The "Reliable" Rebel Deserter.

"ManArone" an amusing war correspondent of the New York Leader, thus draws the rebel deserter : A little further on I came to a reliable deserter, who lay on a sand heap so tatching himself. These deserters are very i ice fellows,-As I approached he rose and saluted. "Jes' came f'm t'other side, Ginral," says

"I'm powerful dry," says he. I called an orderly and hade him fetch some whisky. "Now," says I, "how's things over on your side?"

"Wall," says he, "pretty bad. Old Lee he ain't got no men whatsomever."

"I guess you lie," says I. "We felt his line the other day, and it didn't feel good .good. You might just as well tell the truth." "Oh!" says he. "I was only speaking figuratively like. He ain't got no men to speak of-fifty or sixty bundred thousend mebbe.". "H'm that's enough," says I.A."

"Yes, only they ain't good for nothing, ain't got no amount tion."

"They keep up a d—l of a firing," says I "for men without any ammunition." "Waal, yes," says he, "that's what's run the blockade."

"Short of rations?" says I. "Dreadf'l short," says he. "We didn't get only a cracker every three days.". "Why I killed a lot of you up yonder while ago with their knapsacks full,'

"O, yes, that's what they got from the Shandoah walley. They got a heap of food up yander. Fact, they has all they want to eat jes now."

"H'm, you're bound to suit, asn't you?" "O, our ordnance is orf'l," says he.

"Yes," says I, "I s'pose so, But, young man, I've got an ordnance, too, about offal, and I kept it pretty well cleared out of these lines. Now, you'd better clear out. I'go in for treating my fellow men well, but then it comes to • rebels, and lying deserters, av that, I can't say I see it. What do you expect to do around

This is what I call a good specimen of a rebel. He went in for dictating his own terms. I sent him up to headquarters and had him hanged.

A teacher in a Western conaty in Canada, while making his first visit to his "constituents," got into conversation with an ancient "Vermont" lady. Of cour e the school, and former teacher came in for riticism; and the old lady, in speaking of his predecessor, asked: "Wa'al, master what do you think he larnt Unwilling to come under the category of the ignorami, the teacher evasively remarked: " It really did seem strange; but still there are many learned men who teach these things.'

"Wa'al," said she, "if the sirth is reound and goes reound, what holds it up?" "Oh! these learned men say it goes round the sun, and that the sun holde it up by virtue of the law of attraction," he replied. The old lady lowered her "specs," and by way of climax responded : . . "Wa'al, if these high learns men says the sun holds up the airth, I should like to know-

A Boys Prayer.—A Presbyterian clergyman in Northen New York had two smart boys, just old enough to have inquiring minds, but not to discern the reason of things. They were taught to pray, and the efficiency and need of prayer were impressed upon them. Both boys had a patch of "tucket" or 'pop" corn in the garden, and the growing ble les were of great interest, a small reward bein; 'held out to stimulate their industry. One da, the father walking near the path," heard the voice of the youngest solemnly engaged in prayer, and drawing near listened to the following petition: "O Lord, make my corn grow great big, but make brother Sam's grow all little nubbins!"

An Apology.-Senator Chandler, of Michigan, made the other day in the Senate, the following apology. He said: "The Senator from Indiana objects to another statement that I made, which was that the rebels were "hellish," or something to that effect. On reflection I think I have done an jinjustice, and no man is more ready to apologize for an injustice done than I am; but when I apolgize for that remark it will not be to the rebels, but the inhabitants of hell."

It is not the money earned that makes a man wealthy it is what he saves from his earnings. Self-gratifications in dress, or indulgence in appetite, or more company than his purse can well entertain, are equally pernicious. The first adds vanity to extravagance the second fastens a doctor, a bill the long butcher's account, and the latter brings intemperance, the werst of all evils in its tre in.

A schoolman in England has adopted a new and novel mode of punishment. If the boys disobey her rules sheetsads them on their heads and pours cold water in their trowsers
