VOL. VII

TUNKHANNOCK, WYOMING CO., PA. - WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 4, 1867.

Mucming Democrat,

A Democratic weekly paper, devoted to Poli

Terms-1 copy 1 year, (in advance) $2,00; if

RATES OF ADVERTISING. TEN LINES CONSTITUTE A SQUARE.

REAL ESTATE, PERSONAL PROPERTY, and GENERAL ADVERTISING, as may be agreed upon, PATENT Medicines and other advertisements by with paper, $8

EDITORIAL OF LOCAL ITEM advertising—without Advertisement—15 ets. per line. Liberal terms made with permanent advertisers.

EXECUTORS, ADMINISTRATORS and AUDI-

TOR'S NOTICES, of the usual length, $2,50 OBITUARIES, - exceeding ten lines, each; RELI GIOUS and LITERARY NOTICES, not of general

A vertisements must be handed in by Tu

JOB WORK

pterest, one half the regular rates.

of all kinds neatly executed, and at prices to suit All TRANSIENT ADVERTISEMENTS and JOB WORK must be paid for, when ordered Business Aotices.

R.&W ELITTLE, ATTORNEYS AT LAW Office on Tioga Street Funkhannock Pa W. M. PIATT, ATTORNEY AT LAW OF fice in Stark's Brick Block Tiega St., Tunk

S. COOPER, PHYSICIAN & SURGEON Newton Centre, Luzerne County Pa.

O. D. PARRISH, ATTORNEY AT LAW Wyoming Co. Pa.

W, RHOADS, PHYSICIAN & SUR GEO N . will attend promotly to all calls in his profession. May be found at his Office at the Drug Store, or at his residence on Putman Sreet, for merly occupied by A. K. Peckham Esq.

DR. L. T. BURNS has permanently located in Tunkhannock Borough, and respectfully tenders his professional services to its citizens.

Office on second floor, formerly occupied by Dr.

PORTRAIT, LANDSCAPE,

ORNAMENTAL PAINTING.

By W. RUGER, Artist.

Rooms over the Wyoming National bank, in Stark's Brick Block, TUNKHANNOCK, PA. Life-size Portraits painted from Ambrotypes or Photographs - Photographs Painted in Oil Colors — All orders for paintings executed according to or-der, or no charge made.

Instructions given in Drawing, Sketching. Pottrait and Landscape Painting, in Oil or water Colors, and in all branches of the art, Tunk, July 31, '67-v6a50-tf.

NEW

TAILORING SHOP

The Subscriber having had a sixteen years practical experience in conting and making clothing now offers his services in this line to the citizens of NICHOLSON and vicinity.

Those wishing to get Fits will find his shop the

JOEL, R. SMITH -850-6mos

LTON HOUSE. HARRISBURG. PENNA.

The undersigned having lately purchased the "BUEHLER HOUSE" property, has already commenced such alterations and improvements as will render this old and popular House equal, if not superior rior, to any Hotel in the City of Harrisburg.

A continuance of the public patronage is respectfully solicited.

GEO. J. BOLTON.

WALL'S HOTEL, TUNKHANNOCK, WYOMING CO., PA HIS establishment has recently been refitted an furnished in the latest style. Every attention will be given to the comfort and convenience of those who patronize the House.

T. B. WALL, Owner and Proprietor:

Tunkhannock, September 11, 1861. NORTH BRANCH HOTEL.

MESHOPPEN, WYOMING COUNTY, PA Wm. H. CORTRIGHT, Prop'r

HAVING resumed the proprietorship of the above Hotel, the undersigned will spare no afforts render the house an agreeable place of sojourn to all who may favor it with their custom.

Wm. H. CORTRIGHT.

June, 3rd, 1863 MEANS' HOTEL

J. B. BARTLET, Late of the RBRAINARD HOUSE, ELMIRA, N.Y.

The MEANS HOTEL, is one of the LARGEST and BEST ARRANGED Houses in the country—It is fitted up in the most modern and improved style, and no pains are spared to make it a pleasant and agreeable stopping-place for all, y 3, n21, ly.

BUNNELL & BANNATYNE'S COLUMN

A LARGE

NO paper will be DISCONTINUED, until all ar-

SPRING

GOODS

JUST RECEIVED AND

Sale

CHEAP,

ALL KINDS OF

Produce

TAKEN IN EXCHANGE

FOR GOODS

AT

BUNNELL & BANNATYNE'S

Tunkhannock, Pa.

