

The Episcopal Convention.

The Episcopal Convention held in Philadelphia has just closed its labors. The question of thanksgiving for the restoration of national authority created considerable debate in that body.

THE AGITATOR.

M. H. COBB, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR. WELLSBOROUGH, PENN'A.

WEDNESDAY, NOV. 15, 1865.

With malice toward none, with charity for all, with firmness in the right, let us strive to finish the work we are in, to bind up the nation's wounds, to care for him who shall have borne the battle, and for his widow and orphan, and to do all which may achieve a cherishing and lasting peace among ourselves and with all nations.

A DAY OF VICTORIES.

TUESDAY, November 7, 1865, will hereafter grace the calendar of Memorable Days. The open and virulent traitor, the timid and timorous, the sympathizer with treason, and the men who weakly shrunk back, waiting for the cat to jump, all these congenial spirits will remember it as a great day of wrath, in whose flaming vortex a Treasonable Party was swallowed up, as a power, forever.

How grandly they came trooping into the Republican fold!—New York, NEW JERSEY—delivered from the putrefying body of factional death at last;—Massachusetts, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Illinois; a great concourse of States, come to join Pennsylvania, Ohio, Iowa, Indiana, and New England in the battle for universal freedom. Welcome, all!—and thrice welcome New Jersey!

This day of victories teaches the teachable, that the people who have not been in rebellion have determined to punish those whose hearts and lips have encouraged rebellion, by ostracism through the potency of suffrage controlled by healthy Public Opinion. As for the apologists for treason, the right-minded majority will have none of them.

It teaches the teachable that not even honorable service, and scars received in defence of our common country, can recommend their endurers and wearers to popular favor, if lent to the common enemy for the benefit of a faction. The soldier who forgets himself so far as to lead the faction which seeks the life of the nation, which heaped reproaches upon the army and navy for four years—such soldiers may be taught now, that the people will ignore them, even as the recreant soldier ignores his record.

It teaches the timorous, ambitious leaders of all parties, that there is a higher and mightier Controller of national destiny than cabals, conventions, "rings," or any mere partisan management; and it ought to teach timid, timorous followers, of all parties, that the full man can afford to do just right, always regardless of what may come to him personally.

It teaches demagogues, that the power to deceive the people, a power hitherto wielded with too great success by the Woods, Seymours, Vallandighams, Biglers, Brookers, Reeds, Ingersolls, Woodward, Buchanan, and hosts of lesser lights, has passed away, let us hope forever. And this we know, because—

Before this great war came and lifted tens of thousands from the dull level of dependent thought and action up to the plane of independent thinking and acting, the chances are as ten to one that the cunning snares prepared by the demagogues of New York and Pennsylvania, would have caught thousands who spurned them on the 10th of October and the 7th of November.

Yes, the solemn revelations and painful lessons of war have educated the American people for high moral political action more than fifty years of prosperity.

Therefore let us copy the heroic Paul, and, thanking God, take courage. We are thus taught to value the lessons of adversity; for this Red Sea had to be crossed before the nation could be saved from a fate bitter than death.

And by this total rout of the abettors of the rebellion against law and order we ought to be taught that the great war was ordained for a double purpose—the punishment of a nation grown insolent in wrongdoing, and for the enfranchisement of the people.

Henceforth the people ought to have increased faith in the being and purpose of a Providence. Even the most obstinate of atheists must agree that the results of the conflict afford most remarkable evidence of design. He is hopelessly blind, or atheistic beyond hope, who does not accept the evidence.

But above all, let the Republican party be taught by this overthrow of the remnant of a once great and powerful party. While the Democracy championed freedom and progress, as it chiefly did up to 1848, it was invincible to the mightiest attacks of its antagonists. But when it began to truckle to the slave power it began to decay; and after a decade of varying fortunes, marked throughout by the most abject submission to the slaveocracy, it perished from the earth, condemned by God and despised by good men. Its ghost has walked the earth for the last four years, troubling the people, but the victory of the 7th drove the malign shade back to its place.

Then let the victors be warned; for as certain as God rules the universe, if any party strikes hands with wrong, or lends itself to injustice, just so certain will it be swept away, dishonored, despised, and unlamented.

VICTORIOUS EVER

The 7th of November, 1865, rendered ever Memorable!

New Jersey Elects a Republican Governor and Legislature, takes the Oath of Allegiance, and is Admitted into the Union!

The People see the Difference between the Eagle and the Turkey Buzzard, and go for the Eagle!

Friends, the 7th of November was a great day for the Republic. It made the North a unit in support of the regenerated Republic.

New Jersey, 3000 majority for Governor, and a Republican legislature, which secures the passage of the Constitutional amendment abolishing slavery.

New York, 28,000 majority for the Eagle, as against the Buzzard ticket. Wisconsin, by a big majority. Minnesota, ditto. Massachusetts, 50,000 majority. General Couch is couchant.

Illinois voted only for county officers, but went overwhelmingly Republican. It was a day of victories for the Right. So let us make a wise use of victory, and continue to merit it.

