, and hides the conquered the good Goddess of Poverty !

Thy children will cease one day to carry the world upon their shoulders; they will be re-compensed for their labor and toil. The time approaches when there will be neither sich nor poor ; when all men shall consume the fruits of the earth, and equally enjoy the gifts of God ; but thou wilt not be forgotten in their hymns. Oh, good Goddess of Poverty !--George Sand.

THURLOW WEED'S BOYHOOD - Ager over thirty years editorship of the Alba iy Ecening Journal, few readers need to be tol who Thurlow Weed is. Of his boyhood an illiany correspondent of the Rochester Dem rat writes : It is more than forty years since a hid, wayworn and friendless, was trudging on the northern road, and seeking the way to Utica. He was a drummer by profession and had just served out his time of enlistment, which had expired after the battle of Platteburg While the boy was wearily plodding along the regular stage coach passed him, and the driver, himself a youth, noticed him with sympethy, invited him to share his seat on the box. That poor drummer boy answered to the name of Thurlow Weed. He arrived at Utica, and Shere, while learning the trade of a printer, he became the fast friend of the kind stage driver. Years afterwards, when the printer had become a righ and influential man, he remembered the kindness shown him on the road, as evidenced by the kind friendship ever existing between the two. Such was the history gil en us of the intimacy existing between Thurlow Weed and Theodore Faxon.

A SAD FAULT .-- When General Lee was a prisoner at Albany, he dined with an Irishman. Before entering upon the wine, the General remarked to his host, that after drinking he was apt to abuse Irishmen, for which he hoped the host would excuse him in advance. "By my soul, General, I will do that," said hij host, "if you will excuse a trifling fault which Rhave myself. It is this : whenever I hear a man abuse ould Ireland, I have a sad fault of 'crecking his sconce with my shillaly." The General was civil during the whole evening.

A young conscript fell sick and was sent to the military hospital. A bath was ordered. It: was brought into the chamber where the invahid lay he looked at it some time than threw up both hands and bawled flood heavens dector, I can't drink all