Hoetry,

THE PRINTER'S HOHEN LINDEN.

In seasons when our funds are low, Subscriptions are provoking slow, And few supplies keep up the flow, Of dimes departing rapidly

But then we see a sadder sight
When duns come in from more till night,
Demanding every "shing" bright,
To be forked over speedily.

Each seal and signature displayed, The holders must and will be paid,

When to despair we're almost driven,

With threat of law and chancery

But larger set the duns shall grow, With interest added on below With interest added on below, Lengthening the chain a feet or so,
While gazing at them hopeles sly.

'Tis so that scarce we have begun, To plead for time upon a dun, Before there is another one. Demanding pay ferociously.

The prospect darkens! on ye brave,
Who would your very bacon save—
Waive, pat ross, all your pretexts waive,
And pay the printer honestly.

Oh, it would yield us pleasure sweet, A few delinquents now to meet,

Asking of us a clear receipt,

For papers taken regularly.

CASTLE BUILDING.

We wandered down the deep ravine we wandered down the deep ravine
When sunset fires were redly glowing,
And all the vale with purple sheen
And golden smokes was overflowing,
The mountain slopes were still ablaze.
The tree-tops burned like waving torches,
And rainbow rays of rosy haze.
Were flushing all the woodland porches,

Beyond, we saw the sunset skies, With gates and walls and turrets builded— Embattled piles that seemed to rise,

Tier after tier, with glory gilded,
0, look my love! what maneions bright!
How rich and grand each climbing story!
Look up, my love! I'll build to-night.
For you and me, a House of Glory! So, hand in hand we rested still,

So, hand in hand we rested still,
And upward looked thro' sunset splendor—
So, heart with heart in loving thrill,
Grew mute beneath the glamour tender.
And thus we built with painted mist,
Our castles grand, from floor to coping,
Until the last low sunbeam kissed
"he gray ravine, and left us-groping.

Ah me, my love! the darkness falls
Full soon, to shroud our brightest dreaming:
And golden roofs and crystal wails
Are based full oft on cloudy seeming.
But, hand in hand, and heart with heart,
We twain abide the twilight heary And wait until the shadows part That hide from us our House of Flory.

JOSH BILLINGS ON GONGS.

Josh Billings relateth his first experience with the gong thusly: I never can eradicate holi from mi memory the sound arms. of the first gong I ever heard. I was sitting on the front step ov a tavern in the sitty of Bufferlo, smoking. The sun was It was exactly so with me, I ran away goin to bed, and the hevens for an hour with your papa, you know, and my parents was blushin at the performance, The Ery objected because of his poverty. I feel Kanal, with its golden waters, was on its the greatest sympathy for you, and Fredwhere I use to liv) and her gondolers and gallus wimmin. My entire sole was, as it grate. I actually grew. There are things "Fred is romantic and papa hates romance." in this life tu big to be trifled with; there are times when a man brakes luce from hisself, when he sees sperrits, when he kin almost tuch the mune, and feels as them in my desk yet. He said he should the he kud fill both hands with the stars die if I refused him." of heven, and almost sware he was a bank president. That's what ailed me, But the korse ov true never did run smoothe, (this is Shakspera's opinyon too.) Just thought so, you know;) I'm sure he ought as I was doing my best—dummer, cum—to sympathise a little," said Mrs. Rich mer, spat, bang, beller, crash, roar, ram, mond. jus jump I struck the centre ov the sideand with another I stood in the middle of to her own room to put the letters into her the street, snorting like an Indian pony desk; and, as she placed them in one piged up as a outdoor oven, mi teeth was as luce as a string of beeds. I thot all ov the crockery in the tavern had fell down. Who had received them twenty years beholden by a string the bottom ov a old brass kittle. He kawled we gently with his hand. I went slola and slola up tu gentlemen happened upon the advertisement, was pleased with the account of the place, showed it to his wife, and the two concluded it was just what they wanted and that they would secure it at once -So he went to the office of the auctioneer and told him that the place he had advertised was such a one as he desired, and he would purchase it. The auctioneer burst into a laugh and told him that it was the description of his own house where he was then living. He read the advertisement again, pondered over the "grassy slopes," "beautiful vistas," "smooth lawn," etc.,

SIX LOVE-LETTERS. "Are there any more of those letters?"

not say "No," and dared not say "Yes," Half a year you have deceived us then, but as an intermediate course burst into tears, and sobbed behind her hankerchief deed, she had; and the girl, trembling and and weeping, arose to obey him.

