RULES FOR FARMERS .- 1. The farmer ought to rise early, to see that others do so and that both his example be followed and his orders obeyed.

2. The whole farm should be regularly inspected, and not only every field examined, but every beast seen at least once a day.

3. In a considerable farm it is of the utm ost consequence to have hands especially appropriated for each of the most important departments of labor, for there is often a great loss of time where persons are frequently changing their employments, and the work is not executed so well.

4. Every means should be thought of to diminish labor or to increase its power. For instance, by proper arrangement, five horses may do as much labor as six perform, according to the usual mode of employing them.

5. A farmer never ought to engage in a work, whether of ordinary practice or intended improvements, except after the most careful inquiries; but when begun he ought to proceed in it with much attention and perseverance, until he has given it a fair trial,

6. It is a main object in management not to attempt too much, and never to begin work without a probability of finishing it in dae

7. Every farmer should have a book for inserting all those useful hints which are so constantly occuring in conversation, in books, in papers, and gathered in the course of his reading, or in a practical management of the UNDERDRAINING PREVENTING DROUTH .-A neighbor recently expressed his great surprise at the result of an accidental experiment which he had performed this season .-The country, it is well known, has suffered severely in some places for want of rain and the result therefore the more striking. He planted a small field with potatoes, one row of which was immediately over an underdrain. Here he expected to find the soil the dryest, and potatoes dried up for the want of moisture. He found exactly the reyerse-this row yielding about double the others. The drain had prevented the soil from becoming water-soaked in Spring and baking hard in Summer, and kept it loose and porous. The increased depth to which it had been worked in digging the ditch had added to the increase of the crop. This was a simple convincing experiment of the combined advantages of subsoiling and, draining. -Country Gentleman.

TAKE CARE OF THE TREES,-Nothing is so attractive to the traveler as fine country residences; and how much might be added to the appearance of many, indeed most farms, if proper attention were paid to the planting of shade trees in their appropriate places. They are something for the eye to feast upon; they please the imaginator, cheer the heart, and bring with them the associations of happiness. Sociality, refinement, and learning follow in the train of rural improvement. Nothing contributes in our estimation so much to the pleasantness of a place as the presence of trees; and surely no luxury of half their value can be procured for the same price .- Horticul-

How to Freshen Salt Fish.—Many pare just received a large and a splendid stock of persons who are in the habit of freshening kerel or selt fish never dream that there is a right and a wrong way to do it. Any one who has seen the process of evaporation going on at the salt-worke, knows that salt falls to the bottom. Just so it is in the pan where your mackerel or white fish lies soaking; and as it lies with skin and side down, the salt will fall to the skin, and remain there, when if placed with the flesh side down, the salt falls to the bottom of the pan, and the fish comes ont freshened as it should; in the other case it is nearly as salt as when put in. If you do not believe this, test the Cloths. matter for yourselves.

SELECTING SHEEP .- The most approved form in sheep is general roundness of shape and fineness of bone. The chest should be broad, the ribs well arched, the back and loins broad, flat and straight; the limbs should be short in proportion to the body, the head small, the ears thin, the skin soft and elastic, the wool soft to the touch, thick and coming well forward to the face but not covering it. The face and forehead should be clothed with short hair, and the eyes should have a lively expression.

A Correspondent of the Western Rural says that crib-biting in horses is no "vicious habit," as generally believed, but simply an instinctive effort to relieve pain caused by the teeth of the animal being crowded together and that the proper remedy is to run a very thin file between the teeth which press to-

RATS .- Catch a rat alive, smear him with kerosene oil, and let him go, it is said will drive all the rate away. Or, a little coft potash spread near their holes will make their feet smart, and as they seek relief by licking them, both mouth and feet will become sore and the rats will abandon the premises in disgust.

S. E. Cole, Steuben Co., N. Y., says he never failed to cure poll-evil by first "washing the sore clean with warm soapsuds, and then sprinkling on a teaspoonful of saleratus once a day until a cure is effected, which will be speedy.

How to FATTEN GEESE .- An Irish agricultural paper says the best way to fatten geese is to put three or four in a darkened room, and give each bird one pound of oats daily, thrown in a pan of water. In fourteen days they will be found almost too fat. Never shut up less than two together, as they
