Going On.—The temperance reformation in this county seems to be progressing. Within the past two or three weeks, Good Templar Lodges have been organized at Falls, Forkston, Monroe, Mehoopany, Northland and Russell Hill.

The Statement of receipts and expenditures for the County during the past year, makes our columns a little crowded, and limits the amount and variety of our inside reading matter.

Flight.—The usual quiet of our town is now again disturbed by a grand rush of idle men and boys...

Tuning and Repairing.—There are many persons in possession of Pianos and Melodions that have been worn a good deal, or perhaps injured...

A Free Fight occurred at Mehoopany one night last week, which from the accounts given us, was one of the freest of the free.

Magnolia Water. A delightful toilet article—superior to Cologne and at half the price.

The Blood owes its red color to minute globules which float in that fluid, and contain, in a healthy person, a large amount of iron...

Mercantile Appraiser.—James M. Kelly, formerly of Mehoopany, now of this place, has been appointed Mercantile Appraiser of Wyoming County for this year.

The Insurance Conspiracy.—The people of Toga are much excited in relation to the approaching trial of parties to a conspiracy which was discovered last summer to insure buildings largely above their value...

From Benjamin Wheeler, Esq., Depot Master of South Roylston, Mass. "In the Spring of 1855 I was most severely afflicted with a bad, dry cough, with its usual accompaniments of night sweats, completely prostrating my nervous system, and producing such a debilitated state of health that, after trying medical aid to no purpose, I had given up all hopes of ever recovering, as had also my friends. At this stage of matters I was prevailed upon through the influence of a neighbor to try Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry, and before using two bottles, the effect was almost magical. My cough entirely left me, the night sweats deserted me, hope once more glared upon my depressed spirits, and I had attained my wonted strength and vigor. Thus had this Balsam, as has often been repeated by persons conversant with the above facts, literally snatched me from the yawning grave. You are at liberty to use this for the benefit of the afflicted."

Nicholson Correspondence.

Mr. Editor.—After much skirmishing, and great preparations, for the past two months, the second battle between the "Templars" and the license men has been fought, without any decisive advantage to either party, resulting in much expense to the county, and individuals—especially to the prosecutors, and prosecuted—besides engendering much hatred and rancorous feeling between neighbors, that for years heretofore were in peace and harmony in the pursuit of their several callings. As there cannot be another general engagement until April, would it not be well for all concerned, to take such measures as will promote better, and more generous feelings?

It must be plain to all conservative and unprejudiced minds, that to enforce an unpopular law upon an unwilling people, only makes a bad matter worse. It having been admitted by Good Templars and Free Temperance men, that the prohibitory law for Wyoming County was prematurely enforced upon people that were not sufficiently educated to receive it—which has been fully demonstrated; as among the numerous cases tried, not one conviction has taken place. Under all the circumstances would it not be better to take measures to get the act repealed, if not directly by the legislature, have it referred to a vote of the people, by an act of the same, sufficiently early that licenses may be granted at April Sessions in case the vote repeals the act.

We all profess to be Democratic and are willing to be governed in such cases by majorities. It strikes me that a compromise of the kind will have a tendency to bring us back to a more healthy position. Whatever the decision might be, the minority should be satisfied, and no doubt would conform to the will of the majority. At all events the better part of society would have sufficient influence to effect acquiescence. There is no doubt if we are permitted to fall back upon the general license law—which is sufficiently stringent and guarded for the morals of community—if it is enforced—that the prohibitions would command the sympathy if not the assistance in the enforcement of it. Notwithstanding your correspondent is classed among the out-laws, and set down as a drinking looper, &c., by the great Rev. Davidson while delivering his Templar Sermon at the Stark Church on the 18th inst., he will be found at all times in union with those that have the welfare of society in keeping and will aid and assist all good and cooperative men in the enforcement of all just laws.

Certainly; Plantation Bitters will do it when nothing else will. Melancholia, Depression, Hypochondria, Insanity, all spring, more less, from a diseased stomach, and this, Plantation Bitters is a sure cure for. There is no mistake about it; Dyspepsia, Headache, Dullness, Ague, and low spirits must yield to the health-giving and genial influence of the Plantation Bitters. If you are in doubt, make one trial and be convinced. Thus say those who know.

Among the many restoratives which nature has supplied to relieve the afflictions of humanity, there is no more favorable one for a certain class of diseases than the "medicinal gum" of the Wild Cherry Tree; but however valuable it is, its power to heal, to soothe, to relieve and to cure, is enhanced tenfold by scientific and judicious combination with other ingredients, in themselves of equal worth. This happy mingling exists to a remarkable degree in Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry, whose value in curing Coughs, Colic, Bronchitis, Whooping Cough, Croup, Asthma, Pulmonary Affection, and Incipient Consumption is inestimable.