Then Mrs. Richmond, her daughter's very self grown older, came behind her husband's chair and patted him on his shoulder.

"Pleas don't be hard with her, my dear,"

"Perhaps you approve of the whole af-fair, ma'ma," said Mr. Richmond.
"I—no—that is, I only—" g asped the woman: and hearing Lucilla coming, she sank into a chair, blaming herself dreadfully for not having been present at all her

For all this disturbance arose from a For all this disturbance arose from a you 'ange!, He is romantic, upon my music teacher who had given lessons to word. And what is all this?" Miss Lucilla Richmond for twelve months, and who had taken the liberty of falling in love with her, knowing well that she was the daughter of one of the richest men in Yorkshire. "It was inexcusable in a poor music teacher, who should have known his place, Mr. Richmond declared, and he cluched the little perfumed billit which had fallen into his hands as he might a scorpion, and waited for the others with a look upon his face which told no softening. They came at last, six little white envelopes, tied together with blue ribbon, and were laid at his elbow by his despairing daughter.

"Lock these up until I return home this evening," he said to his wife; "I will read them, Meanwhile, Lucilla is not to see this music master on any pretence." And then Lucilla went down upon her

"Oh, dear paper!" she cried, "dearest papa, please don't say I must never see him again. I couldn't bear it. Indeed I could not. He's poor, I know, but he is a gentleman, and I-I like bim so much, papa."

"No more of this absurdity, my dear," said Mr. Richmond. "He has been artful enough to make you think him perfection, I suppose. Your parents know what is best for Miss Richmond." With which remark Mr. Richmond put on his hat and overcoat, and departed. Then Lucilla and her mother took the opportunity of falling into each other's

"It's naughty of you," said Mrs. Richmond. "But no, dear, I can't blame you.

were, in a swet. I wanted to klime, I felt be no hope, I'm afraid," sobbed Lucilla. "He used to be very romantic himself in those old times," said Mrs, Richmond. "Such letters as he wrote me. I have

"So does Fred," said Lucilla. "And that life would be worthless without me; and about my being beautiful (he

at a band of musick. I gazed in wild con-hole, she saw in another a bundle. dispare at the tavern stand mi hart swell- tied exactly as those were, and drew them

I thot of fenomenons, I that of Gabral fore—and she was now a matron old enough and his horn. I was jest on the pint of to have a daughter who had heart troubles thinkin of somethin else when the lanlord -- unfolded them one by one, wondering knm out to the frunt stupe ov the tavern, how it came to pass that lovers letters him, he kammed mi feres, he said it was music-master had written to her daughter. a gong, I saw the kussed thing, he said A strange idea came into Mrs. Richmond's hav black or green tee, and I sed I wud. by a look or a vord she had never attempted such a thing.

But she was very fond of her daughter. DIDN'T RECOGNIZE IT .- A wealthy man | When she left the desk she looked guilty of Boston, who owns a country residence and frightened, and something in her pockin the suburbs of that city, recently became et rustled as she moved. But she said dissatisfied with it, determined to have an nothing on the subject until the dinner other, and instructed an auctioneer, famous hour arrived, and with it came her husband tor his descriptive powers, to advertise it angrier and more determined than ever. in the papers at private sale, but to con- The meal was passed in silence; then, ceal the location, telling the purchaser to having adjourned to the parlor, Mr. Richapply at his office. In a few days the mond seated himself in a great arm chair, and demanded:

"The letters," in a voice of thunder. Mrs. Richmond put her hand into her pockets, and pulled it out again with a rightened look. Mr. Richmond repeated still more stern-

"Those absurd letters, if you please,

And then the little woman faltered :

shameful pieces of deception, Lucilla," said the indignant parent. "I are shocked that a child of mine could practice such duplicibut as an intermediate course burst into tears, and sobbed behind her hankerchief "Bring them to me, Lucilla," said her father, as if she had answered him, as, inabsurd manner. It takes years of acquaintance and respect and attachment. With your smiles for his goal, he would win both fame and fortune, poor as he is? Fiddle-sticks, Lucilla! A man who has common sense would always wait until he had a commencement before he proposed to any girl. Praise of your beauty. The she said, coaxingly "He's a nice young lovliest creature he ever saw!" Exagger man and it is our fault after all as much as hers, and you won't break her heart I'm such flattery is absurd. 'Must hear from you or die?' Dear, dear—how ab surd !

