THE expenses of this government, says a gentleman who has taken pains to make the calculation, amounted last year to a little over a thousand dollars a minute! And the poor had to pay all this! Horace Greeley, Cornelius Vanderbilt, Gerrit Smith, and other noted Radicals, have renewed their bail for Jefferson Davis. Why don't the faithful loyal bow!

Poetry.

WHO ARE THE USURPERS. BY WILLIAM HUBBARD. These are days of rough men, and rough deeds—And I'll use Rough words in the song that I sing, if I choose.

Such as Forney, who stole forty thousand at least! And that millionaire burglar—Ben. Butler the Best! 'Tis with wretches whose garments with murder are red! All spattered and splashed with the blood they have shed!

Dry Goods: MURDERED MOTHER! Thy guiltlessness now is confessed! Such as Stevens—corroded with life-long remorse! Whose sin-cankered heart has been long turned to gall!

Admission of Arkansas. The bill for the admission of Arkansas passed the House on Friday. In order to show how they do things in that body, we will give a statement of the facts.

EM-BARRASSING. A gentlemanly agent of a certain city was collecting fares from the passengers of a very full bus one morning.

A REMARKABLE STATEMENT.—In the trial of General Cole for the murder of Hiseock, at Albany, on the ground of adultery with his (Cole's) wife, the counsel for the accused, made the singular statement that "within the last two hundred years no man has ever been punished by any court of justice, either in this country or in England, for shooting the seducer of his wife, his daughter or his sister, when that motive, and that alone, has prompted the fatal blow."

A PHOTOGRAPHER in Gloucester, Mass., was astonished by a young woman who came to ask meekly, and innocently: "How long does it take to get a photograph after you leave your measure?"

THE Registry Act.—The constitutionality of the Registry Law is to be tested in the Supreme Court, and the 27th of the month has been fixed for the hearing of the argument.

A lady in this vicinity boasts of the possession of a pair of earrings made of "liver," brought from Mount "Veneriferous" during the late "disruption."

COBWEB'S PROPOSAL.

BY HONOR BRIGHT. "I tell you what it is, girls, it would be glorious fun to take advantage of leap year, and propose to some cross old bachelor, and see what he would do about it," said Cobweb.

"But who has pluck enough to do it?" said Lou Wilson. "Who, indeed, but your humble servant," said Cobweb. "Oh, yes, Cobweb can do it to perfection," said Fan Clark, clapping her hands in high glee.

"Well, you did well; better than I could, Miss Reed; and I am glad you have done so, for I could never have had the courage to pop the question, but now you have done the thing—I can only say, I shall be only too happy to accept your heart and hand."

"I don't know; let me go," said Cobweb. "You will tell me soon," said he, as he held her fast. "Promise me, and I will let you go." She promised, and he said, "Now girls, come and persuade her she had better marry 'Old Black.'"

WHAT WILL THE DEMOCRATS DO?

It has been asked, "What will the Democrats do if we help to place them in power?" The question is so well and appropriately answered and so satisfactorily summed up, by Gen. W. A. Gorman, of Minnesota, in a late speech, that we insert the answer here:

"If the democracy get power in the Government, they will reduce the tariff tax on all your tea, and what you drink and wear.

"We will restore the Union, and turn over all the Southern States' expenses to be paid by the South alone.

"We will reduce the army in the South, and send them to the Plains to protect the frontier and new routes to the Far West.

"We will give equal rights to all, and grant exclusive privileges to none.

"We will make pets of negroes no longer at the expense of the whites, nor force suffrage for them at the expense and against the will of those who have created and maintain the Government."

Wise and Otherwise.

An editor, speaking of a large and fat cotemporary, remarked that if all flesh were brass, he must be a load of hay. "I expect I am," said the fat man, "from the way donkeys are nibbling at me."

An old bachelor thinks the trails of ladies' dresses infernal machines, from the fact that a blow-up took place directly after he put his foot on one.

An orator, who had raised his audience to a great height by his lofty sayings, exclaimed, "I will now close in the beautiful and expressive language of the poet—I forgot his name—and—and—I forgot what he said, too."

One day, at a farmhouse, a wag saw an old gobbler trying to eat the strings of some night-caps that lay on the grass to bleach:—"That," said he, "is what I call introducing cotton into Turkey."

An elderly gentleman traveling in a stage coach was amused by the constant war of words kept up between two ladies.

One of them at last kindly inquired if their conversation did not make his head ache, when he answered with great naivette:—"No, madam, I have been married twenty-eight years."

An editor out West, who had served four days as a jurymen, says: "I am so full of law, that it is with great difficulty I refrain from cheating somebody."

"Do you keep matches?" asked a would be wit, of a retail dealer.

"Oh yes, all kinds," was the reply.

"Well, then, I guess I'll take a trotting match." The retailer immediately handed him a box of Brandt's pills.

Kraatslett's wife discovered her old hen setting in the back yard, and "burst up her nest." Soon after the poor woman came in much excited and said—"My dear Kraatslett, I took the eggs from 'Brownie,' and she has gone and set onto an old meat axe."
