FROM THE LARGEST MANUFACTURING CHEMIST IN THE WORLD.

I am acquainted with H. T. Helmhold, he occupied the drug store opposite my residence, and was successful in conducting the business where others had not been equally so before him. I have been favorably impressed with his character and enterprise. W. M. WRIGHTMAN, (Firm of Powers & Wrightman), Manufacturing Chemist, Ninth and Brown Streets, Philadelphia.

[From the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin, March 18.] We are gratified to hear of the continued success in New York of our townsman, Mr. H. T. Helmhold, Druggist. His store, next to the Metropolitan Hotel, is 28 feet front, 230 feet deep, and five stories in height. It is certainly a great establishment, and speaks favorably of the merit of his articles. He retains his Office and Laboratory in this city, which are also model establishments of their class.

The proprietor has been induced to make this statement from the fact that his remedies, although advertised, are GENUINE PREPARATIONS.

And, knowing that the intelligent refrain from using any thing pertaining to Quackery, or the Patent Medicine order—most of which are prepared by self-styled Doctors, who are too ignorant to read a physician's simplest prescription, much less competent to prepare pharmaceutical preparations.

THESE PARTIES RESORT to various means of effecting sales, such as copying parts of advertisements of popular remedies, and finishing with caricatures.

The Science of Medicine stands SIMPLE, PURE, and MAJESTIC,—having Fact for its Basis, Indication for its Pillar, Truth alone for its Capital.

A WORD OF CAUTION. Health is most important; and the afflicted should not use an advertised medicine, or any remedy, unless its contents or ingredients are known to others besides the manufacturer, or until they are satisfied of the qualifications of the party so offering.

HELMHOLD'S GENUINE PREPARATIONS. FLUID EXTRACT BUCHU. FLUID EXTRACT SASSAPARILLA. AND IMPROVED ROSE WASH.

A Very Romantic Affair.

A romantic affair in Concomitanti is noticed by the Gazette, running in this wise: Several years since a young married couple mutually agreed, for various reasons, to separate. To accomplish this end the friends of both parties experienced a great deal of trouble, as it was apparent to all, that the young couple loved each other tenderly. A short time after the separation the young man quietly left the city, and during the long years which have elapsed since that time no one but his family have heard from him. The young lady showed her devotion to her former husband, by remaining single until a few weeks since, when she was united in the bonds of wedlock to a well known gentleman doing business in the city. One day last week No. 2 returned to Concomitanti, and quietly took lodgings in a private house, where there were no other boarders, save a newly married couple. The landlady of the house, hearing of some attention to her new boarder, invited him into the parlor, for the purpose of introducing him to her two guests, who were there awaiting dinner. She approached them, at the same time saying, "Mr. —, allow me to introduce—" Here it ended, and a scene ensued which it would be difficult to portray. On turning round, the lady gave one shriek and fell to the floor. The landlady and husband No. 2 for a moment could not understand the situation in which they were placed, but it is sufficient to say that the husband and wife, who many years before had been separated, were again together. A few moments only were required to explain this matter, and to convince husband No. 2 that his fascinating young bride was a grass widow. He threatened to leave her, and she rather encouraged him in his threat. He did so, and they who were once separated are again united, more devotedly than ever—and so ended what may truly be called a romance in real life.

Paper Boards, Pipes, Guns, and Armour.

We learn from the daily papers, says an English journal, that Colonel Scerelwyn having made it the study of his life to discover the composition of the papyrus of the ancient Greeks, he has now succeeded, by means of this gun, paper can be rendered hard and durable. Papyrus paper boards can be produced of any strength and thickness, and capable of being cut to any shape, like wood, with a common saw. These boards are fifty per cent cheaper than oak, are impervious to insects, and perfectly water-proof. Their strength may be gathered from the fact that they will resist a pressure of two hundred and fifty pounds to the square inch, or even more if required.—These boards are said to be suitable for ship-building, the construction of portable houses, roofing, flooring, coach-panels, boxes, piano and packing-cases, &c. Paper pipes for water, gas, liquid-manure, &c., are produced from the same substance as the boards, and have the same properties. Rocket-tubes, cartridge cases, large guns, and even houses may, we are told, be manufactured of this paper. It can be easily moulded to any form desired, and is capable of being used in mass, without waste, like fusible metal. It is entirely free from moisture, and, while any ordinary paper would corrode iron, this can be made to adhere to, and form a covering impervious to water over it. These valuable qualities naturally recommend the papyrus paper for use as a covering for boilers, steam tubes, funnels, &c.—Among other uses to which it has been suggested that Colonel Scerelwyn's invention might be turned, is that of backing the iron-plates in which men of war are now encased, instead of oak. The papyrus paper is said to have a power of resisting shot ten times greater than oak; and it is an important consideration that it is not liable to splinter like wood.—We believe the government has already directed some experiments to be made on the subject. It is even said that by the use of this papyrus paper alone, of all the materials at present known, can a perfect electric cable be formed.

Briggs has a great facility for getting things cheap. The other day he had a beautiful set of teeth inserted for next to nothing. He kicked a dog.