And Mr. Richmond dropped the first letter, and took up another.

"The same stuff," he commented. hope you don't believe a [word he says. daughter's music lessons during the past sure: Ah! now, in number three he calls

"Those who would forbid me to see you can find no fault with me but my poverty. I am honest -- I am earnest in my efforts I am by birth a gentleman, and I leve you from my soul. Do not let them sell you for gold, Lucilla,"

"Great heavens, what impertinence to your parents!"

"I don't remember Fred's saying any-thing of that kind," said poor little Lucilla. 'He never knew you would object." Mr. Richmond shook his head, frowned, and read on in his silence until the last sheet lay under his hand. Then, with an ejaculation of rage, he started to his feet.

"Infamous!" he cried, "I'll go to himthis instant—I'll horsewhip him!—I'll—I'll murder him! As for you, by Jove, I'll send you to a convent. Elope, clope with a music teacher! I'm ashamed to call you my daughter. Where's my hat? Give me my boots. Here, John, call a cab !-I"-But here Lucilla caught one arm and Mrs. Richmand the other.

"Oh, papa, are you crazy!" said Lucilla, 'Freder never proposed such a thing. Let me see the letter. Do look, papa; it is dated twenty years back, and Fredrick's name is not Charles! Papa, these are your love letters to mamma writen long ago.

Her name is Ludilla, you know!" Mr. Richmond sat down in his arm-chair in silence, very red in the face.
"How did this occur?" he said, sternly and little Mrs. Richmond, retreating into a corner, with her handkerchief to her eyes, "I did it on purpose!" and paused, as though she expected a sudden judgment. But, hearing nothing, she dared at last to rise and creep up to her husbaud timidly. "You know, Charles," she said, "Its's so long ago since, and I thought you might way to Albany, and I was perusin the line botes a flotin by, and thinkin ov Italy pleasing. I wish I could soften your palove with me at first sight, how papa and in a "tremendour roar" "When he has seen the letters there'll mama objected, and how at last we ran away together; and it seemed to me that if we could bring it all back plainly to you as it was then, we might let dear Lucilla marry the man she likes who is good, if he is not rich. I did not need it to be brought back any plainer myself, women have more to remember, you know. And we've been very happy have we not?"

And certainly Mr. Richmond could not deny that. So Lucilla, feeling that her interests might safely be left in her mother's keeping, slipped out of the room and heard the result of the ruse next morning. It was favorable to the young music teacher, Jus jump I struck the centre ov the sidewalk, with another I kleared the gutter, and made her lie down; then went up inand with another I stood in the middle of to her own room to walk, with another I stood in the middle of to her own room to walk and the word.

She coaxed her darling to stop crying, had not gone half so far as elopement; and, and made her lie down; then went up inin due course. ing the nuptials of a wealthy merchant's daughter, with the perfect approbation of Lucilla's father and to the great joy of Lucilla's mama, who justly believed that her little ruse bad brought about all her daughter's happiness.

A SWEET TEMPER .-- No trait of character is more valuable in a woman than a sweet temper. Home can never be made happy without it. It is like the flowers that spring up in our pathway, reviving and cheering us. Let a man go home weary and worn by the toils of the day a gong, I saw the kussed thing, he said A strange idea came into Mrs. Richmond's and how soothing is a word dictated by a supper was reddy, he axed me ef I wud mind. She dared not oppose her husdand; good disposition? It is sunshine falling on his heart He is happy and the cares of life are forgotten. A sweet temper has a soothing influence over the mind of a whole family. Where it is found in the wife and mother, you observe kindness and love predominating over the natural feeling of a bad heart. Smiles and kind words characterize the children, and peace something. Do good, and leave behind and love have their dwelling there, Study then, to acquire and retain a sweet temper. It is more valuable than gold; it captivates more than beauty; and to the close of life it retains all its freshness and power.

