Be unaffected, be honest in our speaking and writing Nover use a long word where a short one will do. Cull a spade, a spade, not a well known oblong instrument of manual indastry. Let a home be a home, not a locality; and so of the rest. Where a short word will do, you always lose by using a long one. You lose in clearness, you lose in honest expression of your meaning; and in the estimation of all men competent to judge, you lose in reputation for ability. The only true way to shine, even in this false world, is to be medest and unsssuming. Falsehood may be a very thick crust, but the course of time truth will find a place to break through. Elegant language may not be in the power of all of us, but simplicity and straitforwardness are.

Write as much as you would speak; speak as you think. If with your infariors, speak no coarser than usual; if with superiors, speak no finer. Be what you say, and within the rules of prudence say what you are. Avoid all oddity of expression. No one was ever a gainer by singularity of words, or pronunciation. The truly wies man will so speak that no one will observe how he speaks. A man of show may pretend to great knowledge of chemistry by carrying about bladders of strange gases to breathe, but he will enjoy better health and find more time for business who lives on the common air. When I hear a person use a queer expression, of pronounce a name in reading differently from his neighbor, the habit always goes down minus sign before; it stands on the deficit, not of credit. Avoid, likewise, all slang words. There is no greater nuisance in society than a talker of slang. It is only fit (when innocent, which it seldom is) for raw school boys and one term freshmen to astonish their sisters with. Talk as sensible men talk; use the easiest words in their commonest meaning. Let the sence conveyed be the object.

Once more, avoid in conversation all singularity of accuracy. One of the bores of society is the talker who is all ways setting you right; who, when you report from the paper that 10,000 men were killed in some battle, tells you that it was 9,900; who, when you describe your walk as two files out and back, assures you that it lacked a furlong of it.

Truth does not consist in minute accuracy of detail, but in conveying a right impression -and there are vague ways of speaking that are truer than strict fact would be. When the Pealmist said, "Rivers of viter run down mine eyes, because men keep; of thy law," he did not state the fact, but I stated a truth deeper than fact, and truth. ... lean Alford.

Moral Courage.-Young man, would you become morally strong?-Would you grow up perfectly competent to resist every foe to your happiness, every enemy which may dispute your progress in the way of noble manhood? Would you fit yourself for usefulness in this world, and for happiness in the next? Then lister to the feeblest voice of conscience, calling you to duty and to right. There is no more certain method of cultivating and promoting moral strength than by heeding continually that light which "lighteth every man which cometh into the world." When some specious temptation is presented before you, when there is thrown over it the witching ginze of fashion and show, do you not hear that gentle and prccious voice bidding you look a way and shun the specious temptation?. Thas voice is soft, as the whispers of angels, and as kind as the melting tenderness of a mourner's pure love. You cannot disregard it but at your imminent peril. Every time you listen. With attention, your ear becomes keener to hear, and your strength more competent to resist temptation: It will soon become easy to do right. The charm of temptation would lose its power over you .- Morning Star.

A SMALL CALCULATION.-The following incident actually occurred during the past week. Scene-A Corner Groccry.

Customer-How much are those onions? Dealer-Vorteen cents a pound. Onions very dear now. Pay seven dollars and a half a harrel in the market. And shame too; dare is enough of everything in dis country. Customer-Indeed! seven dollars a barrel? and how many bushels in a barrel? Dealer-Three.

Customer-Only three. Let me see; a bushel of onions will weigh 72 pounds, which at 14 cnets a pound is $10 08 per bushel, or $30. 25 per barrel. Deduct the cost, it leaves you $22 74 profit. It would seem grocers could afford to sell cheaper?. (pauling for a reply.) Dealer (apologetically) -T talks in Sherman nowito dis odder new eustomer. Exit first customer, without any onions, hoping most earnestly that something might be done by the people to check such extortion .-N. Y. Sun.

Dr. Livingstone is as hopeful as ever, and intends to return to Africa, in order to explore the country to the north of the Portuguese .-The Portuguese authorities, as well as the soulmerchants of the coasts, frustrated all his plans, broke up the Central African amission, and armed hostile tribes against the natives whom he sought to win over to civilization. Good heaven! is it not sickening no hear scientific men prate about the supericity of the European over the African skull! In moral qualities, at least, these Portuguese slave-traders are far inferior to the gorilla which is never really vicious unless attacker. Meanwhile, it is gratifying to learn that Dr. Livingstone's negroes cultivate the soil; grow cotton, and weave it into cloth: smelt.iron, and beat it into agricultural and other implements; and even manufacture beer, which, if one may judge from the extent to which intoxicating stimulants are drunk by "the superior race," ought to be unauswerable proof of their capacity for civilization .- London Cor. Indepen-

-OBSCURITY -- You cannot but observe how thousands are doomed to plodding obscurity; how thousands pass from birth to death with no one action of their lives to signalize themselves among their fellows: box like corn they grow, ripen, and are cut down leaving behind them no marks of their best er stence.

Every virtue gives a man a egree of felicity of some kind. Honesty give, a man a good report; instice, estimation, pindence respect; courtesy and liberality, affection; temperance, health; and fortitude, a quiet mind, not to be moved by adversity.

-MARRIED HAPPINESS .- Married happiness is a glass ball; folks play with it during the honeymoon, till falling, it is shivered to peices, and the rest of life is a wrangle who broke it. If an elephant can travel 7 miles an hour and carry his trunk, how fast could be go if he had a porter to carry it for him.
