The Tender Pasion.

t. · ...

A pretty little girl, the daughter of a chairstuffer, was put to the bar, charged by her mother, who appeared to be in deep affliction, with having purposed to run away with a Smithfield drover, named Bill Griggers

The mother said that she had a large family of small children, all of whom were exceed. ingly affectionate and obedient, except Susan, who was between sixteen and seventeen years of age, and who degraded herself by associating with the drover.

The Lord Mayor-Does he intend to marry her?

The Mother-She thinks so, but he has no notion of any thing of the kind.

The Lord Mayor-What I will she consent to be the trull of a common pig driver? The Mother-She doesn't know the misery that awaits her, and how wretched her father, who is sick, and I are on her account. The Lord Mayor-What have you to say about this filthy favorite of yours, about causing such distress to your poor parents ? The pig driver will never marry you, if you wish to be the wife of such a fellow.

Susan-He will marry me: He has promised nie.

The Mother-He was leard to swear that he would not marry the finist woman in the kingdom. [Laughter.] The Lord Mayor_Whit? This drover, cov-cred with mud and dirt ?

A person in the crowd-Yes; please you my Lord, he says he has no mind to marry any on 'em as he can get 'em without going to that trouble. [Linghter]

The Lord Mayor, (to the girl)-It is quite evident that his object is to destroy and hugh at you. I hope you will consider the deplorable condition of your poor parents and shun the fellow. I sha'l order his number to be taken, and deal with him in such a manner as will make him remember what he has been about.

The Mother-She says that she will run away with him whateves we may do. The drover is 27 or 28 years old and does not care about OUT SOTTOW.

The Lord Mayor-Well, I shall certainly look after him. In the meantime, this obstinate and mean spirited girl, shall be locked up by herself in the Competer.

The girl looked ashamed, but expressed her belief that Bill meant nothing but what was strictly honorable, and said that if she thought otherwise she would never keep company with him again.

The Lord Mayor-When you do think of any body for a husband, look a little bigher than a pig driver at any rate.