A FAIR RETORT —A young lady dressed in a Bloomer costume, who had wit as well as independence, was present at an evening party a short time since, where she attracted the attention of the gentlemen and the sneers of some of the ladies. One extremely sensitive lady, who, no And then the little woman faltered:

"I—that is—I believe—yes, dear—I costume, remarked to the wearer that it pulled out what he supposed to be his eleve I have them,' and gave him a white was a very immodest dress and unbecome watch, but what was really a live frog. beleave I have them,' and gave him a white was a very immodest dress and unbecompile of envelopes, encircled with blue rib-bon, with a hand that trembled like an as "If you should pull your dress up enough astonishment of the young man, and to

TRINGS WHICH ARE BEFORE.

We are always moving and lifting at the stone of of corruption, which lies upon When her father asked this question, in ty. Hem! let me see. Number one, I our hearts, but yet we never atir it, or at an awful tone, Lucillia Richmond could beleive. June, and this is December. least never roll it off from us. We are sometimes a little troubled with the guilt calrepute once said. of our sins and then we must thrust our desires out of our hearts; but afterward, we sprinkle ourselves over I know not what holy water, and so, are contented to let those desires still quietly within us --We every day truly confess the same sins, and pray against them; and yet, we will commit them as much as ever, and lie as deeply under the power of them. We have the same water to pump out, in every dog. again upon us. We make a great deal of noise and raise a great deal of dust with our feet, but we do not move from off the ground on which we stood, we do not at all go forward. Or, if we do sometimes make a little progress, we quickly lose again the ground which we had gained; like those upper planets in the heaven, which, as the astronomers tell us, some-A plain, earnest, upright sort of man times stand perfectly still; have their sta-would never go into such rhapsodies, I am tions and retrogradations, as well as their times stand perfectly still; have their stadirect motions. As if religion were nothing else but a dancing up and down upon the same piece of ground, and making several motions and frisking on it; and not a sober journeying and travelling onward toward some certain place.

VERY GOOD.

A correspondent who dislikes affectstion in any form sends us the following original anecdote:

Dinner was spread in the cabin of that peerless steamer, the New World, and a splendid company were assembled about the table. Among the passengers thus prepared for gartronomic duty was a little creature of the genius fop decked daintily as an early butterfly, with kids of irreproachable whiteness, "miraculous" neck tie, and a spider like quizzing on his nose. The delicate animal turned his head affectedly aside with-

"Waitah !"

"Yis, sah!"

"Sab?" "Bwing me a pwopellah of a fwemale voostah.

"And waitah, tell the steward to wub my plate with a wegetable called onion, hich gives a delicious flavaw to my dinnah. While the refined exquisite was giving is order, a jolly Western drover had listened with open mouth and protruding eyes--When the diminutive creature paused, he brought his fist down upon the table with a force that made every dish bounce, and then thundered :

"Here! you gaul darned ace of spades!" "Yis sah." "Bring me a thundering big plate of skunk's gizzards!"

"Sah ?" And an old jnk pot; tuck a horse blanket under my chin, and rub me down with brickbats while I feed." The poor dandy showed a pair of straight tails instanter, and the whole table joined

FLOWERS.

No sitting room is completely finished place," was the reply. without a few choice plants within it to give it an air of cheerfulness, with their reshness and fragrance. Almost every article ornament and luxury costs money; but these the poorest household may enjoy at the expense of a little pleasant care, the reward of which will surely and speedily follow. It is a constant source of delight to watch the expanding leaves and swelling buds, growing as they do to be at once cherished friends instead of things inanimate, whose influence upon the character is ever refining and elevating, whose lessons of instruction are ever ennobling and purifying. Who that has watched the growing beauty of some tender plant can wonsenger on board a packet ship, it is said der that the French infidel, Compre de sprung out of her berth, and jumped over-Charney, who spent months in the care and study of a delicate flowering plant, was led by its influence to believe in its Maker? They are among the available means that have been placed within reach of mothers and sisters for rendering home attractive to its inmates, and holding them within its walls, leading them into the higher walks of refinement and purity which those who love the beautiful pursue. The lessons which they may teach by means of them cannot be forgotten, even though the pathway in after life may lie among thorns. Thousand of men breathe, move and live pass off the stage of life, and are heard of no more. Why? They did not see a particle of their redemption, not a word they spoke could be recalled, and so they perished, their light went out in darkness and they were not remembered more than the insects of yesterday. Will you thus live and die, O, man immortal?--Live for you a monument of virtue that time can never destoy. Write your name in kind ness, love and mercy on the hearts of thousands you come in contact with, year by year and you will never be forgotten. No; your name, your deeds will be as legible on the hearts you leave behind, as the stars on the brow of the evening. Good deeds will shine as brightly on the earth as the stars of heaven. The other day a young man boarding at the Danforth House, was asked the and broke out, "is it possible! Well, auctioneer, make out my bill for advertising and expenses, for, by George, I wouldn't sell the place now for three times what it cost me!"