Chili has declared war against Spain. Brazil and Uruguay are at war with Paraguay. So there is war somewhere, even if we have a return of peace. War may be a costly pastime, but nations love to indulge in it occasionally.

Even the Mormons talk about leaving war against the United States. We trust the Government will so deal with Southern rebels that Brigham Young may think several times before he puts his threats in force. Better hang the blasphemous demagogue. It will do him a power of good.

A Copperhead exchange says: "We are to have thousands of National Banks, more dangerous to the liberties of the people than an armed foe." To which we reply—we have had thousands of State banks, and most of them chartered by democratic legislatures.—Have they destroyed the liberties of the people? If not, then will banks established on a far safer principle be worse? At present, Copperheads scramble for national currency as greedily as anybody. Why do that if they have no faith in National Banks?

The steamship Atlanta, from Havre, lately arrived in New York harbor with 90 cases of cholera among her steerage passengers. She was detained at Quarantine. Twenty cases had proved fatal at last accounts.

But it is not likely that the disease will become epidemic at present. And when it does become so, it is not likely to prove anything like so destructive as formerly.

Montgomery Blair made a laughable blunder in one of his New York State speeches lately. Said that political Jeremy Diddler: "Altho' I am a democrat I am no demagogue." He should have said: "Although I am a demagogue I am no democrat." What a ridiculous muss the misplacing of a word sometimes makes.

We had hoped that the New York Democracy might prove an antidote to the cholera. It happens that the party shuffled off its mortal coil on the 7th of November, about the time the cholera made its appearance at the Quarantine. The city will have to depend on sanitary regulations for the check of the epidemic.

The Wayne Co. Herald thinks the news from New York and New Jersey will not dishearten the democracy, alleging that its party has fallen into a state of hopeless lethargy. That may be the name for it; but it is the first time we ever heard "lethargy" called "hopeless lethargy."

HALL, of the Catskill Recorder, says that the course of fanaticism is not yet run, apparently. That may be; but we reckon that the course of political villainy made the home stretch on the 7th of November, in New York and New Jersey.

Wirz, the Butcher of our captive soldiers at Andersonville, was hanged last Friday. He died as most great villains do, protesting his innocence. Now let justice have a chance at some of the big villains who stood at his back.

Hon. JACOB COLLAMER, U. S. Senator from Vermont, died at his residence in that State on the 8th inst. An honest man never sat in the halls of legislation.

IMMENSE WOOLLEN AND COTTON MILLS are about being erected in Philadelphia, to be called the "Cameron Mills," in honor of Simon Cameron and an acknowledgment of his great services as a friend and promoter of the industrial interests of Pennsylvania.—Harrisburg Telegraph.

Mr. BUCHANAN, who lives in Lancaster county, has read the proof of his "Last Dying Address and Confession," and it will appear in book form next month. Mr. B. was formerly President of the United States.—Pittsburg Gazette.

The following colloquy took place on our street the other day. "How do you sell your beef this morning?" The butcher replied, "Twenty-five cents a pound." "Twenty-five cents a pound, eh?—have you a bear?" "No, just sold out." "Well, I knowed you couldn't have a bear and as twenty-five cents a pound for beef."—Bloomburg Republican.

The party searching for copper ore in Lewis township, this county, have found a vein four feet thick. The quality has not yet been tested.—Jersey Shore Vedette.

THE NEW CONSOLIDATED BUSINESS DIRECTORY OF NEW YORK, BOSTON AND PHILADELPHIA.

Most conclusive evidence of the popularity of this new enterprise of Messrs. Baldwin & Co., of 64 Cedar street, New York, is the already large and rapidly increasing subscription list, they having secured the unprecedented circulation of nearly TEN THOUSAND copies in the short space of six weeks.

A work of this character is much needed, representing, as it is intended, the vast business interests of the largest commercial marts in the United States, consolidated in one volume. Its utility to business men cannot be over-estimated.

As an advertising medium it commends itself to merchants and manufacturers; its circulation, confined as it will be to business houses, must be productive of good to its patrons. We see that the business men of Philadelphia and Boston have taken hold of the matter with the proper spirit, and are determined that the Empire City shall not be ahead of them in their display of the commercial resources of their respective cities.

The subscription price of the Consolidated Business Directory is five dollars per copy, quarto size, handsomely printed and bound in cloth, gilt embossed. Altogether it will be a fine specimen of typographical skill.—N. Y. Express, Sept. 26.

We most cheerfully call the attention of our merchants to the above work, every one of whom should have a copy of it. An advertisement for them to subscribe for it, the Publishers will insert in the Business Register connected therewith, the Name, Business, and Address of every subscriber. Those who do not want the Directory can have their Name, Business and Address in the work upon the payment of One Dollar.

The Consolidated Business Directory is highly indorsed by the Daily Press of New York, Boston and Philadelphia. Send your subscriptions, Five Dollars per copy, to Messrs. H. A. BALDWIN & Co., 64 Cedar Street, New York.
