Manylcareful and prudent man look upon the increase of our national debt with some foreboding. Let us examine the whole subject fairly and see if we are not only able to pay our present, but any reasonable further debt that the exigences of war may compel us to incur, and that the payment will neither be difficult nor excessively onerous. Let us see what are the facts. Unlike an individual who is mable to count with certa ty upon increased ability to pay in the futer 1 the debt he contracts in the present—this or atry is sure to increase in wealth and population. It appears from the census returns, hat the increase in the value of real and p rsonal property in the United States from 1340 to 1850, was from three thousand seven hundred and sixty four millions (3.764,000,0(3) in 1840 to six thousand one hundred and seventy four millione (6,174,000,000) in 1866, or 64 per cent. The next decade shows a still greater advance in prosperity and riches. For in that period, the yield of gold mines, the extension of our railroad system and com equent opening of new fields for agriculture, our large immigration, and the stimulus given to every branch of manufactures and the nechanic arts mised the national wealth from six thousand one hundred and seventy-four millions ($6.174, 000,000) in 1850 to the enormous aggregate of fourteen thousand one hundre and eighty three millions ($14,1830,000,00)) in 1860, or 127 per cent, of which ten thouse nd seven hundred and sixteen millions ($17,716,000,000) good reason to believe that we shall not contime to prosper as we have done-(except from the chances of war, which can only modify and not change the charac er of the answer to the question,)-that the nation will not continue to nearly, if not quite, double its wealth every ten years for several decades to come? We have but just beg in to work our gold mines, and the vast bod in of our other mineral wealth is still undeveloping. We have fertile lands enough for an endire, that the plough has never touched, and it is only in this generation that science and art have fairly begun to open the doore, and show the way towards our future material greatness. But experience of what others have done will best tell us what we may rig otfully expect to do. Let us compare our posit on with that of Great Britain during one of the gloomiest periods of her financial history. At the end of her great wars in 1816, her wealth was estimated at ten thousand four hundred millions (510,400,000,000) and her nutic ial'debt of that time was four thousand three th adred millions ($1,300,000,000) or more than 11 per cent. of her cutire property. In 186, her property was estimated at thirty one thousand five handred millions ($31,500,000 100) while her debt was three thousand eight-hundred and ninety millions ($3,890,000,0 10) or was charge on the property of the ountry of only about 123 per cent. It needs to argument to show that the weight of the burd in of this debt is now, but one third what it was y hen contracted. We do not wish to deceive, urselves on either side of the question. Desit is always bad enough but we should look the facts squarely in the face, and accept ever, deduction we have a right to draw from the n as truth. In spite of the war, we believe the Northern States are as rich to-day are they was three years ago. Such a demand fe labor was never before known, and never by are so well paid. War destroys, but our hand of industry has never for a moment ceased to create, and the creation will more than balance the destruction. Large as our losses of brave jud gallant men have been, the population of the country has stendily increased; and unit a some scourge such as never visited a nation, hould come upon us,-unless we should be . Erly destroyed, or dismembered and broken pieces by yield. ing to this demon of secess in, there is no human power that can arrest our continued progress and development. All wars have ended as will ours. Let us hope that it may be soon: but when it is ended, and triumphantly as it must be, this country is to take a position in population, wealth, and vigor that will anake its debt so small it proportion to its wealth that the most timit an will laugh at the fear that may have one over-clouded his vision .- New Yorker.

HIS important improvement in machines for man HIS important improvement in machines for manufacturing shingles and heading, the inventor has the pleasure of introducing to the public; a machine which has proved itself, beyond a doubt, decidedly the most perfect, the best and cheapest machine, that has ever yet been introduced. As shingles and heading are articles of great demand and of much importance, the aim and object of the inventor has been to get up a machine that would make them as near perfect to the best shaved, and with the greatest dis patch, possible. With much labor and expense he has succeeded in accomplishing his object; which fact is testified to by those who have the machines in use.—
The superiority and many important advantages this machine has over others, are: It has no complicated parts liable to derangement; simple in its construcparts liable to derangement; simple in its construction, yet strong and durable; perfectly safe and easy in operating; does the work in a very perfect manner, equally as well on heading of different kinds—cutting obliquely or otherwise, as desired. The saw running horizontal, cutting lengthwise of the bolt; the carriage traveling only in proportion to the width of the shingle or heading, and are made to cut from 10 to 24 inches in length, works up the timber very close; will cut from 1000 to 1600 per hour of shingles, takes up but little room, occupying only about four feet square, not weighing over 285 lbs.; can be driven by any kind of ordinary power: a very compact maby any kind of ordinary power; a very compact machine to ship. The cost of the machine is small compared with its value.

Nothing that is not wholosome, genial and pessorative in its nature, enters into the composition of HO. TETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS. This popular preparation contains no mineral of any kind, no deadly botanical element; no fiery excitant; but it is a combination of the extracts of rare balsamic herbs and plants, with the purest and middest of all diffusive stimulants.

It is well to be forearmed against disease, and, so far as the human system can be protected by human means against maladies engendered by an unwholesome atmosphere, impure water, and other external causes. HOSTETTER'S BITTERS may be relied on as a safeguard.

In districts infested with Feer and Agae, it has been found infallible as a preventive, and irresistible as a remedy, and thousands who resort to it under apprehension of an attack, escape the scourge; and thousands who neglect to avail themselves of its productive qualities in advance, are cured by a very brief course of this marvelous medicine.—Fever and Ague patients, after being plied with quinine for months in vain, until fairly saturated with that dangerous alkaloid, are not unfrequently restored to health within a few days by the use of HOSTETTER'S BITTERS.

The weak stomach is rapidly invigorated and the appetito restored by this agreeable tonic; and hence, it works wonders in cases of Dyspessa end in less confirmed forms of Indicastron. Actung as a gentle and painless apperient, as well as upon the luver, it also invariibly relieves the Constructive organs.