As for Lucilla, she began to weep as shorter than mine!" The modest lady, though the end of all things had come at last, and felt sure that if papa should prove from her person, immediately fainted, and substituted the frog for the watch, the young man having taken off his vest and fell into the arms of a waiter.

astonishment of the young man, and to to cover your shoulders, it would then be shorter than mine!" The modest lady, the joke. A waggish fellow workman had substituted the frog for the watch, the young man having taken off his vest and fell into the arms of a waiter.

Wise and Otherwise.

"When you are in Tu key you must do as the Turkeys do," as a lady of great philologi-

Why does a person that is poorly lose much of his sense of touch ? Because he doesn't

Briggs has a faculty for getting things cheap. The other day he had a beautiful set of teeth inserted for nothing. He kicked a

Why is dishonest bankrupt like an honest poor man ? Because both fail to get rich.

President Johnson is going to the Lookout Mountain House.

"Deacon," said a minister, after a heavy sermon, "I'm very tired." "Indeed," said the deacon; "then you'll know how to pity Anold maid's convention is to be held at Little Rock Arkansas, "to gain a true knowledge of the the nature and attributes ofmend?

As Australian is exhibiting in England, who allows himself to be struck in the breast with a fourteen pound sledge hammer.

A chicken dealer in Fulton Market, named Robbins, is said to be worth five million. He tends his own stall.

At a public dinner, Horne Tooke, hearing of the retreat of the Duke of York before the French, gave as a toast, "The brave followers of the Duke of York." "What do you call this ?" said Mr. Jones Smith, gently tapping his breakfast with his fork, "Call it ?" snarled the landlady, "what do you call it ?" "Well, really, said Smith, "I don't know. There is hardly hair enough in it for mortar, but there is entirely too much if it is intended for hash." "What's that a picture on ?" said a countryman in our hearing, the other day, in a print store to the proprietor, who was turning over some engravings "That, sir," said the dealer, "is Joshua commanding the sun to stand still." "Du tell! Well, which is Joshua and which is his son ?" "In a short biographical notice of Pope which I compelled for an addition of his poems," said an author, "I briefly enumerated his prose works, among which I named his 'Memoirs of a Parish Priest." When the positor had set it Memoirs of a Paint Brush!" A man with a very large bald head was complimented on the fact that his caput was analogous to Greenland. "Why so ?" he asked "Because it is a great white bear (bare) proof came before me, I found that the com-

A fellow was told at a tailor shop that three yards of cloth by being wet, would shrink one quarter of a yard. "Well then," he anquired, "if you should wet a quarter of a yard, would there be any left ?"

"I wonder where those clouds are going?', sighed Flora, pensively, as she pointed with delicate finger to heavy masses that floated in the sky. "I think they are going to thunder !" said her brother. A very modest young lady who was a pas-board on hearing the captain, during a storm order the mate to "haul down the sneets." There is something exquisite in the Yankee's reply to the European traveller, when he asked him whether he had just crossed the Alps. "Wal, now, you call my attention to the fact, I guess I did pass risin' ground. One exceedingly warm day in July a neighbor met an old man and remarked that it was very hot. "Yes," says Joe, "if it wasn't for one thing, I should say we were going to have a

"What is that ?" inquired his friend. "There's nothing froze," says Joe. The man went on his way much enligh en-

A schoolmaster in a neighboring town while on his morning walk, passed by the door of a neighbor, who was excavating a log for a pig trough. "Why," said the schoolmaster, "Mr. S. have you not furniture vet ?" "Yes," said the man, "enough for my own family, but I expect to board the schoolmaster this winter, and am making prepara-Two young princes, the sons of Archdake Charles of Austria, had a warm debate in the peror himself. Greatly excited, one said to the other : "You are the greatest ass in Vienna !" Highly offended at the quarrel in his presence, the Emperor interrupted them, saying presence of no less a personage than the Em-with indignation : "Come, come, young gentlemen, you forget hat I am present."