IMPROVEMENT IN GRAIN.

Experiments have demonstrated, and analogy has shown that the finest and best samples of seed, continued for years, will inprove the quality and quantity of the product. A better wheat is thus raised; even a variety may be established. On this principle, (in farm stock), we have the Shorthorns, the blooded horses and the different breeds of sheep, swine, poultry, etc. Experiments have not been made on the human species; but the same, no doubt, holds good here.

We plant and sow 'as it comes." We take the seed of the same grain that we use in ag gregate, and sow it. Is not this the case almost universally? Corn is an exception to some extent -but why do we except corn ? Because it is handy to select. But why select at all ? Because it is understood to be good. Analogically, then it is good to do the same with wheat, oats, barley, etc. But this is less easily done we therefore neglect it .-How long will it take a farmer to go through his wheat, and secure the ripest and finest heads sufficient to sow an acre, or a quarter - or even a pint of seed ?-This pint sowed will be sufficient to form a test crop. The best heads taken from this again, and sowed will yield another test crop, from which will yield another test crop, from which should be taken as before; and so on for a number of years, say half a dozen, more still better. But three or four years will work a decided difference. But the thing should be continued from selected wheat every time.—

In this way grain can be improved and crops. In this way grain can be improved and crops enlarged. There will be larger grains, earlier rations quicker, digest them sooner, and thus helow.

Farmers' horses that work CARRIAGES & BUGGIES. little during winter time, may be kept cheaper by cutting and mixing bright straw and hay in equal quantities, and adding a ration of steamed potatoes or raw carrots, Colts should be fed liberally on good hay-bright clover is best and bruised oats; give them a roomy box stall in stormy weather and dur. ing nights. Litter freely and let the manure accumulate under them. Sawdust or spent tan make a good and convenient bedding; in cities and villages they are often cheaper than straw. Groom horses well and let them have exercise every day; a run in the yard is excellent. See that stable floors over basements are sound and strong. Arrange the feeding-racks so that dust and hay-seed will not fail into horses' manes or eyes; some horsemen build their mangers too high, thus forcing the animal to take an unvatural and painful position when eating. Farm horses that are not worked should have their shoes taken off, and those that are driven on the road should be kept well shod .- Rural New

HINTS TO FARMERS .- A writer gives the the following advice to farmers which we ful ly endorse :

GETTING WET .- When a person is wet he ought never to stand, but to continue in motion till he arrives at a place where be may be suitably accommodated. Here he should strip off his wet clothes, to be changed for such as are dry, and have those parts of his body which have been wetted, well rubbed with a dry cloth. The legs, shoulders and arms are generally the parts most exposed to wet; they should, therefore, be particularly attended to. It is almost incredible how many diseases may be prevented by adopting this course. APPLE TART.—Take some good baking apples, pare, core, and cut them into small pieces: place them in a dish lined with puff paste, strew over pounded sugar, cinnamon, mace, nutmeg, cloves, lemon-peel chopped small, then add a layer of apples, then spice and so on till the dish is full; pour a glass and a half of white wine, over the whole, cover notice in the best possible prices.