Strong Testimony. From Benjamin Wheeler, Esq., Depot Master of South Roylston, Mass. "In the Spring of 1855 I was most severely afflicted with a bad, dry cough, with its usual accompaniments of night sweats, completely prostrating my nervous system, and producing such a debilitated state of health that, after trying medical aid to no purpose, I had given up all hopes of ever recovering, as had also my friends. PROMINENT CHARACTERISTICS. I.—They are Instructive. As purely literary works, these historical romances possess a high degree of merit. They read like genuine histories.—Catholic World. They are correct descriptions of the countries and the people described.—Herald.

II.—They are Entertaining. We regard these books as among the best and most entertaining novels of the day.—Springfield Republican. The reader is at once fascinated and held spell-bound until the volume is completed.—Ev'ning Post. There is no dull chapter in it.—Utica Herald.

III.—They are Mirrors of the Times. No one can peruse them without conceding the author's great skill in grasping and delineating the characters which figure conspicuously in them. The study which enables the author to delineate so accurately the emotions and intentions of characters which moved men and women of a past age must be close and untiring, and Louisa Mulbach shows in all of her work a penetrating insight into the soul into the very presence of the characters represented.—Syracuse Journal.

IV.—They are Historically Correct. Historically correct, and as entertaining as many of the volumes of Sir Walter Scott.—Providence Herald. Louisa Mulbach must have carefully and delightfully studied the secret histories of the times and countries of which she writes, and her task is done well and elegantly.—Herald. No Historical Novel has been so faithfully and successfully reproduced a complete picture of past times and events.—Utica Herald.

V.—They are Original. It has scarcely surprised readers to find a new writer with such constructive genius and knowledge of character as Louisa Mulbach possesses.—Public Ledger. Each succeeding novel adds to Mrs. Mulbach's reputation as a writer of historic fiction.—N. Y. Times.

VI.—They are Full of Imagination. She is not only the skilled joiner, by a neat-handed artisan, Frederick the Great, Joseph the Second, Voltaire, Rousseau, Byron, Trau &c. the Empress Catherine, walked and talked in their grand robes, but how they powdered their hair, flirted, and took tea.—Register. The choice of her subjects exhibits her genius. She takes the time of Frederick the Great, Joseph the Second, for example, and upon the background of facts which the chronicles of the 18th century, by their dress, their manners, their modes of thought, their language, they are almost as completely separated from us as if they had lived one thousand years ago.—Observer.

VII.—They Contain Anecdotes of Courts. Scottish history offered no fresher and more romantic material than the magic working hand of Sir Walter Scott than the life and the annals of the German Courts.—Evening Gazette. There are not to be found anywhere in human annals, outside the chronicles of the 18th century, materials for romance as vivid as the chronicles of the Prussian and Austrian courts of the 18th century. By their dress, their manners, their modes of thought, their language, they are almost as completely separated from us as if they had lived one thousand years ago.—Observer.

VIII.—They tell of Emperors, Kings & Queens. We learn from her not only how Frederick William, Frederick the Great, Joseph the Second, Voltaire, Rousseau, Byron, Trau &c. the Empress Catherine, walked and talked in their grand robes, but how they powdered their hair, flirted, and took tea.—Register. The choice of her subjects exhibits her genius. She takes the time of Frederick the Great, Joseph the Second, for example, and upon the background of facts which the chronicles of the 18th century, by their dress, their manners, their modes of thought, their language, they are almost as completely separated from us as if they had lived one thousand years ago.—Observer.

IX.—The Style is Interesting. The style of this writer for purity, perspicuity, and elegance, is something greatly to be commended. It is free from imitations, mannerisms, and tricks of every kind.—The Argus. The translations do justice to the vivid, piquant style of the original, and the story is full of movement and crowded with instructive and entertaining incidents.—The Chicago Post. The interest of the book does not depend upon its characters nor its incidents, nor yet on its charming style, but in its general harmony of composition.—Day Book.

X.—Everybody is Reading them. Our people seem to have stopped reading French novels, and English works are complained of as dull. Miss Mulbach freshly supplies the public's want. The novels of Clara Muriel are being read by every one.—Times. Mulbach's novels have a world-wide reputation, and are read with avidity, not only in this charming style, but in its general harmony of composition.—Day Book.
